Supreme Court Upholds Legality of Truck Law

The legality of the so-called truck-bus law passed in the last session of the legislature was upheld this week by the Supreme Court in denying a temporary injunction filed by the Schwartzman Truck Company against the P. S. C. Which means that some 600 truck operators will soon learn whether or not they will receive certificates of public necessity and convenience.

J. C. McDowell In State Senate Race; Is Outstanding Lawyer

Prominent Democratic Attorney-Farmer Advocates Lower Cost of Government and Reduced Taxation, Declaring It Most Important Question Before People

J. C. McDowell, prominent Charleston attorney and former Cape Girardeau County farm boy, has announced his candidacy for the office of State Senator from the 23rd Senatorial District in the Democratic primary, August 2. Urged by influential men of the district, Mr. McDowell enters the race with a background of experience and a personal record that qualifies him for the office.

He is a son of Southeast Missouri soil, being born on a farm in Cape Girardeau County, March 20, 1890. He received his early training and education on his father's farm and in the rural schools of that county. A graduate of the Southeast Missouri State Teachers' College and the Law Department of the University of Missouri, he began his career of service in the public schools of Missouri, teaching four years.

Since 1916, when he was admitted to the bar, Mr. McDowell has been engaged in the active practice of law and farming. He came to Mississippi County, June 12, 1917, and established his office in Charleston, continuing as a farmer when his legal practice permitted. He later became associated in the prosecuting attorney's office, acting as assistant prosecuting attorney two years. He was then elected prosecuting attorney of this county three consecutive times, serving until 1925.

McDowell, inheriting the ideals of Democracy and cherishing them by personal conviction, has served his party well. He acted as chairman of the Democratic County Committee for many years, resigning his post early this year.

He is a staunch advocate of tax reduction and believes that the greatest benefit that can be rendered the State at this time is to reduce the cost of government, since the burden is becoming too heavy for people to bear. The candidate considers taxation the most important question in the campaign.

If elected to the office, Mr. McDowell would be the first State Senator from Mississippi County during the last half century. His record in the legal profession and his many other qualifications mark J. C. McDowell as one of the outstanding candidates in the State Senatorial race.—The Charleston (Mississippi County) Democrat, June 10, 1932.

MOTHER SENDS SON TO PRISON

David Absher of Risco was arrested on a charge of common assault and is now in the County jail awaiting Judge Duncan to revoke his parole. Absher was given a sentence of two years in the penitentiary at the January term of Circuit Court and was paroled. He was taken into custody on complaint of his mother, who signed the complaint.

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL NEWS

Mrs. Will Hayden was removed to the hospital Tuesday night for observation and treatment.

Yesterday morning, Adrian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Wornik of Matthews avenue, had his tonsils removed. He was reported to be doing nicely.

A birthday party was given Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 5:30 o'clock for Marilyn Ester Arthur at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Arthur, 404 Moore Avenue. This was Marilyn's fifth birth anniversary and the following guests were present to help her celebrate the occasion: Barbara and Ellen Sensenbaugh, Betty Hirschberg, Pat Ellis, Grace Marie Sitzes, Jane Wilkerson, Sara Sue Keller, Virginia Perigo, Betty Jo Anderson, Jackie and Dorothy Gentry, Betty Matthews, Lala Lee Ellis, Norma Lee Cates and Nine Verna Taylor.

I. O. O. F. Lodge May Convert Old Dempster Building Into Modern Motion Picture Theatre

Tentative plans to file papers of incorporation for a motion picture theatre, and of remodeling the building vacated recently by the Dempster Furniture Company to house the new project, were formulated at the regular meeting of the Sikeston chapter of Odd Fellows Tuesday evening this week. The lodge owns the two-story corner building and an adjoining one-story annex, located on Kingshighway and Center Streets.

No definite step was taken at the meeting Tuesday evening, but according to one of the members, the lodge plans to form a croporation, remodel the lower floor of the corner building, and install modern theatre equipment.

George L. Dye, Grand Master, stated Thursday that a committee might go to St. Louis soon to purchase equipment and fixtures.

"Agent" Mapping Semo Towns Defrauds Canalou and Kewanee Merchants; Departs Monday

By J. HULS, JR.

Special to The Standard

Matthews, Mo., July 28.—A man posing as a survey mapping chief with the Coast & Geodetic Survey service of the government, last week defrauded Kewanee and Canalou merchants and townsmen while engaged in "mapping" the towns mentioned.

H. B. Hanson, alias L. M. Gibbs, alias S. P. Varner breezed into Canalou Sunday, July 17, and established himself as a Coast and Geodetic Survey expert. He had been delegated to make accurate maps of Canalou and Kewanee, and could he get local labor at 35 cents an hour?

He could and did. He obtained the services of young Opal Ralph, a Canalou boy, who worked out $25 worth of time and received exactly $5.00 in cash for his efforts. He did get a number of free rides over the territory.

Mr. Hanson, Varner or Gibbs left his trail of woe dropping an $8 gasoline bill and $11 in insufficient funds checks with Walter Moore of Canalou. Sam Ralph, he tapped for a tenner, "just to tide him over 'till the government sends the pay check". The same gag was worth $5 in cash from Marvin Ralph.

Last Monday, July 25, the alleged government agent told his faithful employee young Ralph to continue checking up a corner of Kewanee, while he drove to New Madrid "to get a suit pressed".

Ralph continued to check up Kewanee until the 12:05 Frisco, which he rode to Canalou, and reported the absence of his boss.

Mr. Hanson-Varner-Gibbs is still absent. When last seen, he was driving a new, 4-cylinder Ford equipped with "Air wheel" tires, and a radio.

Messrs. Moore, Ralph, Ralph & Ralph are also still parted from their hard-earned cash and merchandise. Stake cards carried by the agent were imprinted with "Central States Engineering Co." No address was given.

Readers of The Standard will recall a similar stunt worked by a number of men in several communities. Last fall and winter one Illinois and two Missouri communities were similarly fleeced, by men who claimed to have authority to "clear section lines" for a government survey party.

The same general idea was carried out in the several money-making schemes. In one, the "government agent" had a crew of 50 or 75 men engaged at $5 per day, or $7.50 with team and wagon. Farmers who lost valuable timber were promised a certain amount depending upon the size of tree felled and destroyed.

After staving off the inevitable pay-day with excuses, and meeting a part payment of the payroll by borrowing money from the hotel keeper and fellows in the work gang, the "agent" skipped.

Government Department of Justice agents finally rounded up two gentlemen.

Entire Ballot Not Invalidated By One Voting Mistake Missouri Attorney General States

The fact that one portion of the lengthy ballot for the August 2 primary election is voted incorrectly does not invalidate the entire ballot, according to a ruling received from the office of Attorney-General Stratton D. Shartel by County Clerk Eldon Palmer of Butler County.

The ruling came as the result of a request from Palmer, who asked Shartel the question specifically with reference to the congressional race. Palmer asked, in effect, if an individual voted for 14 congressmen instead of the legal 13, would this action invalidate the entire ballot and cause it to be discarded. Shartel said it would not. His letter to Palmer follows:

July 19, 1932.

Hon. L. D. Thompson,
State Auditor,
Jefferson City, Mo.
Dear Sir:

In your letter of July 18, 1932, you state:

"Please give me your opinion on the following:

"If a voter voting in the August 2 primary leaves 14 names on the Congressional ballot, will this cause the voter to lose his entire ballot for State and County and Congressional candidates?"

It is the opinion of this department that a voter voting in the August primary, who leaves the names of 14 or more candidates for Congressmen-at-large on his ticket, will thereby nullify his ticket only insofar as candidates are concerned. His ballot, if proper and valid as to candidates for other offices should be so counted.

Respectfully yours,
ALBERT MILLER,
Assistant Attorney General

New Madrid Officer Finds Pair Charged With Attack On Aged Negro Man With Boat Oar

Special to The Standard

New Madrid, July 27.—Buster Ward of Marston and Jim Pernell of New Madrid, who some months ago were charged with an attack upon Eddie Brown, local negro with an axe and boat oar, were apprehended by George Babcock, chief of police, and lodged in the county jail.

Ward was arrested here Saturday and Pernell was picked up Tuesday, this week.

Brown, the victim, is now in the Veterans' Hospital, St. Louis, suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries.

He may never fully recover from the assault, according to physicians.

Ward and Pernell fled following the crime. No motive was given.

The defendants will be given a preliminary hearing next week before Squire Hunter.

Sikeston Community "Dry" Although Tuesday Rain Soaks Area North, East and South

Heavy showers accompanied by strong winds soaked parts of Cape Girardeau County, crossed the river into Pulaski County, Illinois, and relieved the situation south of the Matthews lane in this section of the country last Tuesday.

Heavy cloud, bellowing thunder and lighting the heavens with a brilliant display of lightning formed north, threatened for a few hours, and then disappeared leaving the Sikeston district as dry as a W. C. T. U. rally.

The storm threat here did, however, drop the unusually high temperature temporarily, and allowed one good nights' sleep in a week of 99 to 100-degree weather.

According to the State weather report for the week ending Tuesday, rains scattered over wide areas of Missouri relieved a critical situation for corn. A State average of 1.01 inches fell after sixteen unfavorable days which fired even the best fields and resulted in damage ranging as high as 20 to 30 per cent in some localities, says the weekly weather summary.

It is believed the rains, which found 90 per cent of the corn in the critical silk and tassel stage, will enable the crop to recover from damage.

Threshing of small grains was rushed despite the heat, but other farm work was at a standstill, the report continued. Pastures and meadows were dry and bare, truck and gardens suffering, and stock water was scarce as streams were failing. The Ozark potato crop generally is poor. Cotton, however, looks fine and is growing fast.

Showers varying in amount from .04 at Unionville to 3.90 inches at Arcadia, were reported from each of the State's 26 stations. Warsaw reported the maximum temperature of 104 degrees, while a minimum of 60 was reported at Chillicothe.

The season's rainfall of 10.95 inches is 5.25 inches below normal and while some northern counties now are well supplied with moisture, large portions of the State have little or no reserve soil moisture.

Getting back to our own district, Cape Girardeau reported a storm Tuesday night, which felled trees, and damaged power and telephone lines. Approximately .60 inches of rain fell.

Benton community also reported a valuable rain beginning about 4:00 a. m. and lasting about three hours. Jackson and Perryville also reported rains accompanied by high winds.

The weather chart since July 22, when the mercury reached 100 follows:

	Hi	Lo	Rain
22	100	75	.10
24	93	71
23	90	68

PRISON NUMBERS ON SHIRT BRING ARREST OF MAN AT CHAFFEE

Chaffee, July 27.—Geo. Lakes, escaped convict, was captured here Tuesday night in a Frisco Railroad freight car, when Special Agent Patterson of the Frisco Railroad saw a number printed on his undershirt. The special agent was clearing a box car of men, and noticed the undershirt of one of them bore numbers like those on prison garb. Prison officials at Jefferson City were advised and guards were sent here today to return him.

Lakes admited being an escaped convict, leaving the intermediate reformatory near Jefferson City last Thursday with another man, Fred Hale, serving from Madison County, who is still sought. Lakes was serving two years from Clay County.—Cape Missourian.

CLYDE WILLIAMS

Twice elected to Congress, in '26 and '30, Mr. Williams last term was a member of the powerful Committee on Banking and Finance. Born and reared on the farm he knows the problems of agriculture first hand. A close student of the law and the functions of government, he knows the economic, industrial and social needs of the country. He has ever been a true friend of the laboring man, and has made a success of his own business affairs. By education, by training and experience, he is qualified to represent this district in Congress.

He stands squarely on the Democratic platform.

NEGRO COUPLE ASSAULTS ALLEGED "VOODOO" DOCTOR

New Madrid, July 27.—John Black of New Madrid, negro, was bound over to the Circuit Court on a charge of felonious assault, growing out of an altercation with James Robinson, negro, when it was alleged that Black and his wife assaulted Robinson, Black with a club and his wife with an axe, in which a large scalp wound was inflicted on Robinson.

According to Black and his wife, Robinson is a "Voodoo" negro and had put the "voodoo" on them. They claim he almost ran them crazy, and in an endeavor to break the "voodoo" spell, they assaulted Robinson. Robinson disclaims to be a "voodoo" doctor, but that the spirits of the Lord was working the devil out of the defendants.

Both families live in the same house near the Washout, near New Madrid. Black's wife is ill at present and has not as yet been able to attend Court for her preliminary hearing.

DEVICES FOR MAKING LIQUOR NOT UNLAWFUL

Springfield, Ill., July 27.—Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom roled today that mere possession of articles which might be used for manufacture of intoxicating liquor did not constitute violation of the State prohibition law.

The opinion was sequested by State's Attorney R. C. Rice of Galesburg, Ill., in the case of the American Malt Products Company, which displayed for sale, Rice said, bottles, jugs, kegs, malt extract, apricot, peach and burgundy flavoring and other articles.

"Since all the articles you mention may be sold and used for a legal purpose", Carlstrom declared "the mere possession of the same is not of itself a violation of law".

Proof that such articles were being purchased and used for illegal manufacture of intoxicating liquor would be necessary, the Attorney General states, for conviction under the Illinois laws.

Of late we have had little time to think of the past or the future, but since all of our children and grandchildren are up and improved in health, we can let our mind work just a little. Thinking of the past and now close on to the allotted time allowed—three score and ten—and knowing now the care, worry and expense, if we were assured by some power unknown, to turn back our years to that of our youth, and live it all over again, or travel on down the lane into the twilight just ahead where in our old age we can be with our flowers, rest and dream, we would hesitate to have it all to live our life again. If we could live our life over again, and know as much about life as we now do, we would live different in many respects. We would be more patient with our little ones, would try to bring sunshine and happiness to more people and less worry to our own. We wonder, too, if the truth was known, if there are not many people in just the same condition of mind as we. Well, we enjoy life in a modest way and have no complaint to make, but wouldn't turn back the hands of time if we could.

It is the time of year to do something about the dog nuisance about town. Few have paid license, and all are dangerous in hot weather. The Standard recommends Fred Briggs as the proper man, give him unlimited power and plenty of bologna, let him go as far as he likes in his work, furnish him a place in the bone yard to lay away the remains. Also, empower him to catch all the frogs that sing in city fish ponds much to the annoyance of neighbors.

This issue of The Standard is not a shake-down proposition by any means, but a genuine help to candidates who wish to place their platform and candidacy before the voters of Mississippi New Madrid and Scott Counties. It is the cheapest way to get before more voters for less money than any other way. There are a trifle more than 10,000 copies issued and that many ordinary candidates cards would cost more money. You can rest assued the office force has been plenty busy and the paper will be out on time.

But one of the best wheezes of the week comes from Evanston, Ill., and it is about a horse that had been owned by the city for many years, used in the last part of his life to haul a garbage wagon. Sandy was known as a most inexpnesive animal to keep, rarely needing more than a forkful of hay and perhaps a pint of oats at a meal. But, grown old and feeble, the police sought to do away with him, hence detailed a member of the force to take him out near the incinerator, where he had so often gone with the kitchen refuse in tow, there to have his life ended by a bullet. But having arrived at the appointed spot, Sandy calmly took a last look around the familiar scene, lay down with a content sigh and passed out. Always economical, he had saved his beloved owners the cost of the bullet.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

Francis M. Wilson

Democratic Candidate for Governor

To the Democracy of Missouri:

On August 2nd next, Democrats of Missouri select their candidate for governor. It is important that he receive the united support of our party in the approaching general election. It is clear that Democrats who desire a Democratic governor want harmony and not strife in Democratic ranks. After the August primary comes the all important November election.

Throughout the primary campaign I have repeatedly stated that I am not fighting my Democratic opponents but reserving the battle for our common enemy, the leaders of the Republican party. My attitude toward present opponents is the same as in my primary campaign in 1928, when nominated for governor by a plurality of 185,313, carrying 110 of the 114 counties and the City of St. Louis. In the general election I led both national and State tickets by sizeable majorities but was defeated in the unprecedented Hoover landslide of that year. Since that election I have been engaged in superintending the upbuilding of my rather extensive farming interests in my home county of Platte.

Again I am asking support of the voters solely on the ground of qualifications to hold the high office of governor. I do not think particularly in times like these, that political support should be extended any candidate for governor for either personal reasons or because of geographical location.

I have made no secret promises, pledges or commitments of any kind and whatever pledges or promises I have made, or will make, will be publicly made to all the people of the State. I regard promises of positions, or "jobs" in return for political support to be the lowest form of political bribery.

If nominated and elected I solemnly pledge you that I will be no cog in any political machine, nor controlled in my official duties by any man or group of men, nor have an eye to any other political office. He who becomes Governor of Missouri, must be free and not fettered to give his best efforts to the advancement of our State.

The Avenue to Revenue

The production of raw milk provides the farmer with a sure source of income . . . The agricultural community of Southeast Missouri is fortunate in that it is an ideal dairying community in close proximity to a growing market.

The farmer who overlooks these natural advantages and fails to devote a fair share of his effort to raw milk production is overlooking one of his greatest opportunities to show a profit on his investment of time and money. The raising of more dairy cattle should be the aim of every farmer in this territory. It opens the "avenue to revenue" for more milk means more farm profit.

S. A. Presson, the watermelon king of Bertrand, informs us that he expects to have the first melons of his variety on the market August 6. The lack of moisture will cut the crop and the size considerably but he expects to have a good yield at that. The melons that he produces can hardly be beaten for flavor and meat free of white streaks.

Now that the postal rate has been hiked 50 per cent and 3 cents is required for a letter where two formerly sufficed, a writer remarks that leaving the rate at one cent on postal cards may not be so good for the department. It may reduce the amount spent for letters —and another thought is that it may require an increase in the personnel of the various post office forces. It will take so much longer for the emptors to read all the postal cards, you know.

The drys are putting forth mighty efforts to defeat every Congressman running on the Democratic platform. We don't believe the voter lives who believes the present prohibition laws can be enforced, so, for one, won't intend to vote for a man running for Congress classed as a dry. Those who are classed as wets are: E. L. Padberg, Walter Burch, Lee B. Ewing, Houston Crittendon, J. R. Grant, Charles E. Dewey, John D. Taylor, L. L. Collins, J. J. Cochran, P. Kinsella, J. H. Dickbrader, S. M. Watson, Frank H. Lee, F. B. Barhost, C. B. Burns, J. A. Graff, J. R. Claiborne, Ewing Cockrell, J. E. Ruffin, Clyde Williams, R. T. Young, J. B. Shannon, R. P. Elam, J. S. McGee, Gray Snider, R. L. Holliway. The drys say they favor submitting the question to the voters but will fight it at every step. For United States Senator, Bennett Clark is an outspoken wet, while Howell is as wet as is not so emphatic. Hay is dry and will vote for submission but will fight and vote against it.

Speaking of freight rates, how's this:

1 case writing paper rate 69c.
1 case sample books, rate 98c.

We wish some smart person would give us one good reason for the difference in the same crew loaded the shipment, it came in the same car, hauled by the same engine, from Memphis to Sikeston, and was delivered by the same dray truck. The sample books were encased in a steel cabinet, boxed in wood, the writing paper merely crated with light boards.

PROF. ELLISE INVITES RURAL GRADS TO COME TO SIKESTON SCHOOLS

Sikeston school authorities expect to maintain the same high standard of work this coming year as in the past, reads an announcement by Roy V. Ellise, superintendent of Sikeston schools.

Mr. Ellise continues with the statement that more and better courses are offered here than in any school within a thirty-mile radius. Rural graduates are invited to attend high school here and parents are urged to move here to educate their children. The faculty has attended nearly thirty colleges and universities in a dozen States, and are sufficiently broad in their attitude and preparation. Call on Superintendent Ellise for further information.

Miss Monteen McCann of Chicago is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Matt McCann, and uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Withrow and daughter, Evadna, of this city. She will remain here for an indefinite time and expects to enter school here in Fall.

FILLING STATIONS ACCOUNT FOR 38% OF GAS SALES

A recent report of the United States Department of Commerce shows that filling stations make up only 38.2 per cent of all retail outlets for gasoline. In rural areas and towns of less than 10,000 population, gasoline retailers other than filling stations are extremely numerous, the report shows. Gasoline pumps are operated by 38,536 general stores, 34,455 grocery and food stores, 3568 restaurants, 2085 hardware stores, 1795 auto owners' supply stores, and 3748 other stores.

CHAIN STORES EXPAND BY ABSORBING OTHER ORGANIZED BUSINESS

According to studies made by the Federal Trade Commission, the chain story inquiry, chain store systems have shown a tendency throughout their history to buy up other chain stores rather than independent ones, and the Commission reports that acquisitions as a whole were predominantly of chain stores rather than of independent stores and only in case of drug, grocery and general and meat, general merchandise, and men's and women's shoe chains were more than 50 independent stores apparently acquired by chains.

"In the public discussion of this subject the 'chain' has been properly assigned an important role in reducing the number of independent stores, either through hastening them out or by having them withdraw from business as a result of chain competition."

The question is raised, however, as to whether future growth of the chains will be as rapid as hitherto".

CLARK, FIT AND AVAILABLE

There are two tests by which to measure a senatorial candidate, finess and availability.

The candidacy of Bennett Champ Clark for the Democratic senatorial nomination gathered strength in the first place because of his superior availability. As a matter of fact, his first claim upon his party, and the State's claim upon him, rest upon his superior fitness.

Fitness is sometimes mistaken for availability. For instance, it has been noted with some surprise that the early campaign addresses of Colonel Clark set forth policies which later were embodied in the Democratic national platform. This was true not only of his demand for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, but of his economic policies, his attitude toward the tariff, toward the money power in politics, toward taxation.

Politicians said, "What a coincidence! That makes him more available for the nomination". True enough, but why was there this coincidence? Because of qualities of leadership which put Colonel Clark ahead of most other men in recognizing the necessary readjustments in our national life. The qualities that made him a leader in the campaign would make him a leader in Washington.

Anybody who surveys the Missouri senatorial campaign dispassionately will be impressed with this comparison between Colonel Clark and his two leading adversaries:

1. Colonel Clark has both fitness and availability.
2. Charles M. Hay has fitness, but lacks availability.
3. Charles M. Howell has neither fitness nor availability.

The only serious difference of opinion between Colonel Clark and Mr. Hay is over repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Both are progressive Democrats, with Colonel Clark sounding a more stirring note. But every informed politician knows that, with national conditions favoring the Democrats, Colonel Clark is 40,000 votes stronger than Mr. Hay in St. Louis. That is the difference in their availability.

What is there to the candidacy of Charles M Howell? Not a thing, except the boast of Boss Pendergast that he can produce a majority of 60,000 in the Kansas City primaries for any man, living or dead, he chooses to support. That may be true. But he can't produce the Democratic, independent and Republican votes necessary to elect any such nominee. The revulsion against the effort to plant both United States Senatorships in Kansas City would turn tens of thousands of votes against Howell. His record as an insurance lobbyist would turn other thousands against him. The nature of his St. Louis support, by a discredited committee using riverward tactics, would turn both city and State against him. The charges made against the Howell candidacy would not be dropped after the primary. If he were nominated, but gather intensity, because they are charges which reflect his lack of fitness for the highest office in the gift of this State.

What do the Clark, Hay and Howell candidacies mean for the Democratic presidential and congressional tickets?

The nomination of Mr. Howell would be a drag upon the entire Democratic ticket both in St. Louis and throughout the State.

The nomination of Mr. Hay would prevent St. Louis from going Democratic on the Senatorship, and might defeat the Democratic congressional nominees in the State-wide election.

The nomination of Colonel Clark, under existing national conditions, would produce a political overturn in St. Louis, and carry the entire Democratic State and National ticket to a landslide victory.

If the Democrats of Missouri want to win, they will nominate Bennett C. Clark. If they want to repudiate their national platform and support prohibition, losing St. Louis, they will nominate Mr. Hay. If they want to commit suicide, they will nominate Mr. Howell.—St. Louis Star.

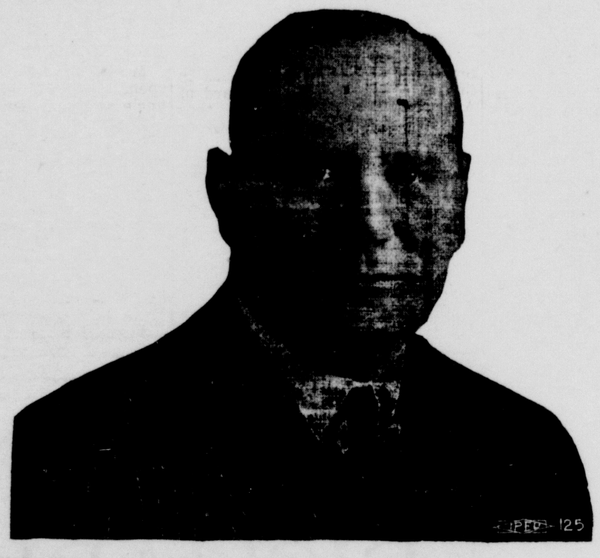
A Candidate of Convictions



BENNETT CHAMP CLARK

For United States Senator

NO EVASION OF ANY ISSUE

Bennett Clark Always Lets the Voters Know His Stand Without Hesitation

Take the question of Prohibition for example. He does not juggle with resubmission. He does not patter about the rights of the people to vote upon a question. He is for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and he says so in a language that is thoroughly understandable and leaves no doubt as to his position. He is for the drastic revision of the Hoover-Grundy tariff schedules. Bennett Clark denounces special privileges anywhere and everywhere. About taxes—does Bennett Clark use a lot of oratory telling the farmers one thing and the men in the cities another? He does not. Bennett Clark says that "ability to pay" is the only honest principle upon which a just tax bill can be written.

There are few men in America who have studied their countrys history more profoundly, particularly the history of its great Democratic leaders than has Colonel Clark. There are none who know better the leaders of his party in State and Nation. There are none who would be better qualified at this time when experienced men should be put on guard in the United States Senate without the necessity for serving an apprenticeship than is Colonel Bennett Champ Clark, an overseas World War veteran and the first National Commander of the American Legion.

Besides, We Can Elect Clark in November

WHEREAS:

(1st.) Hay, an outstanding dry, can't carry wet St. Louis against the probable wet Republican nominee, Kiel.

(2nd.) St. Louis won't help elect Howell against a St. Louis candidate because it would give Kansas City two Senators (Howell and Patterson) and St. Louis none.

WIN WITH CLARK

Tuesday night, August 9, the T. E. L. Class will hold its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. B. C. Bice at McMullin. A towel and wash rag shower will be given for the Emergency Hospital, and also a "pot luck" supper will be enjoyed by the members.

The Sikeston Baptist members returned Tuesday evening from Van Buren, where they attended the Van Buren Baptist Assembly the past week. Three hundred and forty were registered and study courses were given on Sunday School, Missions and B. Y. P. U. work. Each class was largely and enthusiastically attended. The morning was given to study courses, while in the afternoon, was the recreational period. Rev. Garrison had charge of the Sunset service at 7 o'clock, which was held on Sunset Height. Rev. Brown, pastor of First Baptist church at Festus-Crystal City, was camp pastor and conducted services in the tabernacle each evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Couch, pastor of Van Buren and Alton Baptist churches, was song leader. Special numbers were given each evening by the different churches represented at the Assembly. Bro. Jeffries of Cape Girardeau, at 11 o'clock each morning had charge of the Bible hour. Mrs. Garrison, chaperone for the Sikeston group, was also on the program, teaching the book, "The People Called Baptist". Mrs. Garrison will in the near future, teach this book at our church. A sightseeing trip was taken, Big Spring and other places of interest being visited. All attending the Assembly were greatly benefitted and are very enthusiastic over the course given. Those from Sikeston attending the Assembly were: Rev. and Mrs. Garrison, Merrill McKinney, Bruce Lewis, Helen Johnson, Mildred Williams, Maxine and Pauline Husher, Ruth Moore, Muriel Edwards, Grace Evans and Lillian Feltner. Others who went over later in the week were, Mrs. R. M. Feltner, Miss Lloyette Feltner, Brady Feltner, Miss Freda Lankford, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson, Ted Higgins and Meryln Taylor.

Supreme Court Upholds Legality of Truck Law

The legality of the so-called truck-bus law passed in the last session of the legislature was upheld this week by the Supreme Court in denying a temporary injunction filed by the Schwartzman Truck Company against the P. S. C. Which means that some 600 truck operators will soon learn whether or not they will receive certificates of public necessity and convenience.

J. C. McDowell In State Senate Race; Is Outstanding Lawyer

Prominent Democratic Attorney-Farmer Advocates Lower Cost of Government and Reduced Taxation, Declaring It Most Important Question Before People

J. C. McDowell, prominent Charleston attorney and former Cape Girardeau County farm boy, has announced his candidacy for the office of State Senator from the 23rd Senatorial District in the Democratic primary, August 2. Urged by influential men of the district, Mr. McDowell enters the race with a background of experience and a personal record that qualifies him for the office.

He is a son of Southeast Missouri soil, being born on a farm in Cape Girardeau County, March 20, 1890. He received his early training and education on his father's farm and in the rural schools of that county. A graduate of the Southeast Missouri State Teachers' College and the Law Department of the University of Missouri, he began his career of service in the public schools of Missouri, teaching four years.

Since 1916, when he was admitted to the bar, Mr. McDowell has been engaged in the active practice of law and farming. He came to Mississippi County, June 12, 1917, and established his office in Charleston, continuing as a farmer when his legal practice permitted. He later became associated in the prosecuting attorney's office, acting as assistant prosecuting attorney two years. He was then elected prosecuting attorney of this county three consecutive times, serving until 1925.

McDowell, inheriting the ideals of Democracy and cherishing them by personal conviction, has served his party well. He acted as chairman of the Democratic County Committee for many years, resigning his post early this year.

He is a staunch advocate of tax reduction and believes that the greatest benefit that can be rendered the State at this time is to reduce the cost of government, since the burden is becoming too heavy for people to bear. The candidate considers taxation the most important question in the campaign.

If elected to the office, Mr. McDowell would be the first State Senator from Mississippi County during the last half century. His record in the legal profession and his many other qualifications mark J. C. McDowell as one of the outstanding candidates in the State Senatorial race.—The Charleston (Mississippi County) Democrat, June 10, 1932.

MOTHER SENDS SON TO PRISON

David Absher of Risco was arrested on a charge of common assault and is now in the County jail awaiting Judge Duncan to revoke his parole. I. O. O. F. Lodge May Convert Old Dempster Building Into Modern Motion Picture Theatre

Tentative plans to file papers of incorporation for a motion picture theatre, and of remodeling the building vacated recently by the Dempster Furniture Company to house the new project, were formulated at the regular meeting of the Sikeston chapter of Odd Fellows Tuesday evening this week. The lodge owns the two-story corner building and an adjoining one-story annex, located on Kingshighway and Center Streets.

No definite step was taken at the meeting Tuesday evening, but according to one of the members, the lodge plans to form a croporation, remodel the lower floor of the corner building, and install modern theatre equipment.

George L. Dye, Grand Master, stated Thursday that a committee might go to St. Louis soon to purchase equipment and fixtures.

"Agent" Mapping Semo Towns Defrauds Canalou and Kewanee Merchants; Departs Monday

By J. HULS, JR.

Special to The Standard

Matthews, Mo., July 28.—A man posing as a survey mapping chief with the Coast & Geodetic Survey service of the government, last week defrauded Kewanee and Canalou merchants and townsmen while engaged in "mapping" the towns mentioned.

H. B. Hanson, alias L. M. Gibbs, alias S. P. Varner breezed into Canalou Sunday, July 17, and established himself as a Coast and Geodetic Survey expert. He had been delegated to make accurate maps of Canalou and Kewanee, and could he get local labor at 35 cents an hour?

He could and did. He obtained the services of young Opal Ralph, a Canalou boy, who worked out $25 worth of time and received exactly $5.00 in cash for his efforts. He did get a number of free rides over the territory.

Mr. Hanson, Varner or Gibbs left his trail of woe dropping an $8 gasoline bill and $11 in insufficient funds checks with Walter Moore of Canalou. Sam Ralph, he tapped for a tenner, "just to tide him over 'till the government sends the pay check". The same gag was worth $5 in cash from Marvin Ralph.

Last Monday, July 25, the alleged government agent told his faithful employee young Ralph to continue checking up a corner of Kewanee, while he drove to New Madrid "to get a suit pressed".

Ralph continued to check up Kewanee until the 12:05 Frisco, which he rode to Canalou, and reported the absence of his boss.

Mr. Hanson-Varner-Gibbs is still absent. When last seen, he was driving a new, 4-cylinder Ford equipped with "Air wheel" tires, and a radio.

Messrs. Moore, Ralph, Ralph & Ralph are also still parted from their hard-earned cash and merchandise. Stake cards carried by the agent were imprinted with "Central States Engineering Co." No address was given.

Readers of The Standard will recall a similar stunt worked by a number of men in several communities. Last fall and winter one Illinois and two Missouri communities were similarly fleeced, by men who claimed to have authority to "clear section lines" for a government survey party.

The same general idea was carried out in the several money-making schemes. In one, the "government agent" had a crew of 50 or 75 men engaged at $5 per day, or $7.50 with team and wagon. Farmers who lost valuable timber were promised a certain amount depending upon the size of tree felled and destroyed.

After staving off the inevitable pay-day with excuses, and meeting a part payment of the payroll by borrowing money from the hotel keeper and fellows in the work gang, the "agent" skipped.

Government Department of Justice agents finally rounded up two gentlemen.

Entire Ballot Not Invalidated By One Voting Mistake Missouri Attorney General States

The fact that one portion of the lengthy ballot for the August 2 primary election is voted incorrectly does not invalidate the entire ballot, according to a ruling received from the office of Attorney-General Stratton D. Shartel by County Clerk Eldon Palmer of Butler County.

The ruling came as the result of a request from Palmer, who asked Shartel the question specifically with reference to the congressional race. Palmer asked, in effect, if an individual voted for 14 congressmen instead of the legal 13, would this action invalidate the entire ballot and cause it to be discarded. Shartel said it would not. His letter to Palmer follows:

July 19, 1932.

Hon. L. D. Thompson,
State Auditor,
Jefferson City, Mo.

Dear Sir:

In your letter of July 18, 1932, you state:

"Please give me your opinion on the following:

"If a voter voting in the August 2 primary leaves 14 names on the Congressional ballot, will this cause the voter to lose his entire ballot for State and County and Congressional candidates?"

It is the opinion of this department that a voter voting in the August primary, who leaves the names of 14 or more candidates for Congressmen-at-large on his ticket, will thereby nullify his ticket only insofar as candidates are concerned. His ballot, if proper and valid as to candidates for other offices should be so counted.

Respectfully yours,
ALBERT MILLER,
Assistant Attorney General

New Madrid Officer Finds Pair Charged With Attack On Aged Negro Man With Boat Oar

Special to The Standard

New Madrid, July 27.—Buster Ward of Marston and Jim Pernell of New Madrid, who some months ago were charged with an attack upon Eddie Brown, local negro with an axe and boat oar, were apprehended by George Babcock, chief of police, and lodged in the county jail.

Ward was arrested here Saturday and Pernell was picked up Tuesday, this week.

Brown, the victim, is now in the Veterans' Hospital, St. Louis, suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries.

He may never fully recover from the assault, according to physicians.

Ward and Pernell fled following the crime. No motive was given.

The defendants will be given a preliminary hearing next week before Squire Hunter.

Sikeston Community "Dry" Although Tuesday Rain Soaks Area North, East and South

Heavy showers accompanied by strong winds soaked parts of Cape Girardeau County, crossed the river into Pulaski County, Illinois, and relieved the situation south of the Matthews lane in this section of the country last Tuesday.

Heavy cloud, bellowing thunder and lighting the heavens with a brilliant display of lightning formed north, threatened for a few hours, and then disappeared leaving the Sikeston district as dry as a W. C. T. U. rally.

The storm threat here did, however, drop the unusually high temperature temporarily, and allowed one good nights' sleep in a week of 99 to 100-degree weather.

According to the State weather report for the week ending Tuesday, rains scattered over wide areas of Missouri relieved a critical situation for corn. A State average of 1.01 inches fell after sixteen unfavorable days which fired even the best fields and resulted in damage ranging as high as 20 to 30 per cent in some localities, says the weekly weather summary.

It is believed the rains, which found 90 per cent of the corn in the critical silk and tassel stage, will enable the crop to recover from damage.

Threshing of small grains was rushed despite the heat, but other farm work was at a standstill, the report continued. Pastures and meadows were dry and bare, truck and gardens suffering, and stock water was scarce as streams were failing. The Ozark potato crop generally is poor. Cotton, however, looks fine and is growing fast.

Showers varying in amount from .04 at Unionville to 3.90 inches at Arcadia, were reported from each of the State's 26 stations. Warsaw reported the maximum temperature of 104 degrees, while a minimum of 60 was reported at Chillicothe.

The season's rainfall of 10.95 inches is 5.25 inches below normal and while some northern counties now are well supplied with moisture, large portions of the State have little or no reserve soil moisture.

Getting back to our own district, Cape Girardeau reported a storm Tuesday night, which felled trees, and damaged power and telephone lines. Approximately .60 inches of rain fell.

Benton community also reported a valuable rain beginning about 4:00 a. m. and lasting about three hours. Jackson and Perryville also reported rains accompanied by high winds.

The weather chart since July 22, when the mercury reached 100 follows:

	Hi	Lo	Rain
22	100	75	.10
24	93	71

PRISON NUMBERS ON SHIRT BRING ARREST OF MAN AT CHAFFEE

Chaffee, July 27.—Geo. Lakes, escaped convict, was captured here Tuesday night in a Frisco Railroad freight car, when Special Agent Patterson of the Frisco Railroad saw a number printed on his undershirt. The special agent was clearing a box car of men, and noticed the undershirt of one of them bore numbers like those on prison garb. Prison officials at Jefferson City were advised and guards were sent here today to return him.

Lakes admited being an escaped convict, leaving the intermediate reformatory near Jefferson City last Thursday with another man, Fred Hale, serving from Madison County, who is still sought. Lakes was serving two years from Clay County.—Cape Missourian.

CLYDE WILLIAMS

Twice elected to Congress, in '26 and '30, Mr. Williams last term was a member of the powerful Committee on Banking and Finance. Born and reared on the farm he knows the problems of agriculture first hand. A close student of the law and the functions of government, he knows the economic, industrial and social needs of the country. He has ever been a true friend of the laboring man, and has made a success of his own business affairs. By education, by training and experience, he is qualified to represent this district in Congress.

He stands squarely on the Democratic platform.

NEGRO COUPLE ASSAULTS ALLEGED "VOODOO" DOCTOR

New Madrid, July 27.—John Black of New Madrid, negro, was bound over to the Circuit Court on a charge of felonious assault, growing out of an altercation with James Robinson, negro, when it was alleged that Black and his wife assaulted Robinson, Black with a club and his wife with an axe, in which a large scalp wound was inflicted on Robinson.

According to Black and his wife, Robinson is a "Voodoo" negro and had put the "voodoo" on them. They claim he almost ran them crazy, and in an endeavor to break the "voodoo" spell, they assaulted Robinson. Robinson disclaims to be a "voodoo" doctor, but that the spirits of the Lord was working the devil out of the defendants.

Both families live in the same house near the Washout, near New Madrid. Black's wife is ill at present and has not as yet been able to attend Court for her preliminary hearing.

DEVICES FOR MAKING LIQUOR NOT UNLAWFUL

Springfield, Ill., July 27.—Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom roled today that mere possession of articles which might be used for manufacture of intoxicating liquor did not constitute violation of the State prohibition law.

The opinion was sequested by State's Attorney R. C. Rice of Galesburg, Ill., in the case of the American Malt Products Company, which displayed for sale, Rice said, bottles, jugs, kegs, malt extract, apricot, peach and burgundy flavoring and other articles.

"Since all the articles you mention may be sold and used for a legal purpose", Carlstrom declared "the mere possession of the same is not of itself a violation of law".

Proof that such articles were being purchased and used for illegal manufacture of intoxicating liquor would be necessary, the Attorney General states, for conviction under the Illinois laws.

WINTER

Will Make That Kind of a GOVERNOR

BECAUSE:

He is definite in his proposals for economy in the operation of State government.
He possesses a sympathetic and appreciative understanding of Missourians and their problems.
His record as a public official has not been attacked by even his bitterest political enemy.
He has shown an unselfish zeal in fostering legislation that has benefitted the entire State.
He is farm born and farm reared and therefore tremendously interested in the farmer and his problems.
He is a trusted executive of proven ability, peculiarly fitted to serve the State as its Governor.
Edward H. Winter today is Lieutenant-Governor of Missouri. He was born on a Warren County, Missouri, farm April 5, 1879, of parents who had immigrated from Germany. He was one of a family of eleven children. He was educated in the public schools of the community and was graduated from Central Wesleyn College, Warrenton, in 1904. He also was a student of the University of Chicago. In the early years of his manhood he taught school. In 1905 he became editor and publisher of the Warrenton Banner. In 1926 he was elected President of the Missouri Press Association. He was married to Adena M. Koelling, of Lincoln County in 1905. They have three children Lyman, Dorothea and Karl E. He was appointed probate judge of Warren County in 1921 and the following year was elected Representative. He was re-elected in 1924 and named speaker pro-tem at the following session. In 1927 he was named speaker of the House. In 1928 he was elected Lieutenant-Governor. He is the first man to preside over both houses of the Missouri legislative body.
He will make the kind of candidate for whom no apologies need to be made. His record is clean, and the party can at once begin a constructive campaign in his behalf.

Wess Sherwood

Democratic Candidate For

Sheriff

New Madrid County

My Platform: I will if nominated and elected—

1. Enforce the law to the best of my ability, showing partiality to none.

2. Do my duty as prescribed by law.

3. Save money for the County and the Taxpayers whenever and wherever possible.

In respect to the latter it is said by some of my opponents that it would be impossible to save money since certain fees and expenses are prescribed by law.

In answer, I merely state that in looking over the records of the sheriff's office I find many items on which savings could be made. If nominated and elected, I will make those savings.

SIKESTON STANDARD

C. L. BLANTON, EDITOR

ISSUED TUESDAY AND FRIDAY AT SIKESTON, MISSOURI

Entered at the Postoffice at Sikeston, Scott County, Missouri, as second-class mail matter, according to act of Congress.

Rates:
Reading notices, per line 10c
Bank statements $10.00
Yearly subscription in Scott and the adjoining counties $2.00
Yearly subscription elsewhere in the United States $2.50

Of late we have had little time to think of the past or the future, but since all of our children and grandchildren are up and improved in health, we can let our mind work just a little. Thinking of the past and now close on to the allotted time allowed—three score and ten—and knowing now the care, worry and expense, if we were assured by some power unknown, to turn back our years to that of our youth, and live it all over again, or travel on down the lane into the twilight just ahead where in our old age we can be with our flowers, rest and dream, we would hesitate to have it all to live our life again. If we could live our life over again, and know as much about life as we now do, we would live different in many respects. We would be more patient with our little ones, would try to bring sunshine and happiness to more people and less worry to our own. We wonder, too, if the truth was known, if there are not many people in just the same condition of mind as we. Well, we enjoy life in a modest way and have no complaint to make, but wouldn't turn back the hands of time if we could.

It is the time of year to do something about the dog nuisance about town. Few have paid license, and all are dangerous in hot weather. The Standard recommends Fred Briggs as the proper man, give him unlimited power and plenty of bologna, let him go as far as he likes in his work, furnish him a place in the bone yard to lay away the remains. Also, empower him to catch all the frogs that sing in city fish ponds much to the annoyance of neighbors.

This issue of The Standard is not a shake-down proposition by any means, but a genuine help to candidates who wish to place their platform and candidacy before the voters of Mississippi New Madrid and Scott Counties. It is the cheapest way to get before more voters for less money than any other way. There are a trifle more than 10,000 copies issued and that many ordinary candidates cards would cost more money. You can rest assued the office force has been plenty busy and the paper will be out on time.

But one of the best wheezes of the week comes from Evanston, Ill., and it is about a horse that had been owned by the city for many years, used in the last part of his life to haul a garbage wagon. Sandy was known as a most inexpnesive animal to keep, rarely needing more than a forkful of hay and perhaps a pint of oats at a meal. But, grown old and feeble, the police sought to do away with him, hence detailed a member of the force to take him out near the incinerator, where he had so often gone with the kitchen refuse in tow, there to have his life ended by a bullet. But having arrived at the appointed spot, Sandy calmly took a last look around the familiar scene, lay down with a content sigh and passed out. Always economical, he had saved his beloved owners the cost of the bullet.

Now you tell one.—Democrat Argus.

CHARTER OAK MAN HELD ON CHECK FORGERY CHARGE

John Hunter of Charter Oak was given a preliminary hearing before Judge S. P. Hunter Saturday and was bound over to the Circuit Court on a charge of forging a check on Bill Crumpecker. He was later released on a 3500 bond Monday.

Bill Wlesh of Lilbourn, plead guilty before Squire Geo. Knott at New Madrid Monday, of a charge of disturbing the peace and was given a fine of $1.00 and costs and sixty days in the county jail. The jail sentence was stayed upon payment of fine and costs.

GIDEON YOUTH VIOLATES PAROLE—BACK TO PRISON

New Madrid, July 26.—Jasper Whitledge of Gideon, who was sentenced to serve a term of two years in the penitentiary at the May term of the Circuit Court, and later paroled, was lodged in the County jail Sunday on a violation of his parole. Judge Duncan will probably revoke his parole this week, following which he will be transferred to Jefferson City.

A special meeting of the Improvement Association has been called to discuss the organ in the Hog Ford Church. Poke Eazley says it is a well known fact that for going on 11 years three bass and five treble stops on the instrument have been out of whack. —Commercial Appeal.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

Francis M. Wilson

Democratic Candidate for Governor

To the Democracy of Missouri:

On August 2nd next, Democrats of Missouri select their candidate for governor. It is important that he receive the united support of our party in the approaching general election. It is clear that Democrats who desire a Democratic governor want harmony and not strife in Democratic ranks. After the August primary comes the all important November election.

Throughout the primary campaign I have repeatedly stated that I am not fighting my Democratic opponents but reserving the battle for our common enemy, the leaders of the Republican party. My attitude toward present opponents is the same as in my primary campaign in 1928, when nominated for governor by a plurality of 185,313, carrying 110 of the 114 counties and the City of St. Louis. In the general election I led both national and State tickets by sizeable majorities but was defeated in the unprecedented Hoover landslide of that year. Since that election I have been engaged in superintending the upbuilding of my rather extensive farming interests in my home county of Platte.

Again I am asking support of the voters solely on the ground of qualifications to hold the high office of governor. I do not think particularly in times like these, that political support should be extended any candidate for governor for either personal reasons or because of geographical location.

I have made no secret promises, pledges or commitments of any kind and whatever pledges or promises I have made, or will make, will be publicly made to all the people of the State. I regard promises of positions, or "jobs" in return for political support to be the lowest form of political bribery.

If nominated and elected I solemnly pledge you that I will be no cog in any political machine, nor controlled in my official duties by any man or group of men, nor have an eye to any other political office. He who becomes Governor of Missouri, must be free and not fettered to give his best efforts to the advancement of our State.

The Avenue to Revenue

The production of raw milk provides the farmer with a sure source of income . . . The agricultural community of Southeast Missouri is fortunate in that it is an ideal dairying community in close proximity to a growing market.

The farmer who overlooks these natural advantages and fails to devote a fair share of his effort to raw milk production is overlooking one of his greatest opportunities to show a profit on his investment of time and money. The raising of more dairy cattle should be the aim of every farmer in this territory. It opens the "avenue to revenue" for more milk means more farm profit.

"Odds and Ends" SALE!

FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND MONDAY—THREE BIG DAYS

THE FOX STORES

Morehouse—Charleston—Vanduser

At certain times of the year every merchant, no matter how careful he is, has accumulated small lots of merchandise, which he treats with contempt and disdain for no good reason at all. They're odds and ends to him, but to you they are the regular things you are needing every day. Odds and Ends are the Orphan Annies of the commercial world, which means they sell for almost nothing for silly reasons that no one but a merchant understands. But why argue with hard-headed business men? Just scan the many offerings. If you have cherished a secret longing for a lovely silk gown, an automatic ballbearing bottle opener, or perhaps a slightly soiled Pierce Arrow or Rolls Royce—who knows—it may be among these Odds and Ends.

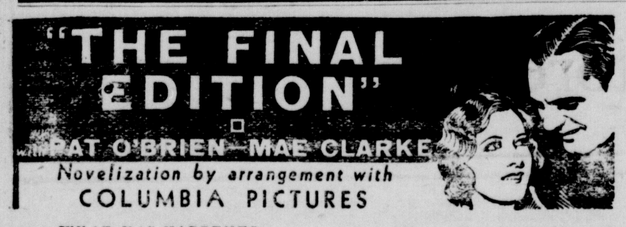
IN WHICH MELONS, A BAD DEAL AND BASEBALL IS MIXED

A guarantee of $5.00 failed to show up, and a gate receipt split disappeared during a negro baseball game here Friday afternoon in which the locals won from the visiting Cape Girardeau team 8 to 7, leaving the dusky losers stranded.

According to Bedell Smith, manager of the Cape Girardeau club, had been promised a $5 guarantee plus a 60-40 split of the gate over that amount.

When the total gate turned out to be 95 cents, Walter Turner, manager of the local club, disappeared, it is alleged, as did the gate receipts.



WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Anne Woodman, sob-sister on the Bulletin, is interested in solving the mystery of the murder of Commissioner of Police Conroy. She discovers that the motive was to secure evidence that Conroy had in his files. Anne suspects Sid Malvern, who has gone out of town. She follows him to Lakeside, where she secures the room adjoining his. In it she discovers evidence that he has checked some valuable papers in the parcel room. Sid enters Anne's room while the check for the package and the key to his room lay on the table. He starts to embrace Anne as the telephone rings. He tells Anne not to answer it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I couldn't think of it," said Anne picking up the receiver. "Might be a telegram saying my millionaire uncle has just died leaving me a fortune. Hello!"

Over the wire came the voice of the operator asking, "Did you call, madam?"

"Why no—of course not. I'm not in the habit of having men in my room—well, you can send up and find out if you like." Anne replaced the receiver. "I'm afraid you'd better go. I wouldn't have them find you here."

"I guess it wouldn't be so good," Sid stepped back. "Say, they've got their nerve. I'll call them for that."

"No, don't bother. Just go before they get here."

"Well if you say so." He glanced at his appearance, then laughingly said, "I'd better change the costume anyway."

"Goodbye."

"See you later." Sid started toward the door.

"Oh, Mr. Morgan—if you don't mind—my key." She extended her hand.

"Oh yeah—yes, of course." He fumbled in his pockets for it, finally producing the key.

"Thank you so much. You must come again sometime." Anne edged him to the door as she spoke, breathing a sigh of relief when he had departed. It was a close shave, much closer than she cared to experience again. She made sure that the check and the key to Room 618 were deposited in a safe place before she did anything else.

In the Bulletin office, Brad was examining the photograph of Sid and Anne. He beamed as he beheld it. "Boy, I'll make a newspaper woman out of that gal yet.

"Say, I might try burning Patsy King up with it. If she got sore at Malvern and started squawking, she might have a lot to say."

Thus, the next morning Patsy King woke up to find a picture on the society page of the Bulletin that made her leap out of bed. "The dirty—double-crossing——" She almost ripped the receiver off the telephone as she grabbed it up and called Selby.

"Have you seen what our boy friend is up to?" she asked. "Well, grab yourself a copy of the Bulletin and see for yourself. On the beach, getting himself in with a new dame."

"Well, what about it?" Selby replied over the wire, uninterested in Malvern's feminine entanglements. "What do you want me to do?"

"Get a load of this!" Patsy came back determined to burn Selby up. "That rat double crossed you as he has me!"

Selby's face changed, and although Patsy could not see it, the tone of his voice told her that he was furious. "What do you mean by that?"

"He held out on you! You didn't expect him to be on the level did you? All the real stuff—the dope on you, he's got put away somewhere—checked in some safe place, he said."

Selby was livid with rage and fear as he replied, "Well I'll find out!" He slammed the receiver back in place and called for his secretary.

"Send this straight wire," he ordered as she entered the office. "John Morgan, Seabreeze Hotel, Lakeside. Important you return immediately advise plane. Come to apartment. S."

Malvern was worried when he received the wire and lost no time in checking out. By taxi and plane he made the shortest possible time to Patsy's apartment where the girl and Selby were awaiting him.

"Well, what's up?" Sid inquired as he entered and beheld the sore, sullen and vindictive faces of his colleagues.

Patsy approached him and in a low, tense voice snarled, "You dirty, lowdown, double-crossing chiseller!"

Malvern stared at her in vast surprise. "What the devil are you talking about?"

"Ah-h, don't give me that! Who is the dame?" sneered Patsy.

"What dame?"

For answer, Patsy shoved the newspaper under his nose and almost screamed, "That dame!"

Malvern stared at the newspaper picture with a scowl of annoyance and then threw the sheet down. "Did you get me back here to answer that?"

Selby, looking cold and grim, moved up to the amazed man. "No, I got you back for something more important than a dame."

"Yeah!" said Patsy. "Well I want to find out."

"Shut up!" Selby exclaimed. "Let me talk to this rat! Where's the rest of that evidence?"

Malvern looked right back at him. "What evidence?"

"The stuff you held out on me. Where did you check it?"

Malvern held his gaze for an instant and then looked over toward Patsy. "You rotten little tramp!" He started toward her, but Selby caught his arm and whirled Sid around to face him.

"Never mind that! Answer me!" Sid became defiant. "Try and find out."

"Do you think you can get away with this? Why, I've got enough on you to hang you! I'll put you where you won't be able to doublecross anybody."

"Ah—what have you got on me?"

"Plenty—and you know it! The police are still hunting for the Conroy radio man. How'd you like Mrs. Conroy to have a look at you?"

"They'll have to find me first," Malvern replied.

Selby caught his arm and whirled Sid around to face him.

"That won't be hard." Selby declared with meaning. He started toward the phone. "They'll have some cops over here in five minutes."

"How are you going to keep me here?" Sid started toward the door. As he did so Selby quickly opened it and two strong-armed men entered, looking menacingly at Malvern, who stopped abruptly, halfway to the door.

"I don't think we'll have any trouble," Selby replied.

"Pretty smart, aren't you?" Malvern sneered.

"I take no chances with a skunk."

Malvern saw that he was licked and gave up with very bad grace. "All right, you win. The stuff's in the checkroom at the Union Station and here's the check." He took out his pocketbook and opened it. An amazed look came over his face. He felt in his pockets, turned his case upside down and shook it.

"It's gone!" he exclaimed.

"He's stalling," Patsy commented.

"Trying to rat on me again, eh?" Selby hardened. "You'd better find that check!"

Malvern was frantically going through his pockets.

"Search him!"

Sid offered no protest as one of the men went through his clothes.

"Go through his bag," Selby instructed the other.

"It isn't in the bag. It was right here in this pocket. Honest! I must have lost it."

"You don't suppose it coulda been lifted, do you?" Pasty made a gesture toward the paper. "How about your lady friend?"

Malvern stopped and stared at her, dumbfounded at the idea. His face contracted into a scowl of wonder. With an exclamation he strode to the telephone. The two men made a move toward him; but Selby stopped them. Impatiently Sid waited to get a call through to the Seabreeze Hotel at Lakeside. Patsy continued to goad him.

"So the big shot was rolled by a bathing beauty. Serves you right, you——"

"Aw, shut up!" Sid heatedly interrupted. "Hello — Seabreeze? I want to speak to Miss Anne Woodman. What? Checked out? When?" Malvern turned toward Selby. "She left on the 2:40."

The three looked at one another.

"There's only one thing to do," Malvern declared. "I'll go down and see if I can get it without the check."

"All right—but you're not going alone. Stick with him, boys."

The two men nodded.

"I'll stay here till you come back," Selby declared. "I don't care how you get those papers; but get them."

Without replying, Malvern left the house, closely followed by his two guards. They arrived at the station just as Anne's train pulled in.

In the meantime repairs to the truck which brought the club to Sikeston accounted for a garage bill of $1.60. With no money in sight, Mr. Garage Owner simply held the truck.

Recourse to law was necessary on the part of Smith and his baseball nine, to locate Turner and the gate receipts. Turner's father paid the fiver, the Justice of the Peace took one dollar for his trouble; the garageman received $1.60, and the Cape Girardeau ball team departed more or less delayed, but happy.

Officers in their search for young Turner found the senior member of the family guarding a melon patch with a shot gun. They arrested four white men, one of whom later paid a fine of $1.00 and costs for trespassing—and 'costs' in Sikeston run in the neighborhood of $7.00.

S. A. Presson, the watermelon king of Bertrand, informs us that he expects to have the first melons of his variety on the market August 6. The lack of moisture will cut the crop and the size considerably but he expects to have a good yield at that. The melons that he produces can hardly be beaten for flavor and meat free of white streaks.

Now that the postal rate has been hiked 50 per cent and 3 cents is required for a letter where two formerly sufficed, a writer remarks that leaving the rate at one cent on postal cards may not be so good for the department. It may reduce the amount spent for letters —and another thought is that it may require an increase in the personnel of the various post office forces. It will take so much longer for the employes to read all the postal cards, you know.

The drys are putting forth mighty efforts to defeat every Congressman running on the Democratic platform. We don't believe the voter lives who believes the present prohibition laws can be enforced, so, for one, we don't intend to vote for a man running for Congress classed as a dry. Those who are classed as wets are: E. L. Padberg, Walter Burch, Lee B. Ewing, Houston Crittenden, J. R. Grant, Charles E. Dewey, John D. Taylor, L. L. Collins, J. J. Cochran, P. Kinsella, H. PROF. ELLISE INVITES RURAL GRADS TO COME TO SIKESTON SCHOOLS

Sikeston school authorities expect to maintain this same high standard of work this coming year as the past, reads an announcement by Roy V. Ellise, superintendent of Sikeston schools, and Mr. Ellise continues with the statement that more and better courses are offered here than in any school within a thirty-mile radius. Rural graduates are invited to attend high school here, and parents are urged to move here to educate their children. The faculty has attended nearly thirty college affiliated universities in the dozen States, and are sufficiently broad in their attitude and preparation. Call on Superintendent Ellise for further information.

FILLING STATIONS ACCOUNT FOR 38% OF GAS SALES

A recent report of the United States Department of Commerce shows that filling stations make up only 38.5 per cent of all the retail outlets for gasoline. In rural areas and towns of less than 10,000 population, gasoline retailers other than filling stations are extremely numerous, the report shows. Gasoline pumps are operated by 38,539 general stores, 34,455 grocery and food stores, 9568 restaurants, 2083 hardware stores, 1736 farmers' supply stores, and 3748 other stores.

CHAIN STORES EXPAND BY BUYING OTHER ORGANIZED BUSINESS

According to studies made by the Federal Trade Commission in its chain store inquiry, chain store systems have shown a tendency throughout their history to buy up other chain stores rather than independent stores. The Commission reports that the operations as a whole were predominantly of chain stores rather than of independent stores and only in case of drug, grocery and grocery and meat, grocery and vegetable, and men's and women's shoe chains were more than 50 independent stores apparently acquired by chains.

"In the public discussion of this subject the 'chain' has been properly assigned an important role in reducing the number of independent stores, either through buying them out or by having them withdraw from business as a result of chain competition.

The question is raised, however, as to whether future growth of the chains will be as rapid as hitherto".

American Medical Association O. K.'s Local Mill Products

After six months of exhaustive laboratory tests and investigations the American Medical Association this week notified the Scott County Milling Company, that its seal of acceptance applicable to Juanita White Ribbon, and B. & M. Cream Corn Meal will be issued after certain, particular features in advertising and labels are amended to comply with its regulations.

The fact that our application for permission to use their Seal was made several months ago, tests the care and thoroughness of their investigations, said Murray Phillips of the Scott County force in commenting on the notification.

It is unnecessary to call attention to the high standards of the Medical Association and we, therefore, feel that the privilege to use their Seal of Acceptance is a tribute to, as well as recognition of, the high quality of our products, he continued.

Products of the Milling Company are know throughout this section of Missouri, and the South generally. Extreme care is exercised to keep the quality to a high mark, and uniform.

Calvin Resents Skelton's Charge

Editor of The Standard
Sikeston, Missouri
Dear Editor:

I noticed in your paper, through the clipping bureau on July 15th, 1932, that Mr. Ike Skelton, one of my opponents for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General, charged in his speech at Farmington on July 12, that one promises of Assistant Attorney-Generalships over the State of of his opponents was making Missouri for the purpose of obtaining votes.

I deeply regret that any candidate would make a charge such as that where people who hear him might believe that it is either Senator McKittrick or myself. I resent the implication in regard to myself, and brand it as an untruth. Why a man could hope to appeal to the intelligence of any community with a statement such as that, by not following through by saying which opponent he means when he admits that it is only one, and speaks to gain the benefit from the supporters of either Senator McKittrick or myself.

I therefore take this means of answering that charge for myself, and trust that your newspaper will see fit to give it the same prominent and publication and correct its readers as far as I am concerned. Such a practice is a violation of the corrupt practice act of this State; one in which I certainly have not indulged.

I trust that you will be fair enough to publish my answer in this last-minute campaign statement in answer to Mr. Skelton.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE B. CALVIN

JOSEPH N. BURROUGHS
WEST PLAINS

Democratic candidate for congress, is married, was educated in college and law school, practiced law thirty years, and for several years of that time edited a newspaper. Served in the legislature, was a delegate to the Baltimore convention, and in 1928 was drafted by his party to run for prosecuting attorney, and ran 1200 votes ahead of the national ticket. A member of the church and several secret orders.

FAVORS: Drastic reduction of government expense and the tariff, inflation of the currency to equalize values between money and other commodities, the issuance of non-interest bearing treasury certificates to pay soldier bonus, and the abolishment of the farm board and all other useless boards and commissions.

OPPOSES: Nepotism, sales and nuisance taxes, undue inflation of money, and cancellation of foreign debts.

A DRY, but if elected would vote resubmission of the 18th amendment.

Mr. Burroughs is making a plea to the voters of this section that he is a home man, being a resident of West Plains in the old 14th Congressional District, and is asking for recognition from the voters for his section on the Democratic ticket.

MARSTON CANNING CLUB BEGINS WORK

The Marston Community Canning Kitchen Club began canning last week.

The Matthews Home and Community Club met at Mrs. Clifford Sutton's on Tuesday, July 19. The subject of the meeting was "Fall Gardens".

The Phillips School Home and Community Club met Wednesday, July 20, at the home of Mrs. Sallye Littell. The subject of this meeting was also "Fall Gardens".

At both of these meetings the discussions embraced: "Vegetables to Plant in Fall Gardens", "Varieties of these vegetables best adapted to Missouri", "Planting and Cultural Methods", "Fertilizers", "Control of Insect Pests", etc. Both meetings were well attended and both clubs plan to hold poultry culling demonstrations next month.

MEMPHIAN HURT IN AUTO WRECK HERE TUESDAY

S. T. "Red" O'Bryan of Memphis, Tenn., driver of a new Plymouth sedan, was badly injured Tuesday night, when he lost control of the machine about 2 miles south of Sikeston on Highway 61, turning over in a dicth. His three companions, M. G. Moore and J. P. Burns of Hopkinsville, Tenn., and Oman Stirton of Nashville, Tenn., were less severely hurt.

A north bound cantaloupe truck picked up the wreck victims, and brought O'Bryan to the office of Dr. T. C. McClure for treatment. O'Bryan received a badly wrenched back, cuts and bruises including two 4-inch lascerations on his arms and hands. He is recuperating in the Del Rey Hotel.

MAN ESCAPES INSANITY THROUGH READING BOOKS

"I would have lost my mind during the past year if I had not been able at times to forget my troubles through library books", an unemployed man recently told a Missouri librarian.

In commenting on this statement, Frank J. Bruno, professor of Applied Sociology at Washington University, says: "I have been very much interested in recent reports of the Missouri Library Association as to the phenomenal increase of the use of public libraries due to unemployment. This is a fact of significant social import as related to the present depression. The rapid increase in suicides is startling, but the reason that there are not more actual riots at present may well be due to such influences as public libraries in maintaining the morale of the unemployed".

According to statistics recently compiled by one public library in Missouri, one out of every eight men taking out cadrs to borrow books is unemployed; one out of every nine women registering is unemployed or her husband is unemployed, and one out of every six children registering reported his father out of work. A librarian recently kept track of the readers for a certain ten minutes one day and found some of the following readers of non-fiction books as typical examples: Ladd's "Secret of Personality", read by a bus girl, James' "Will to Believe", by a salesman, Wright's "Practical Book of Outdoor Flowers", by an unemployed widow, "Home Instruction for Sheet Metal Workers", by a sheet metal worker, "Practical Flying" by a worker in a stove factory, Toombs' "How to Wrestle", a Chinese laundry man.

Sociologists generally believe that reading keeps many people sane both during depressions and during boom times, according to Professor Bruno.

YIELDING TO MR. SHORT

We yield to the Rev. Dewey Short of Galena, former Congressman and now Republican candidate for the United States Senate:

Mr. Short (at the St. Louis City Club): I am the only Republican senatorial candidate running on the prohibition plank of the Republican national platform. My St. Louis opponents, Messrs. Kiel, Priest and Kratky, have adopted the Democratic plank, and my Kansas City opponent, B. F. Beazell, takes an extreme dry stand.

Mr. Short (speaking recently in the basement of a church at Marionville): Despite the fact that I am known as a wet candidate, I want you to know I am dry. If anyone tells you that Dewey Short is wet, tell them to go jump into the river.

Mr. Short (in announcing his candidacy last June 4): In the name of decent living and good government, I feel a change is now imperative. I am convinced the eighteenth amendment should be modified, permitting self-determination by States. The blatant and insidious evils of prohibition must be eradicated if our Government is to endure.

Thus, the gentleman from Galena is wet in the city, dry in country church basements and, we presume, moist in the suburbs. Thus variously does he interpret the liquor plank in the Republican platform.—Post-Dispatch.

CLARK, FIT AND AVAILABLE

There are two tests by which to measure a senatorial candidate, finess and availability.

The candidacy of Bennett Champ Clark for the Democratic senatorial nomination gathered strength in the first place because of his superior availability. As a matter of fact, his first claim upon his party, and the State's claim upon him, rest upon his superior fitness.

Fitness is sometimes mistaken for availability. For instance, it has been noted with some surprise that the early campaign addresses of Colonel Clark set forth policies which later were embodied in the Democratic national platform. This was true not only of his demand for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, but of his economic policies, his attitude toward the tariff, toward the money power in politics, toward taxation.

Politicians said, "What a coincidence! That makes him more available for the nomination". True enough, but why was there this coincidence? Because of qualities of leadership which put Colonel Clark ahead of most other men in recognizing the necessary readjustments in our national life. The qualities that made him a leader in the campaign would make him a leader in Washington.

Anybody who surveys the Missouri senatorial campaign dispassionately will be impressed with this comparison between Colonel Clark and his two leading adversaries:

1. Colonel Clark has both fitness and availability.
2. Charles M. Hay has fitness, but lacks availability.
3. Charles M. Howell has neither fitness nor availability.

The only serious difference of opinion between Colonel Clark and Mr. Hay is over repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Both are progressive Democrats, with Colonel Clark sounding a more stirring note. But every informed politician knows that, with national conditions favoring the Democrats, Colonel Clark is 40,000 votes stronger than Mr. Hay in St. Louis. That is the difference in their availability.

What is there to the candidacy of Charles M Howell? Not a thing, except the boast of Boss Pendergast that he can produce a majority of 60,000 in the Kansas City primaries for any man, living or dead, he chooses to support. That may be true. But he can't produce the Democratic, independent and Republican votes necessary to elect any such nominee. The revulsion against the effort to plant both United States Senatorships in Kansas City would turn tens of thousands of votes against Howell. His record as an insurance lobbyist would turn other thousands against him. The nature of his St. Louis support, by a discredited committee using riverward tactics, would turn both city and State against him. The charges made against the Howell candidacy would not be dropped after the primary. If he were nominated, but gather intensity, because they are charges which reflect his lack of fitness for the highest office in the gift of this State.

What do the Clark, Hay and Howell candidacies mean for the Democratic presidential and congressional tickets?

The nomination of Mr. Howell would be a drag upon the entire Democratic ticket both in St. Louis and throughout the State.

The nomination of Mr. Hay would prevent St. Louis from going Democratic on the Senatorship, and might defeat the Democratic congressional nominees in the State-wide election.

The nomination of Colonel Clark, under existing national conditions, would produce a political overturn in St. Louis, and carry the entire Democratic State and National ticket to a landslide victory.

If the Democrats of Missouri want to win, they will nominate Bennett C. Clark. If they want to repudiate their national platform and support prohibition, losing St. Louis, they will nominate Mr. Hay. If they want to commit suicide, they will nominate Mr. Howell.—St. Louis Star.

BENNETT CHAMP CLARK
For United States Senator

Bennett Clark Always Lets the Voters Know His Stand Without Hesitation

Take the question of Prohibition for example. He does not juggle with resubmission. He does not patter about the rights of the people to vote upon a question. He is for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and he says so in a language that is thoroughly understandable and leaves no doubt as to his position. He is for the drastic revision of the Hoover-Grundy tariff schedules. Bennett Clark denounces special privileges anywhere and everywhere. About taxes—does Bennett Clark use a lot of oratory telling the farmers one thing and the men in the cities another? He does not. Bennett Clark says that "ability to pay" is the only honest principle upon which a just tax bill can be written.

There are few men in America who have studied their countrys history more profoundly, particularly the history of its great Democratic leaders than has Colonel Clark. There are none who know better the leaders of his party in State and Nation. There are none who would be better qualified at this time when experienced men should be put on guard in the United States Senate without the necessity for serving an apprenticeship than is Colonel Bennett Champ Clark, an overseas World War veteran and the first National Commander of the American Legion.

Besides, We Can Elect Clark in November

WHEREAS:

(1st.) Hay, an outstanding dry, can't carry wet St. Louis against the probable wet Republican nominee, Kiel.

(2nd.) St. Louis won't help elect Howell against a St. Louis candidate because it would give Kansas City two Senators (Howell and Patterson) and St. Louis none.

The Sikeston Baptist members returned Tuesday evening from Van Buren, where they attended the Van Buren Baptist Assembly the past week. Three hundred and forty were registered and study courses were given on Sunday School, Missions and B. Y. P. U. work. Each class was largely and enthusiastically attended. The morning was given to study courses, while in the afternoon, was the recreational period. Rev. Garrison had charge of the Sunset service at 7 o'clock, which was held on Sunset Height. Rev. Brown, pastor of First Baptist church at Festus-Crystal City, was camp pastor and conducted services in the tabernacle each evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Couch, pastor of Van Buren and Alton Baptist churches, was song leader. Special numbers were given each evening by the different churches represented at the Assembly. Bro. Jeffries of Cape Girardeau, at 11 o'clock each morning had charge of the Bible hour. Mrs. Garrison, chaperone for the Sikeston group, was also on the program, teaching the book, "The People Called Baptist". Mrs. Garrison will in the near future, teach this book at our church. A sightseeing trip was taken, Big Spring and other places of interest being visited. All attending the Assembly were greatly benefitted and are very enthusiastic over the course given. Those from Sikeston attending the Assembly were: Rev. and Mrs. Garrison, Merrill McKinney, Bruce Lewis, Helen Johnson, Mildred Williams, Maxine and Pauline Husher, Ruth Moore, Muriel Edwards, Grace Evans and Lillian Feltner. Others who went over later in the week were, Mrs. R. M. Feltner, Miss Lloyette Feltner, Brady Feltner, Miss Freda Lankford, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson, Ted Higgins and Meryln Taylor.

The management would respectfully call the attention of voters to the candidates who have thought enough of your votes to pay for space in The Standard asking for support. It is impossible to hazzard a guess as to who will be the nominee for any office elective. There has never been such a scramble for Congress and out of 56 candidates on the Democratic ticket and 30 on the Republican, but 13 can enter the final race. We have an idea that every candidate has a slate made out for his friends, but slates will be easily smashed this time. The only thing that we can say that we believe will be true is that at least ten of the thirteen Congressmen will be wet.

The Dexter Statesman and Hayti Herald are the only two Democratic papers in Southeast Missouri supporting Francis M. Wilson, of Kansas City, for Governor over Russell L. Dearmont of Cape Girardeau. There may be a reason, such as being paid or having been sued for debt, but nothing else should permit a newspaper in this section from supporting Dearmont. Both of these papers will lose standing with brother editors unless we miss our guess again.

Bill Dalton, of Columbia, 25-year-old candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket, was a Sikeston visitor Tuesday and called on The Standard. He is hopeful that lightning, in the way of one of the thirteen to be nominated, will strike him. He is a pretty keen lad and the Democrats could do much worse.

Just about the time you make up your mind which of the 56 varieties you intend to vote for in the primary, along comes some peckerwood and says he is dry, or wet, a Catholic, a Kluxer, a Methodist, or nothing, and you again have to spend a sleepless night. Ain't it awful.

* * *

It looks like fumadiddles of some sort has been going on up-State similar to the two Norrises in Nebraska. Fred M. Harris is a candidate against Frank G. Harris for Lieutenant Governor on the Democratic ticket. Fred M. is unknown, while Frank G. has been prominent in party affairs for many years.

Anyway, the summer months of June, July and August are half gone and the days are growing shorter. Next will be the cold chilly winds of November blowing from the headquarters of Salt River where all defeated candidates go, then the coal pile.

The primary campaign about to close in Missouri has been, and is, a hot one. Keen competition all along the line. The Standard trusts the Democrats of the State who are defeated will be good losers and get behind the winners with good grace. Heretofore the Democrats stay mad until after the November election then regret it for four more years. The Standard may not get a single nominee in the primary, but intends to back the entire ticket in November with our one vote, unless the Missus orders otherwise.

Just because some of the political advertisements in this issue of The Standard carry the emblem of the Demoratic party is no sign that we class them as an ass. This is beating any critics to the question.

The Great Engineer started in the Political Game with four million dollars, so the papers say, and now it has "swunk" up to only seven hundred thousand. That shows he wasn't so much after all. Another four years at the same rate he will be on a par with the farmers throughout the land. Four more years of Hoover, then hell.

Miss Eva M. Powell, 23, of Louisville, Ky., sliced off the ear of her escort, Mr. Raymond Herrington, after a beer party. If this is the way the girls act after taking on a bit of beer, makes us doubtful of what they would do with a knife if the 18th Amendment were repealed.

* * *

They are now using wild cat fur on evening gowns, so say the papers. Maybe that is why so many of the society girls go wild.

Frank G. Harris, of Columbia, Mo., was in Sikeston Saturday in the interest of his candidacy for Lieutenant Governor on the Democratic ticket. While in the city he paid The Standard office a visit. He was the party nominee four years ago, but went down in defeat with the entire ticket. He is a high type gentleman in every way.

Dearmont Pledges Reduction of State Government Costs Through Elimination of Useless Boards

Democratic Candidate for Governor Addressed 20,000 Southeast Missourians at Monster Rally Last Thursday

The text of Senator Russell Lee Dearmont's address to 20,000 or more loyal Southeast Missourians who last Thursday staged one of the largest political rallies ever promoted in this State, follows:

Mr. Chairman, my good friend Judge Perley, neighbors from all over Southeast Missouri and friends who have come from afar for this marvelous meeting, I want you to know that I am happy to be home again. Since the 7th day of January I have been conducting a strenuous campaign in the north and western half of the State of Missouri, carrying my candidacy to the good people in those sections of the State. I have driven in my automobile more than 32,000 miles over the Highways and Byways of Missouri, or 7000 miles further than it is around this old globe upon which we live. I have made more than 250 speeches in the campaign to this date and can truthfully say to you that I have made a more vigorous, aggressive and militant campaign than any candidate for the nomination for Governor has ever made in the history of this State. I have tried to enter into the true spirit of the Primary law and give the people of this State an opportunity to know me and hear my views upon the important issues of the campaign. In this way and in this way alone can the electorate be placed in a position to exercise sound judgment in the selection of public officials.

I am happy to come back to my neighbors and friends in Southeast Missouri with an enthusiastic message that victory is now in sight; with the sincere and earnest message that your wholehearted support will send me to the Governor's chair. I have never for a moment doubted your loyalty to me in this fight and this, the greatest crowd that ever assembled in the political history of Southeast Missouri should be a resounding answer to any who may have questioned your purpose to make me Governor of Missouri. Without your loyal support I would not have had the courage to make the terrific fight which I have made. I have lived my life among you. I am flesh of your flesh, blood of your blood, bone of your bone, and to be elected Governor without your friendly wholehearted approval and support would take most of the joy and pleasure from the accomplishment.

I come back home today to ask and I know to receive the support of my own people in my race for the highest office in the gift of the people of Missouri.

The issues of the campaign are many and I would not keep you long from the festive board by discussing them in detail upon this occasion. Nor would I, upon this occasion, take up your time with a discussion of general partisan political issues. I have always been ready to yield to my good Republican friends and neighbors the privilege, to differ with me on these questions. I have always realized, as do most Democrats, that our Republican neighbors and friends are just as honest as we are, just as interested in having an honest and efficient administration of public affairs as are we Democrats. No good can come at any time from an unfair partisan discussion of public problems and affairs. I say, however, to my Republican friends that, in my honest opinion, their present leadership has lost sight of most of them. It has been enamored and has had its eye focused too much upon the privileged interests of America. In the coming campaign they offer you the same leadership that has failed to raise to the occasion and truly lead America in its darkest hour.

Boards Must Prove Worth

When I am Governor of the great State of Missouri, I will abolish every Board, Bureau, Commission and Agency of the State Government which cannot prove its right to exist by showing that it renders an absolutely necessary and essential service to the people of this State. I will have the same regard for the expenditure of the public funds paid into the treasury by the taxpayers of Missouri that I would have for the expenditure of the money I earned by the sweat of my brow.

Do you realize that the State government of Missouri today owns two million dollars worth of automobiles, purchased with money taken from the taxpayers of this State, which bear official license plates and largely carry over the the Highway of Missouri so-called Inspectors of Drug Stores, Hotels, Ice Cream Factories, Bottling Works, Restaurants and many other business places in the State. If these inspectors rendered any real service to the people, some of them might justify their existence. But if you will inquire you will find that with scarcely an exception they are only Cash Register Inspectors that walk into the places of business in this State, lean heavily upon the Cash Register, write out a receipt for their fees, collect the money, looking ever for another place to collect more fees. Never rendering any service to the people of this State, they seem to operate upon the principle that the more fees they collect the more Inspectors they can hire, to collect more fees, to hire more Inspectors. It is an endless chain of extravagance. They have a theory that the more people they can get on the payroll the more successfully those who hire them can campaign for re-election to public office. I do not subscribe to the old spoil system as an asset to any public official or political party. I believe that the political party which places in office in Missouri public officials who will ever consider the public welfare, who will ever strive to reduce the costs of government and give a business-like and economical administration of governmental affairs, will remain in power so long as its representatives remain true to such ideals.

There are many reforms in the administrative side of the state government which I would like to discuss with you upon this occasion. Time forbids, however, that I do more than mention them at this time.

A BUDGET NEEDED

We need in Missouri an extensive budget. We need a uniform system of accounting. We need a central purchasing agency for the state government.

If I am elected Governor it would be my purpose to ask the other elective state officials to sit with me as a Board of Directors and advise with me in the administration of state affairs. To join me wholeheartedly in a program of economy and of business like administration of state affairs. I am sure I can secure their cooperation and that together we can effect a saving in the administrative costs of government in our state of approximately 50 per cent of its present cost.

I need not base my campaign upon a platform of merely promises for the future. I have written a record as a member of the state senate that I believe establishes my interest in the welfare of the great masses of Missouri citizens. In the first session in which I served, I succeeded, after a bitter fight in reducing by 1 per cent a month excessive rates charged by the loan sharks in Missouri. I reduced the excessive interest rates they charged the people of small means upon loans made to them.

In the last legislature I am sure you know of the fight I made for tax relief. It was a fight to relieve real property in Missouri from the oppressive and excessiveburden of taxation which it was bearing. A fight to increase the income tax so that there might be a more equitable distribution of the tax burden in our state. After a bitter fight the income tax law was passed and with it its companion, the new school law. This program sought to enable every school district in Missouri to maintain a standard eight months school upon the local tax levy of 20 cents on the $100 assessed valuation; the additional funds necessary to maintain such a school being provided from the state school fund. I believe sincerely that after I have been Governor twelve months and with the aid of other state officials have put into effect the measures of economy which I have briefly referred to heretofore that this program may be carried out as originally planned. The income tax increase will not be collected for a full year until next June, but even this year by reason of the enactment of this legislation the schools of this state will receive not less than double the sum they would have received during the coming school year under the terms of the old law.

As to the personal side of the campaign I will not now nor have I during the campaign spoken unkindly of my opponent, Mr. Wilson. I have only conceived it to be proper in the past and now to bring to the attention of the voters of this State certain facts about which there can be no question. Facts that in my opinion should influence the decision of the voters in the Primary election.

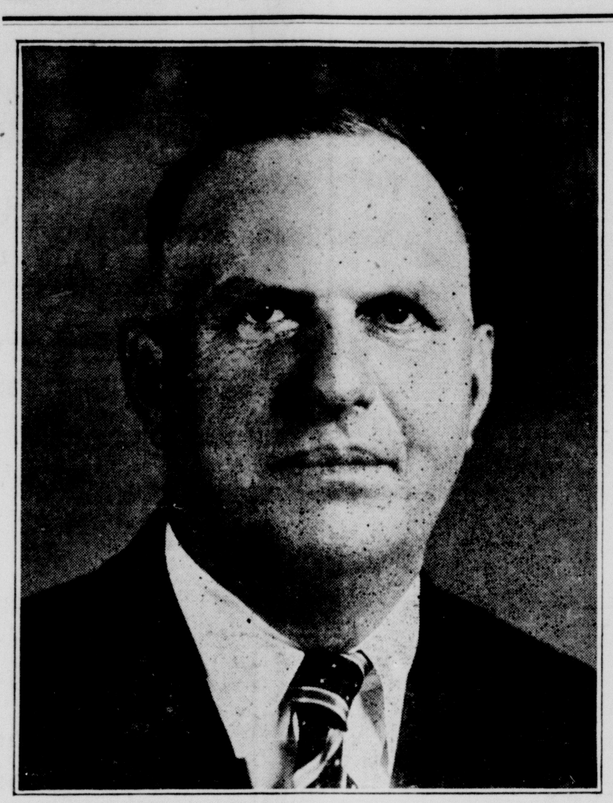
In the first place I feel, that Mr. Wilson has not accepted the obligation which the Primary places upon candidates for public office. He has not come before the voters of this State and expressed himself upon the important issues which are of interest to the citizens of this State in this campaign. He has seemed content to sit upon his front porch, sip ice water through a straw, fan himself with a palm leaf fan and trust in the power of a big factional Boss in Kansas City to lay the Democratic nomination for Governor in his lap. Probably no more should have been expected of him, as in the past he has shown little enthusiasm in political campaign, has scarcely ever appeared upon the platform in this State, upon the firing line for the Democratic Party. He has been richly rewarded for many years by political patronage, climaxing his receipt of political plums by an appointment at the hands of his brother-in-law, a Federal Judge, as Receiver of the bankrupt Kansas City Street Railway Company. On this job he was aided by a co-receiver who was a railroad man and a business man of great experience. For six years he drew a salary, as did his co-receiver amounting to more than $31,000 each year. Although he was a lawyer he paid during this period more than $250,000 out of the bankrupt company funds to lawyers for legal advice. It is evident that in the past twenty years he has been too busy accepting lucrative political plums, to give any time to public or party affairs. In my opinion the Democratic party needs a vigorous, aggressive, fighting leadership if it expects to win in the coming election. If my candidacy offers such a leadership in the opinion of the people I will be happy to lead the host of Democracy to victory.

Upon the issue raised by Mr. Thomas Pendergast of Kansas City in this campaign, which I have been frankly meeting at every opportunity, that is, the issue as to whether the Democratic party in Missouri shall become a controlled or Boss Ruled Party, I will speak but briefly. In discussing it today as at other times in the campaign, I will not indulge in any bitter personalities. There are Democrats in Missouri who disagree with me upon this issue but many more, in my opinion, who heartily agree with my position. I yield to every one the right to their own opinion upon this matter and frankly state to you now that the issue simply places before the people two widely divergent views as to how Party affairs should be administered, and how governmental affairs should be conducted in Missouri. I chance to be an old fashioned Jeffersonian Democrat. I believe with Jefferson that a Party can be strong and successfuly only so long as it rseponds readily to the will of the majority of those who support it. I agree with Jefferson that Democratic form of government can only be successful and continue to exist while it is responsive to the will of a majority of its citizens. In other words, I have always believed that the people can be rtusted and the view of the majority of them when clearly expressed should be followed by party leaders and official of governrnment. To this Mr. Pendergast does not agree.

I had hoped to avoid a discussion of this issue in this campaign but when I attended the Democratic State Convention, saw the big Boss from Kansas City come, followed by 3000 or more of his bond slaves and became familiar with their political tactics, my rebel Democratic blood and my interest in the future of the Democratic Party, would not permit me to over look the gauntlet which was there thrown down to the Democrats of Missouri.

I saw the Big Boss push back, ever back the old rural Democrats of Missouri, who have been the back bone of our Party in every election in which we have been successful in the past. I was there when he let it be known that no Democrat, regardless of his loyalty and service to the Party in the past could go as a delegate at large to the National Convention at Chicago unless he would support the Boss' slate of candidates in the August primary.

And what was the keynote message brought to the State convention by the big Boss from Kansas City. Listen to the inspiring slogan which he offers to Missouri Democracy: "I am only interested in seeing that my boys in Kansas City get the jobs that are coming to them".



Penman Receives Endorsement Of State Labor Federation

T. A. Penman, Democratic candidate for State Senator from the 23rd District received the endorsement July 11 of the Missouri State Federation of Labor.

A letter over the signature of R. T. Wood, president of the Federation follows:

"The Executive Board of the Missouri State Federation of Labor extends to you by unanimous vote, our appreciation for the good record you made as a member of the Fifty-sixth General Assembly on legislation affecting the interests of the common people".

Mr. Penman, the New Madrid County "farmer candidate" from this district, called on The Standard Saturday afternoon while in this city looking after the progress of his campaign. Mr. Penman is a former County Judge in New Madrid County, served two terms in the State Legislature, and appears to be well informed on governmental affairs.

There is one candidate from each of three counties in the district, New Madrid, Scott and Mississippi, leaving Stoddard and Pemiscot Counties as a sort of general battle ground for the three Democrats seeking the nomination. At present, there is no Republican on the ticket.

SCOTT COUNTY MELON CROP NEEDS RAIN

Although few straggling watermelons have appeared on local tables, large scale growers of this delicous melon claim that the crop will be drastically reduced unless rain happens along very soon.

One grower with 450 acres of melons on sandy land claims that his total crop will be held to three or four car loads unless rain comes to the rescue of the youngsters on the vine.

Another farmer with an acreage of 150, claims he will have a bumper crop of extra fine melons if favored with sufficient moisture, and an extremely short crop if the present heat wave continues.

Scattered reports from over the county indicate that carload shipping will begin generally within seven to ten days. The rest of the season, if there is to be more, will depend entirely upon rains.

A few local growers were busy this week clipping small melons from the vines. They were cooked soft, it was explained.

Cantaloupes on the other hand were benefittted by recent occassional showers and the crop is fair to average, with quality good. Melons are selling retail from five cents to ten cents each and lower.

TOP NOTCHERS DISPLAY FINE FORM AND TAKE HONORS IN GOLF TOURNEY

Although advantages, if any, in the local handicap tournament here Sunday went to the medium or low shooters, the top-notchers with their consistent playing holed out to win all honors.

J. L. Brown, with a handicap of 10 strokes, made the eighteen holes in 77 for a medal score of 67, and C. C. Scott with a low handicap of two strokes came through with 69 strokes for the two rounds tying Brown's score of 67. First and second prizes were awarded to the two players.

Third honors were divided three ways, with Vincent Roast of New Madrid, sharing honors with C. L. Malone and L. R. Bowman. Handicaps of 12 strokes for Roast, 5 for Malone, and 2 for Bowman proved to be sufficient.

Handicaps for "dubs" in the contest ranged from 10 strokes to 30.

SCOTT COUNTIANS WIN DEGREES IN CAPE NORMAL

Cape Girardeau—Of the 878 candidates for diplomas and certificates the following are from Scott County: For the B. STODDARD MEN PLAN HOMECOMING EVENT

Emmett O'Neal, farm agent for Stoddard County, and members of a committee visited in Sikeston briefly Tuesday afternoon in the interest of a proposed "homecoming," county wide in nature, to be held in Bloomfield the latter part of September or the first part of October. Mr. O'Neal was interested, he said, in feeling out sentiment here regarding the proposed event, and assured Scott Countians that the Stoddard homecoming would not conflict in any way with the annual Neighbor Day stunt held in Benton.

MARILYN JO MORGAN DEAD

Marilyn Jo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Morgan of Illinois, died at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mullin, four miles south of Brown's Spur July 22, at the age of two months and twenty-nine days, of colitis.

She leaves to mourn her passing her parents, one sister, Barbara Sue, two grandmothers, one grandfather and many other relatives. She was laid to rest in the Matthews cemetery.

CITY COUNCIL TO MEET MONDAY NIGHT

The Sikeston City Council will hold its regular monthly meeting next Monday night, August 1, according to P. H. Stevenson, clerk. Regular routine matters are to come before the body.

FERRY BOAT EXPLOSION AT THEBES CLAIMS TWO LIVES THURSDAY NIGHT

An explosion aboard a gasoline-powered ferry boat at the west side of the Mississippi River opposite Thebes, Ill., cost the lives of two persons, a girl and a man.

Ward Cossiboom of Thebes, pilot of the ferry the Addie May, died in St. Francis Hospital shortly before noon Friday from burns sustained in the explosion.

Miss Ethel Hopper, 19 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Hopper of near Arbor, died in the hospital late Friday.

Miss Hopper and the pilot were severely burned after being sprayed with gasoline when the motor exploded. Flames evidently started from backfire of the power unit, and soon enveloped the boat and the two victims. Both were rendered unconscious shortly after the accident.

Miss Hopper jumped into the river near the shore with her clothing in flames, according to witnesses. She was rushed to the office of Dr. G. T. Dorris of Illmo, where she received emergency treatment, and was later removed to the Cape Girardeau Hospital. Cossiboom dashed from the pilot house, reached land and began tearing his clothing from his body as he ran.

The accident happened about 9:30 o'clock Thursday night.

The Hopper family lives on Hickory Ridge, a mile and a half from Arbor and Mr. Hopper said he and his daughter had gone Thursday to near Cobden, Ill., to get apples. He said they had returned to Thebes and had crossed on the boat. After the boat hod been docked, he said, and he had driven his car to land, his daughter, who had walked up the bank of the river, decided to return to the engine room for a drink of water. Her father related that she had just gone into the room when the flare-up and fire came.

He said that others about the boat at the time believed the engine backfired and started the blaze. He said that was all he knew of the origin of it.

E. L. Holliday of Thebes, owner of the ferry, stated later that the engine in the boat was arranged according to government regulations and could not advance a reason for the explosion. The ferry, a steel-hulled one, plied between Thebes and Illmo landing.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning for the 35-year-old pilot, Cossibom, who is survived by his widow and two children. The family lived in Thebes.

Funeral services for Miss Hopper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hopper of near Arbor, were conducted Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the Haman Funeral Home, Cape Girardeau, with Rev. E. D. Owen, pastor of First Baptist church. Burial at Stroderville cemetery, near Whitewater.

Miss Hopper was born February 28, 1913, and besides her parents is survived by six brothers. Four of them, Everett, Millard, Owen and Ernest, live in St. Louis and Leonard and Willard are at home.

SAYS DEARMONT RALLY WAS LARGEST POLITICAL GATHERING IN PRIMARY

Cape Missourian:—The Dearmont rally at New Madrid was the largest meeting S. B. Hunter, the chairman, said he had ever seen for any candidate before his nomination. He said he attended a political meeting at Bunceton at which a candidate for president was the speaker, but that was the only one he ever saw that was larger than the Dearmont rally.

People attended because they wanted to hear the candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, Mr. Hunter declared. In spite of minor disturbances and confusion they listened attentively to the speakers. Even when at 3 o'clock, the crowd was invited to come and get what was left of the barbecued meat, and there was a rush to the pits, more than 5000 people stayed in their places to listen to the speeches.

According to Mr. Hunter, 17,000 people were on the grounds by 1 o'clock and they kept coming until there were at least 20,000. They came in cars, trucks, wagons, horseback and on foot. He even sent trucks out to pick up the ones who were walking and bring them in.

Many Candidates

As chairman of the meeting, after the principal address, Mr. Hunter introduced the other Democratic candidates who were present and allowed them 3 to 5 minutes each to talk. Among them were Floyd Sperry of Clinton, for lieutenant governor; Jim Wells of St. Joseph, for Secretary of State; Richard R. Nacy of Jefferson City, for treasurer; George B. Calvin of Washington, for attorney general; Judge Allen W. Walker of Fayette for Judge of the Supreme Court, Division one; Judge Chas. L. Henson of Springfield, for Judge of the Supreme Court, Division two; R. F. Baynes of New Madrid for Springfield Court of Appeals; Charles E. Dewey of Jefferson City, Barton N. Grant of Webster Groves, James F. Fulbright of Doniphan and James E. Ruffin of Springfield, for Congress James C. McDowell of Charleston and T. A. Penman of Portageville for state senator.

DEARMONT MOTORCADE TO INVADE LEAD BELT

Friends of Senator Russell Dearmont, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, plan to tour the Lead Belt next Saturday, touching briefly many points north and northwest of Cape Girardeau, the home town of Mr. Dearmont.

NEW FURNACE TO "KEEP THE PARSON HOT"

A contract to install a new heating plant in the Methodist parsonage has been awarded to C. B. Poage & Son, who have the work well underway.

Part of the cost of the new heating plant will be met by the Russell-Bradley Missionary Society, which this week Thursday evening is sponsoring a band concert and ice cream social in Malone Park. The Society was divided into four teams, each of which is working on a separate project to raise finance. The social and concert idea is the idea of Mrs. J. M. Pitman, captain of one group.

POAGE & SON BUY GIANT VACUUM CLEANER

The largest vacuum cleaner in Sikeston is a two-horsepower outfit recently purchased by C. B. Poage & Son, furnace experts and tinners.

According to heating experts even an eighth of an inch of soot in flues or furnace pipes reduces efficiency of any plant from 25 to 35 per cent. The cleaner will be used to remove all soot, and any accumulation of line and dust in heat pipes of hot air furnaces. A nominal charge is made.

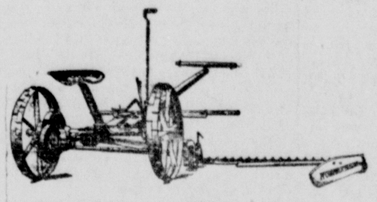
Here are Three Modern Tools to Speed Up the Haying



McCORMICK-DEERING Mowers, Side Rakes, and Hay Loaders are the last word in hay machinery efficiency. They have been the standard in hay tools for years. You can put them into your fields year after year and be assured that they will do as good a job as the first crop they handled. You need tools like these that can be relied on to beat the weather. Each has many special features which we will gladly explain. We hope you'll come in soon and ask us a lot of questions about them.

WIN WITH WINTER

EDWARD H. WINTER
Republican Candidate for Governor

Nominate Him in August—He Will Win in November!

Missouri is a Great State—She is Entitled to a Great Governor

WINTER

Will Make That Kind of a GOVERNOR

BECAUSE:

He is definite in his proposals for economy in the operation of State government.
He possesses a sympathetic and appreciative understanding of Missourians and their problems.
His record as a public official has not been attacked by even his bitterest political enemy.
He has shown an unselfish zeal in fostering legislation that has benefitted the entire State.
He is farm born and farm reared and therefore tremendously interested in the farmer and his problems.
He is a trusted executive of proven ability, peculiarly fitted to serve the State as its Governor.
Edward H. Winter today is Lieutenant-Governor of Missouri. He was born on a Warren County, Missouri, farm April 5, 1879, of parents who had immigrated from Germany. He was one of a family of eleven children. He was educated in the public schools of the community and was graduated from Central Wesleyn College, Warrenton, in 1904. He also was a student of the University of Chicago. In the early years of his manhood he taught school. In 1905 he became editor and publisher of the Warrenton Banner. In 1926 he was elected President of the Missouri Press Association. He was married to Adena M. Koelling, of Lincoln County in 1905. They have three children Lyman, Dorothea and Karl E. He was appointed probate judge of Warren County in 1921 and the following year was elected Representative. He was re-elected in 1924 and named speaker pro-tem at the following session. In 1927 he was named speaker of the House. In 1928 he was elected Lieutenant-Governor. He is the first man to preside over both houses of the Missouri legislative body.
He will make the kind of candidate for whom no apologies need to be made. His record is clean, and the party can at once begin a constructive campaign in his behalf.

Wess Sherwood

Democratic Candidate For

Sheriff

New Madrid County

My Platform: I will if nominated and elected—

1. Enforce the law to the best of my ability, showing partiality to none.

2. Do my duty as prescribed by law.

3. Save money for the County and the Taxpayers whenever and wherever possible.

In respect to the latter it is said by some of my opponents that it would be impossible to save money since certain fees and expenses are prescribed by law.

In answer, I merely state that in looking over the records of the sheriff's office I find many items on which savings could be made. If nominated and elected, I will make those savings.

BLISTER BUGS RUIN VINES BUT DO GOOD EATING 'HOPPER EGGS

R. L. Furry, Scott Co. Farm Agent

Certain types of insects are now harming our potatoes, tomatoes and especially the clematis vines. Some of these bugs are long, blue color, often called the old Blister Beetle or Running Beetle. The second type is a black beetle, the same size and general form, and the third type is the common old striped Blister Beetle, often referred to as the old striped potato beetle. All three of these work in the same manner and when hungry, will work on almost anything. Some people drive these bugs with switches, etc., from their place over to a neighbor, and the neighbor drives them on to the next one. This gives relief only to a temporary spot and permits them to increase in greater numbers. Any of these insects can be controlled by use of pure calcium arsenate through a hand-duster. Here at Benton several clematis vines and other vines dusted with this dust at the beginning of the outbreak has almost freed the vines of these insects. As these pests are rather destructive to some of our crops, they happen to be beneficial to others. For instance, they generally appear just about the time the grasshoppers have laid their eggs and they will get busy and eat every grasshopper they can find. This is one trait we must give them credit for.

The smartest man, according to one of our sons, is not his father, but the father of one of his friends. This man can tell the boys more interesting things about stars, while sleeping out doors with his children and others. And in our opinion, the man who knows how to entertain youngsters by explaining things which they do not understand, and talking to them in a way they appreciate, is an ideal parent. Any adult can please a child by giving it money or buying some gift. But such pleasure is only temporary and does no good, and on the other hand encourages a desire for things which they may never be able to afford. We have found that nine times out of ten a home-made toy will make more fun for a child, especially if he participates in the making, than a purchased mechanical plaything. And nature provides the best of all entertainment if an individual can only appreciate it.—Shelbina Democrat.

The PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Due to the fact that Governor Caulfield vetoed the Re-districting Congressional Bill, passed by the Democratic Legislature, all candidates for Congress must now run at large. The Democrats of the Sixth Congressional District have for ten successive terms nominated me for Congress. I am now asking for nomination at large in the August primary.

I cordially endorse our candidates for President and Vice President, and stand squarely on the Democratic platform adopted at Chicago. I will vote for Joint Resolution of Congress to submit the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to a vote of the people of the several States, as provided in the Democratic platform. I also favor a modification of the Volstead Act, pending action for repeal, to permit the sale of beer at a higher per cent, to be fixed by law—not intoxicating, and to be subject to taxation—to help support the Government.

I favor strict economy in Government—a cutting down of expenditures, abolishment of unnecessary bureaus and commissions, a lowering of the high protective tariff walls at home and abroad—so that the surplus products of farm and factory may find a world market and so trade and commerce, the life of nations, may be restored and labor be employed again.

Two To Be Nominated

Democratic Primary August 2, 1932

Why YOU Should Vote for Judge Fitzsimmons, of St. Louis, for Judge of Supreme Court, Division Two—

He received highest vote of Missouri lawyers on Democratic Supreme Court Candidates in Referendum recently held.

He is now a Supreme Court Commissioner doing the work of a Judge of that Court.

He made an admirable record as a Circuit Judge in St. Louis.

SOUTHEAST MISSOURI should be particularly interested in the candidacy of Judge Fitzsimmons inasmuch as his nomination and election will ASSURE REPRESENTATION OF THIS SECTION ON THE MISSOURI SUPREME COURT.

Be Sure and Have JAMES F. FULBRIGHT Democratic Candidate for Congressman-at-Large On Your Ticket in the August Primary

A Tireless Worker
Able Campaigner
Eloquent Speaker

Your Vote and Influence Will Be Appreciated

Mr. Fulbright resides at Doniphan and has represented this district in Congress several terms. He is thoroughly capable and has proved to be a faithful servant of the people of this State.

Owing to all the Congressmen being nominated at large this year, Mr. Fulbright and all other candidates will be voted on all over the State.

Thirteen candidates are to be nominated. Democrats are urged and requested to vote for Mr. Fulbright in the primary August 2. In making out your ticket, be sure and leave the name of James F. Fulbright on the ballot you vote.

I stand four-square on the Democratic Platform Adopted at Chicago

Fulbright Is Again a Candidate for Congress:

One of the outstanding members of the Missouri Congressional delegation is none other than Honorable James F. Fulbright, who resides at Doniphan and represents the Fourteenth District of Southeast Missouri, one of the largest districts in the State.

This representative is truly a man of the people. Fighting his way to a place among his fellowmen has not been easy. Being a self-made man, he was compelled to endure many of the hardships that come in the pathway of a young man who had no funds but was blessed with a grim determination to succeed. Such a young man was James F. Fulbright, now a member of Congress.

The writer knows very well the many achievements of Mr. Fulbright. It was our privilege to serve as a member of the Missouri general assembly with Mr. Fulbright, in which body he was honored by being named the speaker pro tem, a position of responsibility that he filled with great honor to himself. In that legislative body Mr. Fulbright was a defender of the people's interests and he was always ready to lend his aid to passage of such legislation as would bring relief to the people he represented. So it is true in the national Congress. It is said that Mr. Fulbright stands out prominently as one of the safe leaders of that body and his service there has attracted nation-wide interest. Mr. Fulbright is a gifted speaker, an able campaigner and in the State-wide Congressional campaign he will be a great power for the success of the State and national ticket in the general election.—The Moberly (Mo.) Message.

The writer, the city editor of the Louisiana Press-Journal, has known James F. Fulbright for 20 years and heartily confirms what has been said of him by the editor of the Moberly Message. Mr. Fulbright, truly a self-made man, was born and reared on a farm near Millerville, in Cape Girardeau County, Missouri. He was educated in the public schools, the State normal school at Cape Girardeau and Washington law school, St Louis. He taught four terms in the rural schools of Ripley County, one of the counties of the 14th district which he now has the honor to represent in Congress. He served several terms as prosecuting attorney of Ripley County and represented that county in the State legislature, serving as speaker pro tem during the 48th and 49th sessions. He was elected a member of the 68th and 70th Congresses and was again elected to the 72nd Congress, where he is at present ably serving the constituents of his district. In the elections of 1928 and 1930 he received the largest vote ever given a Democratic candidate in that district. The success of Mr. Fulbright in being repeatedly elected to Congress from the 14th district, normally Republican, the largest district in the State, comprising 16 counties, extending along the south and southeastern border with a population larger than that of any other district in the State outside the large cities, constitutes one of the interesting and outstanding chapters of Missouri political history. His success attests his ability as a campaigner, pleasing personality, high type manhood, loyalty to party principle and the eminently satisfactory quality of service he has rendered the people whom he so ably represents as a member of Congress in Washington.

Mr. Fulbright lives at Doniphan, where he was twice honored by being elected mayor. He was married in Ripley county, his wife being a member of one of Southeastern Missouri's best families. He takes an active interest in the civic affairs of his home town and in fraternal activities and is a past grand master of the Odd Fellows of Missouri.

Like Clarence Cannon of the Ninth district and others who are seeking the nomination for Congress in Missouri this year, due to the non-approval of a redistricting measure, it will be necessary for Congressman Fulbright to submit his claims for re-election to the people of the State at large instead of only to the people of the 14th district, as has been the custom. As it will be impossible for him to make a tour of the State to solicit support, it will be necessary to depend in a large measure upon the efforts of his friends in securing his nomination as one of 13 candidates to be nominated in the primary to be voted for in the general election in November.

Mr. Fulbright is known in Southeast Missouri as a tireless, able campaigner, and a speaker of unusual ability. He has been making campaign speeches for the Democratic party ever since he began teaching a rural school on Buffalo creek in the hills of the western part of Ripley county and will be an effective, forceful campaigner for the general election next November.

Mr. Fulbright is one of the tried, true, dependable members of Congress and it is to the best interest of the people of the State that he be returned.—Louisiana Press-Journal.

JUDGE HENSON TAKES CAMPAIGN TO ST. LOUIS

Springfield, July 21.—Jubilant over the result of the Missouri State bar poll, which late last week overwhelmingly endorsed him, Judge Charles L. Henson, Democratic candidate for division 2 of the State supreme court, this week pushed his campaign into St. Louis and a tier of border Mississippi river counties.

The bar ballot, voted upon by Judges and lawyers of both political parties throughonut Missouri, gave Judge Henson an outstanding endorsement for one of the two places to be filled in the criminal division of the high bench.

Friends of the jurist pointed out that his count in the bar ballot proved his universal popularity throughout the State, because in order to amass 1223 votes, as he did, in the polling, it was necessary to procure 1000 votes outside the Springfield Court of Appeals district, in which only 205 ballots were cast.

Leaders also felt confident of his nomination in the primary on August 2, because of the fact that the bar endorsements are generally closely followed by the State's voters.

Judge Henson, who for 12 years was circuit judge of the 24th judicial district, is the only aspirant to division 2 of the high court living outside Kansas City and St. Louis, and is also the only candidate in that race from the entire southern half of Missouri.

Due to the unusual length of the Democratic and Republican ballots this year and the multiplicity of candidates for Congressional berths, it will take longer to vote than it usually does. Also it is going to take longer to count the ballots. Most every voter can vote as conveniently in the forenoon as in the afternoon, ought to do so for it will be a big help towards getting early returns. If the judges and clerks will begin counting just as soon as a few ballots are cast, and then try to keep up with it throughout the day, there will be very few precincts in the county where the election judges and clerks will have to work late in order to get through.

CLYDE WILLIAMS

is seeking the Democratic Nomination for

CONGRESSMAN-AT-LARGE

It will be recalled that he was elected to Congress in 1926, and after serving one term was defeated in 1928 by a narrow margin, although the district went to the Republicans by an overwhelming majority. In 1930 Mr. Williams was elected to Congress over his Republican opponent by a huge majority. He served the people of the district with ability and distinction receiving recognition and acquiring honors that rarely come to men in their early years in Congress. In this Congress he is a member of the great Committee on Banking and Finance.

Born and reared on the farm he knows the problems of agriculture first hand. A close student of the law and the functions of government, he knows the economic, industrial and social needs of the country. He has ever been a true friend of the laboring man, and has made a success of his own business affairs. By education, by training and experience, he is qualified to represent this district in Congress.

His theories of government are sound. He believes in less centralization and more local government; less bureacracy and more democracy; less intricacy in the machinery of government and more of the simplicity of common sense; less favoritism and special privilege and more equality; less graft and more honor in public life; less greed and more conscience; less reliance on political pull and chicanery and more faith in the ability and integrity of the plain common people; more economy in government and for the abolishment of useless boards, bureaus and commissions. He is also for lower taxes and will do everything he can do to further such.

He stands squarely upon the Democratic National Platform.

He is grateful to all his friends for their faithful and loyal support in other campaigns, and if elected to Congress again, he promises the same careful, faithful and conscientious service that he has always tried to render in the past.

The State of Missouri is entitled to elect only 13 CONGRESSMEN this year, and they are to be voted upon all over the State. Heretofore, we had 16, but the last census reduced Missouri to 13. At present there are 12 DEMOCRATS in Congress from Missouri. They are running for re-election and are as follows:

CLYDE WILLIAMS, HILLSBORO
MILTON A. ROMJUE, MACON
JOHN J. COCHRAN, ST. LOUIS
JAMES F. FULBRIGHT, DONIPHAN
JACOB L. MILLIGAN, RICHMOND
JOSEPH B. SHANNON, KANSAS CITY
CLEMENT C. DICKINSON, CLINTON
ROBERT D. JOHSON, MARSHALL
WILLIAM E. BARTON, HOUSTON
CLARENCE CANNON, ELSBERRY
WILLIAM L. NELSON, COLUMBIA
RALPH F. LOZIER, CARROLLTON

These men are the choice of the Democrats in the particular part of the State where they live, and a great many Democrats in all parts of the State feel that their re-election will strengthen the Democratic State ticket in the fall election by from twenty-five to fifty thousand votes, thereby to that extent making more sure of the Democrats carrying Missouri this fall. They are now fairly well distributed over the State geographically. Moreover, since the present Congressmen are now the choice of a large majority of the Democrats in their present Congressional Districts, it is the general opinion of Democrats over the State that the people in each section should not be deprived of the Congressman they desire in their particular section. In the event of their re-election, it would avoid any possibility of a ticket being chosen from one or a few localities. Should a ticket be nominated throwing too many candidates in the same territory, the Republican politicans would be quick to try to take advantage of such a situation. There is a movement on now by the Republicans in Missouri to get behind 13 of their men to combat the Democratic Congressmen this Fall. The strength in the way of organization that the present Congressmen have in their districts appeals strongly to the Democratic voters and that, coupled with their experience and qualifications make the present number a strong aggregation to go against the Hoover machine this fall. The Republican party seems scheduled to re-nominate all their present Congressmen.

Candidate for Congress

IN WHICH MELONS, A BAD DEAL AND BASEBALL IS MIXED

A guarantee of $5.00 failed to show up, and a gate receipt split disappeared during a negro baseball game here Friday afternoon in which the locals won from the visiting Cape Girardeau team 8 to 7, leaving the dusky losers stranded.

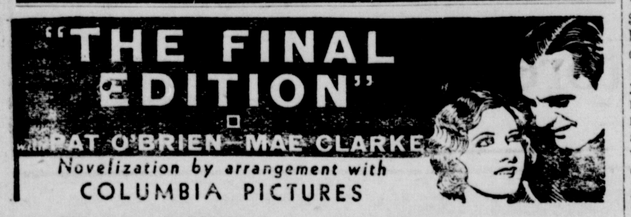
According to Bedell Smith, manager of the Cape Girardeau club, had been promised a $5 guarantee plus a 60-40 split of the gate over that amount.

When the total gate turned out to be 95 cents, Walter Turner, manager of the local club, disappeared, it is alleged, as did the gate receipts.

In the meantime repairs to the truck which brought the club to Sikeston accounted for a garage bill of $1.60. With no money in sight, Mr. Garage Owner simply held the truck.

Recourse to law was necessary on the part of Smith and his baseball nine, to locate Turner and the gate receipts. Turner's father paid the fiver, the Justice of the Peace took one dollar for his trouble; the garageman received $1.60, and the Cape Girardeau ball team departed more or less delayed, but happy.

Officers in their search for young Turner found the senior member of the family guarding a melon patch with a shot gun. They arrested four white men, one of whom later paid a fine of $1.00 and costs for trespassing—and 'costs' in Sikeston run in the neighborhood of $7.00.



WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Anne Woodman, sob-sister on the Bulletin, is interested in solving the mystery of the murder of Commissioner of Police Conroy. She discovers that the motive was to secure evidence that Conroy had in his files. Anne suspects Sid Malvern, who has gone out of town. She follows him to Lakeside, where she secures the room adjoining his. In it she discovers evidence that he has checked some valuable papers in the parcel room. Sid enters Anne's room while the check for the package and the key to his room lay on the table. He starts to embrace Anne as the telephone rings. He tells Anne not to answer it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I couldn't think of it," said Anne, picking up the receiver. "Might be a telegram saying my millionaire uncle has just died leaving me a fortune. Hello!"

Over the wire came the voice of the operator asking, "Did you call, madam?"

"Why no—of course not. I'm not in the habit of having men in my room—well, you can send up and find out if you like." Anne replaced the receiver. "I'm afraid you'd better go. I wouldn't have them find you here."

"I guess it wouldn't be so good," Sid stepped back. "Say, they've got their nerve. I'll call them for that."

"No, don't bother. Just go before they get here."

"Well if you say so." He glanced at his appearance, then laughingly said, "I'd better change the costume anyway."

"Goodbye."

"See you later." Sid started toward the door.

"Oh, Mr. Morgan—if you don't mind—my key." She extended her hand.

"Oh yeah—yes, of course." He fumbled in his pockets for it, finally producing the key.

"Thank you so much. You must come again sometime." Anne edged him to the door as she spoke, breathing a sigh of relief when he had departed. It was a close shave, much closer than she cared to experience again. She made sure that the check and the key to Room 618 were deposited in a safe place before she did anything else.

In the Bulletin office, Brad was examining the photograph of Sid and Anne. He beamed as he beheld it. "Boy, I'll make a newspaper woman out of that gal yet.

"Say, I might try burning Patsy King up with it. If she got sore at Malvern and started squawking, she might have a lot to say."

Thus, the next morning Patsy King woke up to find a picture on the society page of the Bulletin that made her leap out of bed. "The dirty—double-crossing——" She almost ripped the receiver off the telephone as she grabbed it up and called Selby.

"Have you seen what our boy friend is up to?" she asked. "Well, grab yourself a copy of the Bulletin and see for yourself. On the beach, getting himself in with a new dame."

"Well, what about it?" Selby replied over the wire, uninterested in Malvern's feminine entanglements. "What do you want me to do?"

"Get a load of this!" Patsy came back determined to burn Selby up. "That rat double crossed you as he has me!"

Selby's face changed, and although Patsy could not see it, the tone of his voice told her that he was furious. "What do you mean by that?"

"He held out on you! You didn't expect him to be on the level did you? All the real stuff—the dope on you, he's got put away somewhere—checked in some safe place, he said."

Selby was livid with rage and fear as he replied, "Well I'll find out!" He slammed the receiver back in place and called for his secretary.

"Send this straight wire," he ordered as she entered the office. "John Morgan, Seabreeze Hotel, Lakeside. Important you return immediately advise plane. Come to apartment. S."

Malvern was worried when he received the wire and lost no time in checking out. By taxi and plane he made the shortest possible time to Patsy's apartment where the girl and Selby were awaiting him.

"Well, what's up?" Sid inquired as he entered and beheld the sore, sullen and vindictive faces of his colleagues.

Patsy approached him and in a low, tense voice snarled, "You dirty, lowdown, double-crossing chiseler!"

Selby caught his arm and whirled Sid around to face him.

Malvern stared at her in vast surprise. "What the devil are you talking about?"

"Ah-h, don't give me that! Who is the dame?" sneered Patsy.

"What dame?"

For answer, Patsy shoved the newspaper under his nose and almost screamed, "That dame!"

Malvern stared at the newspaper picture with a scowl of annoyance and then threw the sheet down. "Did you get me back here to answer that?"

Selby, looking cold and grim, moved up to the amazed man. "No. I got you back for something more important than a dame."

"Yeah!" said Patsy. "Well I want to find out."

"Shut up!" Selby exclaimed. "Let me talk to this rat! Where's the rest of that evidence?"

Malvern looked right back at him. "What evidence?"

"The stuff you held out on me. Where did you check it?"

Malvern held his gaze for an instant and then looked over toward Patsy. "You rotten little tramp!" He started toward her, but Selby caught his arm and whirled Sid around to face him.

"Never mind that! Answer me!" Sid became defiant. "Try and find out."

"Do you think you can get away with this? Why, I've got enough on you to hang you! I'll put you where you won't be able to doublecross anybody."

"Ah—what have you got on me?"

"Plenty—and you know it! The police are still hunting for the Conroy radio man. How'd you like Mrs. Conroy to have a look at you?"

"They'll have to find me first," Malvern replied.

"That won't be hard." Selby declared with meaning. He started toward the phone. "They'll have some cops over here in five minutes."

"How are you going to keep me here?" Sid started toward the door. As he did so Selby quickly opened it and two strong-armed men entered, looking menacingly at Malvern, who stopped abruptly, halfway to the door.

"I don't think we'll have any trouble," Selby replied.

"Pretty smart, aren't you?" Malvern sneered.

"I take no chances with a skunk."

Malvern saw that he was licked and gave up with very bad grace. "All right, you win. The stuff's in the checkroom at the Union Station and here's the check." He took out his pocketbook and opened it. An amazed look came over his face. He felt in his pockets, turned his case upside down and shook it.

"It's gone!" he exclaimed.

"He's stalling," Patsy commented.

"Trying to rat on me again, eh?" Selby hardened. "You'd better find that check!"

Malvern was frantically going through his pockets.

"Search him!"

Sid offered no protest as one of the men went through his clothes.

"Go through his bag," Selby instructed the other.

"It isn't in the bag. It was right here in this pocket. Honest! I must have lost it."

"You don't suppose it coulda been lifted, do you?" Pasty made a gesture toward the paper. "How about your lady friend?"

Malvern stopped and stared at her, dumbfounded at the idea. His face contracted into a scowl of wonder. With an exclamation he strode to the telephone. The two men made a move toward him; but Selby stopped them. Impatiently Sid waited to get a call through to the Seabreeze Hotel at Lakeside. Patsy continued to goad him.

"So the big shot was rolled by a bathing beauty. Serves you right, you——"

"Aw, shut up!" Sid heatedly interrupted. "Hello — Seabreeze? I want to speak to Miss Anne Woodman. What? Checked out? When?" Malvern turned toward Selby. "She left on the 2:40."

The three looked at one another.

"There's only one thing to do," Malvern declared. "I'll go down and see if I can get it without the check."

"All right—but you're not going alone. Stick with him, boys."

The two men nodded.

"I'll stay here till you come back," Selby declared. "I don't care how you get those papers; but get them."

Without replying, Malvern left the house, closely followed by his two guards. They arrived at the station just as Anne's train pulled in.

American Medical Association O. K.'s Local Mill Products

After six months of exhaustive laboratory tests and investigations the American Medical Association this week notified the Scott County Milling Company, that its seal of acceptance applicable to Juanita White Ribbon, and B. & M. Cream Corn Meal will be issued after certain, particular features in advertising and labels are amended to comply with its regulations.

The fact that our application for permission to use their Seal was made several months ago, tests the care and thoroughness of their investigations, said Murray Phillips of the Scott County force in commenting on the notification.

It is unnecessary to call attention to the high standards of the Medical Association and we, therefore, feel that the privilege to use their Seal of Acceptance is a tribute to, as well as recognition of, the high quality of our products, he continued.

Products of the Milling Company are know throughout this section of Missouri, and the South generally. Extreme care is exercised to keep the quality to a high mark, and uniform.

Sikeston, Missouri
Dear Editor:

I noticed in your paper, through the clipping bureau on July 15th, 1932, that Mr. Ike Skelton, one of my opponents for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General, charged in his speech at Farmington on July 12, that one promises of Assistant Attorney-Generalships over the State of of his opponents was making Missouri for the purpose of obtaining votes.

I deeply regret that any candidate would make a charge such as that where people who hear him might believe that it is either Senator McKittrick or myself. I resent the implication in regard to myself, and brand it as an untruth. Why a man could hope to appeal to the intelligence of any community with a statement such as that, by not following through by saying which opponent he means when he admits that it is only one, and speaks to gain the benefit from the supporters of either Senator McKittrick or myself.

I therefore take this means of answering that charge for myself, and trust that your newspaper will see fit to give it the same prominent and publication and correct its readers as far as I am concerned. Such a practice is a violation of the corrupt practice act of this State; one in which I certainly have not indulged.

I trust that you will be fair enough to publish my answer in this last-minute campaign statement in answer to Mr. Skelton.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE B. CALVIN

WEST PLAINS

Democratic candidate for congress, is married, was educated in college and law school, practiced law thirty years, and for several years of that time edited a newspaper. Served in the legislature, was a delegate to the Baltimore convention, and in 1928 was drafted by his party to run for prosecuting attorney, and ran 1200 votes ahead of the national ticket. A member of the church and several secret orders.

FAVORS: Drastic reduction of government expense and the tariff, inflation of the currency to equalize values between money and other commodities, the issuance of non-interest bearing treasury certificates to pay soldier bonus, and the abolishment of the farm board and all other useless boards and commissions.

OPPOSES: Nepotism, sales and nuisance taxes, undue inflation of money, and cancellation of foreign debts.

A DRY, but if elected would vote resubmission of the 18th amendment.

Mr. Burroughs is making a plea to the voters of this section that he is a home man, being a resident of West Plains in the old 14th Congressional District, and is asking for recognition from the voters for his section on the Democratic ticket.

MARSTON CANNING CLUB BEGINS WORK

The Marston Community Canning Kitchen Club began canning last week.

The Matthews Home and Community Club met at Mrs. Clifford Sutton's on Tuesday, July 19. The subject of the meeting was "Fall Gardens".

The Phillips School Home and Community Club met Wednesday, July 20, at the home of Mrs. Sallye Littell. The subject of this meeting was also "Fall Gardens".

At both of these meetings the discussions embraced: "Vegetables to Plant in Fall Gardens", "Varieties of these vegetables best adapted to Missouri", "Planting and Cultural Methods", "Fertilizers", "Control of Insect Pests", etc. Both meetings were well attended and both clubs plan to hold poultry culling demonstrations next month.

MEMPHIAN HURT IN AUTO WRECK HERE TUESDAY

S. T. "Red" O'Bryan of Memphis, Tenn., driver of a new Plymouth sedan, was badly injured Tuesday night, when he lost control of the machine about 2 miles south of Sikeston on Highway 61, turning over in a dicth. His three companions, M. G. Moore and J. P. Burns of Hopkinsville, Tenn., and Oman Stirton of Nashville, Tenn., were less severely hurt.

A north bound cantaloupe truck picked up the wreck victims, and brought O'Bryan to the office of Dr. T. C. McClure for treatment. O'Bryan received a badly wrenched back, cuts and bruises including two 4-inch lascerations on his arms and hands. He is recuperating in the Del Rey Hotel.

MAN ESCAPES INSANITY THROUGH READING BOOKS

"I would have lost my mind during the past year if I had not been able at times to forget my troubles through library books", an unemployed man recently told a Missouri librarian.

In commenting on this statement, Frank J. Bruno, professor of Applied Sociology at Washington University, says: "I have been very much interested in recent reports of the Missouri Library Association as to the phenomenal increase of the use of public libraries due to unemployment. This is a fact of significant social import as related to the present depression. The rapid increase in suicides is startling, but the reason that there are not more actual riots at present may well be due to such influences as public libraries in maintaining the morale of the unemployed".

According to statistics recently compiled by one public library in Missouri, one out of every eight men taking out cadrs to borrow books is unemployed; one out of every nine women registering is unemployed or her husband is unemployed, and one out of every six children registering reported his father out of work. A librarian recently kept track of the readers for a certain ten minutes one day and found some of the following readers of non-fiction books as typical examples: Ladd's "Secret of Personality", read by a bus girl, James' "Will to Believe", by a salesman, Wright's "Practical Book of Outdoor Flowers", by an unemployed widow, "Home Instruction for Sheet Metal Workers", by a sheet metal worker, "Practical Flying" by a worker in a stove factory, Toombs' "How to Wrestle", a Chinese laundry man.

Sociologists generally believe that reading keeps many people sane both during depressions and during boom times, according to Professor Bruno.

PIERCE RODGERS, 27, DIES LAST SATURDAY

Portageville.—Services were held Monday for Pierce Rodgers, 27 years old, who died Saturday at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. Rodgers was adopted by the Segal family of Portageville when he was a small boy, and had lived with them since.

YIELDING TO MR. SHORT

We yield to the Rev. Dewey Short of Galena, former Congressman and now Republican candidate for the United States Senate:

Mr. Short (at the St. Louis City Club): I am the only Republican senatorial candidate running on the prohibition plank of the Republican national platform. My St. Louis opponents, Messrs. Kiel, Priest and Kratky, have adopted the Democratic plank, and my Kansas City opponent, B. F. Beazell, takes an extreme dry stand.

Mr. Short (speaking recently in the basement of a church at Marionville): Despite the fact that I am known as a wet candidate, I want you to know I am dry. If anyone tells you that Dewey Short is wet, tell them to go jump into the river.

Mr. Short (in announcing his candidacy last June 4): In the name of decent living and 'good government, I feel a change is now imperative. I am convinced the eighteenth amendment should be modified, permitting self-determination by States. The blatant and insidious evils of prohibition must be eradicated if our Government is to endure.

Thus, the gentleman from Galena is wet in the city, dry in country church basements and, we presume, moist in the suburbs. Thus variously does he interpret the liquor plank in the Republican platform.—Post-Dispatch.

SCOTT COUNTY WOMEN FORM DEARMONT FOR GOVERNOR CLUB FRIDAY

Formation of a Scott County Democratic Women's Dearmont for Governor Committee to organize the women voters of the county was made at Morley Friday, July 22, at the home of Miss Amy L. Boyce, Committeewoman for Morley Township.

The Committee consists of women who had accepted membership on the State Committee of 1000 women in the support of Russell L. Dearmont of Cape Girardeau for Governor. Miss Amy L. Boyce of Morley was named chairman and Mrs. O. E. Rigdon of Chaffee as Secretary of the organization.

They will be assisted by the following committee, who, as a service for good government, will circulate literature and secure names of women who will agree to go to the polls and vote for Mr. Dearmont at the August Primary: Mrs. R. H. Leslie, Morley; Mrs. H. F. Emerson, Morley; Mrs. W. O. Finney, Chaffee; Miss Edith Elmore, Benton; Mrs. M. E. Montgomery, Benton; Mrs. Roy A. Green, Blodgett; Mrs. Rube Armstrong, Vanduser; Mrs. Kate Harris, Sikeston and Mrs. Madison Zaciori of Commerce.

LEE B. EWING SEEMS SURE OF NOMINATION FOR CONGRESSMAN

Vernon County's candidate for Congressman-at-large, Lee B. Ewing of this city, is undoubtedly making the most strenuous campaign of any of the fifty-six candidates running for the Democratic nomination. Up to this time, he has visited over ninety of the 114 Counties in the State and in every County visited so far, he has met with a most cordial reception and has received great encouragement from every section of the State, including the large cities. Mr. Ewing is making his campaign squarely on the platform recently adopted by the Democratic National Convention.

Vernon County is entitled to one of the seats in the national congress. It is one of the banner Democratic Counties of the State. In the primary election of 1930 there were more Democratic votes cast in Vernon county than in any other county south of Jackson and between the western line of Missouri and the Mississippi River, except Green and Dunklin. Vernon county has had no Democrat in Congress since the service of the late and lamented W. J. Stone—42 years ago. It now looks as though Vernon county will again have one of her citizens in the Congress because the general opinion throughout the State is that Lee B. Ewing will be one of the thirteen to receive a Democratic nomination. Mr. Ewing will continue his campaign to cover every county in the State before primary day, August 2. Mr. Ewing is in every way qualified to represent the people of this and every other section of the State in Congress. He is not only an able lawyer but has had a wide experience in business and farming and no man is more loyal to the interests of the an old-fashioned Jeffersonian Democrat. His name will add strength to the Democratic ticket and in the campaign to follow the primary he will be one of the party's ablest campaigners and party champions.—Nevada Mail.

RUSSELL L. DEARMONT

We wish that we might persuade all our Democratic readers to vote for Russell L. Dearmont of Cape Girardeau for Governor. Such a wish is based partly on a friendship and admiration of many years standing, and partly on a firm conviction that he will make this State a great Governor.

The writer went to the old Normal School for the first time in 1907, an awkward, green, country boy. There was a surprisingly large number of green ones that year, youngsters fresh from the grass roots. Most of us had felt the pinch of poverty; most of us were poorly clad; some of us could not even buy the books we needed; we soon became discouraged and were ready to go back home and give up the struggle.

We first met Russell Dearmont in those days. He took an interest in us, as he did in the other beginners. He spoke to us, smiled at us, inquired about our progress, offered to help us over the the rough spots. The greatest need of a country boy suddenly transplanted into a college atmosphere is a little friendliness, and Russell Dearmont, though he was the president's son, gave us.

We have observed his career since those school days, and it seems to us that we have never known a young man who was more sympathetically helpful to all with whom he came in contact. There is none of the put-on in Russell Dearmont the fine spirit that dominates his life just can't help shining through when he comes in contact with his fellow man.

We can conceive of Russell Dearmont being beaten, only if not enough Democrats know him. We cannot conceive of anyone who knows him voting against him.

We want to see a Governor elected from Southeast Missouri, but more than that we want to see elected a man who is clean and capable and fearless, and such a man we know Russell Dearmont to be.

Unless there is a very good reason for doing otherwise, and we can think of none, we hope every Democrat in Madison County will be true to Southeast Missouri, and cast a vote for Russell Dearmont for Governor.— Fredericktown Democrat.

SMALL MOREHOUSE CHILD DIES AFER EATING POISON

Morehouse, July 26.—Four member of the Linnie Wilson family here are recuperating after being critically ill from vegetables believed to have been treated with an arsenic solution for the elimination of bugs. One child, a three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, died last Friday. An autopsy and chemical analysis of the viscera of the child revealed traces of arsenic, according to one authority.

Sheriff A. F. Stanley and J. V. Conran, prosecuting attorney questioned the parents, and ordered an autopsy held after Dr. Pease of Morehouse, Dr. T. C. McClure of Sikeston and Dr. W. O. O'Bannon, County Health Physician had been called in the case.

Questioning revealed that Mrs. Wilson and her four children had all been ill. Experts advanced the theory that an arsenic solution had been sprayed on vegetables in the arsenic solution had been sprayed on vegetables in the garden, and that members of the family became poisoned from that source.

FALLS TO DEATH TRYING TO KISS BLARNEY STONE

Cork, Irish Free State, July 25.—James Burke of Charleville insisted he could kiss the Blarney Stone without anyone holding his legs as he hung head downward over the parapet. He tried it, slipped, and fell 100 feet to his death at the foot of the ancient castle.

Kissing the stone, tradition says gives the power of eloquent and persuasive speech.

EARLY DUNKLIN MELONS BRING $100 TO $185 PER CAR

Kennett.—Some of the Dunklin County watermelons, due to the extreme heat, have matured prematurely and consequently did .ot reach the size they would have otherwise. Loading is going ahead at a fair rate.

Among those loading good melons in carload lots have been W. T. Ray, Iber Blanton, John Miller and others. The carload price has ranged from $100 to $185.

She Reduced 38 Pounds The Safe Way

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for 4 months and I think they are wonderful. I am 32 years old and 5 ft. 2 in. tall. I was very fat. I weighed 165 lbs. and now I weigh 127 lbs. and feel fine. If I let up taking the Salts one morning I feel lazy and heavy", Mrs. Florence Loftus, Boston.

This is just one of hundreds of letters we get every month—Kruschen not only causes you to lose fat but while you are losing it you gain in health—in vivaciousness—you lose fat where fat is most prominent and at the same time keep stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning naturally.

White's Drug Store or any drug store in the world will sell you a jar of Kruschen for a trifling sum—take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning—go light on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets. But for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous. It's the little daily does that does it. -2.

For Your Consideration in the Prosecuting Attorney's Race

My opponent, who is a fine young man, advances two reasons why you should vote for him for prosecuting attorney; first, because he needs the experience the office affords, and second, that while I have rendered the County good service, I have held the office long enough. His claim stated another way, amounts to this: "The office of Prosecuting Attorney is merely a "political plum" which should be passed around, kind of service by the one elected is of small importance".

Some will doubtless agree with this contention. But it is just as certain that a great majority of our citizens feel that in selecting a man for this office, the welfare of the public should be given first consideration, and the interests of the candidates should be considered as only secondary. In other words, they are more concerned with the kind of service that may reasonably be expected of the candidate selected, than they are with the candidate himself. Because they realize that this is an office of great importance, not only in protecting our people from holdup men, thieves, kidnapers, murderers and other criminals, but also in the dollars and cents costs to the county of criminal prosecutions.

My opponent has made the issue, so I trust you will pardon my apparent lack of modesty in replying by submitting the following facts for your consideration:

1. Through my services there has been collected from law violators in fines and prosecuting attorney fees, and turned into the County treasury, several thousand dollars more than the total salary the County has paid me.

2. I have saved the County hundreds of dollars in court costs, etc., by refusing to take up and prosecute many petty cases where the evidence was not sufficient to warrant a conviction.

3. I gladly leave it to the people of the County as to whether I have vigorously prosecuted all meritorious cases.

4. Suppressing crime is a difficult and expensive task at best, and since we are to have a NEW sheriff, the County should have an experienced Prosecuting Attorney to help him.

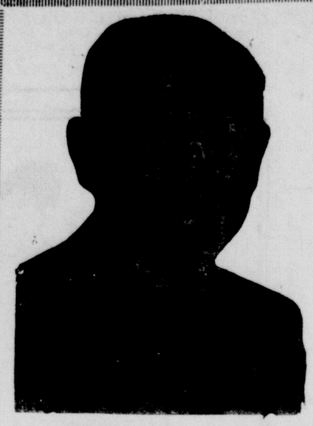
5. Three murder cases and a number of other important prosecutions are now in court for disposition.

I have not been able to see all of the voters during this campaign, but I solicit your vote and support and pledge you my best efforts if re-elected.

Respectfully Submitted,

M. E. MONTGOMERY

Candidate for Prosecuting Attorney, Scott County.



ROY McKITTRICK

Senator Sixth District

Salisbury, Missouri

Candidate for

Attorney General of Missouri

Vacation From Corn Rows Starts Career in Politics

Roy McKittrick, as a Boy, Took Time Out From Farm Labors to Deliver an Independence Day Speech—Now He Seeks to Be State Attorney General

By the Kansas City Star's Missouri Correspondent.

Salisbury, Mo., November 19.—The lure of a 3-day vacation from plowing corn started Roy McKittrick, State Senator from this district, on a career which now, thirty years later, finds him bidding for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General of Missouri.

While Senator McKittrick may not attribute everything that since has happened along his path of life to that holiday from the cornfield, certainly it has had a most pronounced effect on his determination to become a lawyer.

As a youth of 14 McKittrick came in one night after a hard day under an unrelenting July sun. The boy had picked up a smattering of history in the rural school and had shown an interest in that subject. His grandfather, the late E. B. Welch, for years a member of the County Court of this (Chariton) County, proposed to young McKittrick that night he make a Fourth of July speech at the church in Musselfork, a village north of here. The boy replied he had to plow and did not have time to prepare material for such an appearance.

So the Boy Accepts

"You may have three days off from plowing if you'll make the talk", the grandfather proposed.

That was too alluring an offer for a tired farm boy to turn down and he immediately accepted and made the speech.

From that time on McKittrick was determined he was going to learn more of the Constitution and become a lawyer if there was any way to do so. The rural schools of the neighborhood furnished the first foundation. Later McKittrick attended U. S. Hall school, formerly of Prairie Hill and later at Glasgow. Between times he continued to work on his grandfather's farm. At 18, McKittrick determined to take a course in law, went to the University of Missouri, which he attended a short time. Returning home one vacation period the law student met Fred Lamb, then a widely known lawyer and later judge of this, the twelfth judicial circuit, on a street of Salisbury. Judge Lamb proposed that McKittrick take a more direct route in obtaining his legal education by entering Lamb's office as a clerk and read law as he could at odd times. That McKittrick did and in 1909 was admitted to practice.

Politics always interested the young man and five years later found him in the heat of a campaign for prosecuting attorney of Chariton County. He won the nomination and election and for three terms served his county in that capacity, an honor which has gone to only one other here, W. W. Rucker, for years representative in congress from the second congressional district.

In 1930 McKittrick was elected to the State Senate, where for a new member he was unusually active. He had things to say and said them, and particularly did he voice his opposition to constantly growing costs of State government, contending that the way to reduce State expenses was by lopping off unnecessary agencies. As a member from a rural district, McKittrick's opposition to proposals sponsored by the Gary survey commission attracted attention as the majority of members from outside Missouri were lined up behind the Gary program from the outset. But McKittrick took the position that tax features of the financial measures were not equalizing and equitable.

Father a Storekeeper

McKittrick was born at Guthridge Mill, a little town twelve miles northwest of Salisbury where Musselfork Creek furnished the motive power for the mill, and his father, I. H. McKittrick, was the keeper of the general store. McKittrick's mother died when he was 3 years old and the son with two other brothers went to the grandfathers' farm to live. In 1912 McKittrick married Miss Zulah Chrane, a young woman who lived on a neighboring farm and was one of those who listened to his Fourth of July oration that day of thirty years ago. They have one son, Rex, 10 years old.

This man who now seeks the nomination of his party for the chief law office of his State is known throughout this section, where he not only has practiced his profession for years, but long has been active in politics. For his Democracy he goes back to his great-grandfather, who fought with Old Hickory at New Orleans, and moved to Chariton County in 1820, settling on the farm where McKittrick was reared, and where the family lived until the death, three years ago, of the grandfather, who proposed the Fourth of July speech. While McKittrick does not know how he will come out in his present venture, he is certain of one thing—that the 3-day vacation from the corn rows as a lad of 14 has at least accounted for many things which have happened since.

Pleasantly anticipating your friendly support for the nomination of Coroner on the Democratic ticket, I beg to assure you that it will be much appreciated and that I am always,

Very gladly yours,

J. H. HOLTERMANN

Lilbourn, Missouri

To the Voters of New Madrid County:

I take this method of announcing my candidacy for

Assessor on the Democratic Ticket

I, GUY CALVIN, do solemnly pledge that I will if nominated—

1—Serve you to the very best of my ability.

2—Visit each and every taxpayer in person, making readjustments to the full extent of my authority.

3—Assess everyone on equal basis, showing partiality to none.

I have tried to make a clean campaign, and if I should be defeated I will have no ill feeling toward anyone. Unfortunately I have been unable to meet many of you, and hope that you won't hold anything against me in this respect.

For the benefit of those who do not know in what part of the county I live, I wish to state that for the past 21 years I have lived six miles south of Sikeston on Highway 61 on what is known as the Stallcup farm.

I want to thank my many friends for their loyal support, and for their continued efforts in my behalf at the Primary, August 2nd.

Your vote and influence will be sincerely appreciated.

I thank you,

GUY CALVIN

Candidate for

ASSESSOR, NEW MADRID COUNTY

on the Democratic Ticket, August 2nd, 1932 Primary

Notice to Taxpayers

To the Voters of Mississippi County:

I take this means to let you know that I sincerely solicit your vote for Assessor of your County.

I find that I do not have time to come to your home and see each of you personally. You see by the time we have Circuit Court, County Court, Probate Court and Justice Court, and the various other duties, a Sheriff must give his personal attention, not much time is left for electioneering. So if I do not get to see you before August 2nd, do not think that I do not want your vote, for I do. There are seven of us begging for the Assessor's job, and they are a bunch of mighty fine men, and it will be hard to beat all of them. I am going to need every vote I can get. I will appreciate each and every vote I do get. I am not saying I can attend to the Assessor's duties any better than some of my opponents, but I will say this: If elected I will try and do everything an Assessor should do. The Assessor is a public servant and has special duties to perform the same as any other officer, and I think he should do it. If elected I will give the office my personal attention. I mean to see every taxpayer in the County and find out what he or she has, if anything, to pay taxes on, if I am fortunate enough to have the opportunity. Some people look on the Assessor's job as a joke or an old man's job or something of the kind. I think it is one of the most important offices in the County, if taken seriously and properly attended to, it is a man's job. The Lord knows our taxes are too high. If there is any way or anything I can do to help the taxpayer get relief, I am ready to do it before we all go to the Poor House. I am just a poor taxpayer myself—that is, I am trying to pay and can't. If given one opportunity to serve you as Tax Assessor, and if I do not do everything an assessor should do and all that I have promised to do, I want you to tell me so, and scratch my name off the ticket the next time I ask for any office. So here is hoping that you will give me one chance at the Assessor's job, and I will try and see that you will never regret it.

I understand some of my opponents are promising the people that if they are elected, they will form a Tax Assessor's Association, and march to Jefferson City and take the Governor by the nap of the neck and demand lower taxes and he, the Governor, will have to do it, you see, something like the soldiers tried on Hoover. I am an ex-soldier myself, but the march to Washington was a failure, the same as the Tax Assessors' march to Jefferson City will be, only the Tax Assessors may present a bill to the County Court for their expenses. Now I think the people of Mississippi County are too intelligent to believe the Governor can do any more than the "man in the moon" about our high taxes. The general State and County taxes are a small per cent of our tax burdens. It is the special tax that we have voted on ourselves that hurts. Under our present law what can we do about it? The only way I can see, if possible, would be for a law passed where we could declare these bonds defaulted to about twenty cents on the dollar. Of course the speculator would lose his money, but, as it is, the people are losing their homes. Which had we rather have? Our representatives in Jefferson City will have to give us relief if we get any, so do not let anybody tell you the Tax Assessor can lower your taxes by just simply being "smart". The only thing an "honest-to-goodness" tax assessor can do is to get in the harness and go see and assess every taxpayer a fair valuation on their property, and this I pledge my sacred honor to do, if given an opportunity by the people who go to the polls and vote on August 2nd. So think this over. Talk to your neighbor and if you can see your way clear, give me one chance at the Assessor's office and I will assure you I will appreciate it enough to get in there and do everything an Assessor is supposed to do, and everything I can do in behalf of the interest of the taxpayers of Mississippi County.

PUBLIC SALE

Closing out sale of Grand Old Party. As our lease with Uncle Sam will expire on March 4th, 1933, and our titles to the political Jack Pot will be transferred to the "Sons of Wild Jackasses", we have decided to hold an auction sale on the White House Lawn in Washington, D. C., on November 8th, 1932 and sell to the highest bidder all of our political machinery and our entire stock of supplies now on hand, to-wit:

One Political Machine, 1921 model, badly in need of repairs. Can only be recognized by its whistle.

One moss-grown platform, with all its Farm Planks broken.

One large ever-bearing Mellon vine, with several branches badly frost bitten. Classed as frozen assets.

One Billion Dollar crime wave, made to order. Old enough to wean. Sired by Volstead and damned by everybody.

Fourteen million moonshine stills, all operating to full capacity.

Eleven million Dinner Pails. All empty.

Twenty-one thousand miles of bread lines without a break in the line.

One seat on the Board of Trade, good for any amount of wheat. No profits guaranteed.

147286 Political Pulpiteers, former hirelings of ours, now out of jobs since Brother Rockefeller and Brother Firestone withdrew their "Moral" Support.

Should the present prosperity continue, we reserve the right to sell under the Hoover moratorium plan.

Free lunch at noon. Doughnuts without holes will be served by the Farm Board.

The Board of Temperance, Prohibition, Public Morals, Society or Reforms will serve Roast Crow to the Wickersham Committee.

The Army, Navy, Coast Guard and all available stool pigeons will be in formation at the lunch, to assure Doll Gann of her rightful place at the table.

If the chief executive arrives in time to assist at the sale, it is respectively requested that all present who still have a hat, stand uncovered while the band plays "God Help the king".

Terms: See your bank before the sale. Positively no foreign bonds accepted, although they are okehed by the State Department. The boys just put that O. K. on them, so that Coon Lobo, Jaypee Morgun and some other international bankers could slip them out to the suckers. It really amounts to fourteen billion dollars, and all of our Wall Street friends are rid of them, so we are no further interested.

Sikeston Should Have a Judge of the County Court from the First District

VOTE FOR

LEONARD McMULLIN

A Sure Winner in November

Vote for GEORGE BUCHANAN For County Judge

First District

The position of County Judge is one of the most important offices in the County. Through their hands pass all the funds of the County. They determine whether the taxpayers' money is expended wisely or not.

Business experience and a thorough knowledge of County affairs is necessary to properly administer the business of the County. I believe that my past experience qualifies me for the position and that I can render the people of Scott County satisfactory service as a member of the County Court.

If nominated and elected I pledge an economical and properly balanced program in which the entire County will share without discrimination. I favor a reduction in taxes to the small taxpayers as well as to the large ones.

Your Vote and Influence
Will Be Greatly Appreciated

TO THE VOTERS OF SCOTT COUNTY:

In order that the Public may be truthfully and fully informed, I take this means of stating to the voters of Scott County my position as Assessor and as a candidate for re-election.

I am a native of Scott County and have lived here all my life. I have never asked for any office prior to my election as Assessor four years ago. I have always been a Democrat, faithful and loyal to my party, AND I HAVE NEVER USED THE ASSESSOR'S OFFICE AS A STEPPING STONE TO ANY OTHER OFFICE.

I have made every effort to make the assessment of all the tax payers with justice and impartiality, treating all fair and equal, and in asking the voters for the second term, I can refer to my past term with the satisfaction of having done my duty in full, and assuring you that if elected, I will continue to make the assessments according to law with the same justice and equality to all.

I am asking the public to remember that during the past four years our County, as well as our entire Nation has been in the throes of conditions unparalleled in history, and yet to remember that laws make no provisions for these unusual conditions.

My records show as compared to my predecessors:

Year 1924 the total valuation of Personal Property was	$ 3,182.700.00
Year 1924 the total valuation of Real Estate was_____	12,283,720.00
Year 1928 the total valuation of Personal Property was	1,918,060.00
Year 1928 the total valuation of Real Estate was_____	12,635,400.00
Year 1932 the total valuation of Personal Property was	1,693,820.00
Year 1932 the total valuation of Real Estate was _____	10,980,260.00

Prior to the year of 1929 which was the first year of my term as Assessor, it had been left to the discretion of the Assessor to make his own valuation of automobiles. Beginning with the year 1929 the State Tax Commission published a schedule of valuations of automobiles according to year, make and model. Therefore, Assessors of the State were required to make automobile assessments according to said schedule. This will answer the charges that have been made that I have assessed automobiles too high.

Again beginning with the year 1929, the State Tax Commission NOTIFIED ME that the Supreme Court of the State of Missouri had ruled that Assessors were required to assess all poultry and sucking live stock, and in compliance I was forced to make such assessments.

It is common knowledge that all elective officers are required to take an oath of office, and to me this oath is just as sacred to the lowest officer of the County as to the highest officer of the Nation, and justice to the public and to my Bondsmen require that it be fulfilled.

Upon this statement I stand and thank the people of Scott County for their past support. Again assuring you that your support and influence will be greatly appreciated at the Primary on August 2nd, 1932, I am,

Yours very truly,

J. D. O'Connor - - Assessor

LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM MORLEY

(By Mrs. C. A. Stallings)

The barbecue picnic given by the members of the M. E. Church Saturday was very successful in every respect. A large crowd, plenty to eat and drink, plenty of candidates and entertainment and good weather. Speeches were made by the candidates and Congressman Fulbright in the afternoon while J. C. McDowell of Charleston, candidate for State Senator, A. M. Spradling of Cape Girardeau speaking for Senator Russell L. Dearmont and Orville Zimmerman of Kennett speaking for Charles M. Hay were the speakers of the evening.

The baby contest was won by Sallie Maxine Boyce, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Boyce and Morley won the baseball game from Vanduser with a 8-2 score.

Mesdames Ralph Vaugh and H. F. Emerson were among the sick ones Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hanner and children of Hannibal were guests of the U. G. Ragain family, Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Cannon and little granddaughters of Fornfelt were Morley visitors Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kilmer and son of Dexter came over the last of the week for a few days' visit at the Dr. C. D. Harris home.

There was no preaching at the Baptist church Sunday as the pastor, J. W. Jeffries, is attending the Baptist Assembly at Van Buren.

Mrs. R. A. Moyers and daughters went to Glen Allen Thursday to attend the funeral of the former's half-sister, Miss Irene Moyers.

Mr. and Mrs. U. A. Emerson and sons and H. F. Emerson and daughter, Camille, went to Black River Friday for a week-end camping trip.

Raymond and Harry Tomlinson were at Fornfelt Thursday night to visit their brother, W. L. Tomlinson, who was seriously ill, but is much improved now.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Miller and family of Jackson came down Saturday for a week-end visit with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Leslie and family. The ladies are sisters.

Rev. and Mrs. T. G. Craft and two daughters returned Friday from a vacation of ten days, Rev. Craft being at Arcadia and Mrs. Craft and two daughters at Des Arc visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bryant were called to the bedside of their son, Fred, at White Oak, Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bryant and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Borchelt of Egypt Mills joined them there Sunday as Fred Bryant is not expected to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Oaks, Mr. and Mrs. Tellis Oaks and baby and Mrs. Dewey Oaks of Kansas City went to Joppa, Ill., Thursday and returned Friday, acompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Chris Albright of Joppa and Mr. and Mrs. Rube Aiken of Metropolis, Ill., who are visiting relatives here.

Bobby Goheen, St. Petersburg, Fla., high school boy, being graduated this year, was neither absent nor tardy for nine years.

HOLTERMAN OF NEW MADRID COUNTY HAS SON IN AIR SERVICE

J. H. Holterman, Democratic candidate for coroner in New Madrid County, is in receipt of the following clipping from the Rutland, Vermont, Herald, in which "Judge" Holtermann is made justly proud of his son, who was one of the first hundred to volunteer his service to Uncle Sam in the late World War.

The clipping with its headline, "3 planes salute Woodstock flyer", reads:

3 PLANES SALUTE WOODSTOCK FLYER

(From the Rutland, Vt. Herald)

Woodstock, June 12.— Woodstock's aviation enthusiasts were treated to an exhibition yesterday morning by a formation of three army service type observation planes in command of Capt. Jos. A. Wilson, commander of the army detachment at the East Boston airport. The trio flew here to salute from the air their fellow officer Capt. E. H. Holtermann, Army Air Corps Reserve.

Flying in perfect formation, they circled the house where Holterman lives, went through a series of "V" echelon and stagger formations, dipped, their wings and flew away into the south.

Holterman explained that the trio were on a cross country formation practice flight, and considered the trip to Woodstock a three-hour joy ride. Capt. Holterman goes to Marston Mills, Mass., off Cape Cod, on August 7 for 15 day duty.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM CHARLESTON

(By Ann Latimer)

Charleston, July 19.—A wedding which came as a surprise to many friends and relatives was quietly solemnize on Monday afternoon, July 18th, at 5:30, at the home of Rev. Fr. John R. Weiberg, when Miss Clementine Church, daughter of Mrs. Yula Church, and Mr. Robert Cassel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cassel, of this city were united in marriage. Fr. Weiberg of St. Henry's Catholic church of this city officiating. For the occasion, the bride was attired in a beautiful ensemble of white silk crepe, with hat and other accessories of the same shade.

Miss Anna Elizabeth Church who served her sister as maid of honor was gowned in pink silk crepe with which she wore white accessories. Clyde Buckner served the groom as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride and groom were honorees of a dinner given at the home of the bride's mother. Covers were laid for the members of the bridal party and immediate relatives of both bride and groom.

During the evening an informal reception was held at the home. About forty guests were present and enjoyed dancing till a late hour. Refreshments consisting of an ice course were served.

Mrs. Cassel is a charming young woman and is one of the popular employees of the Southeast Missouri Telephone Company of this city.

Mr. Cassel is connected with Simpson Oil Station No. 3 and numbers his friends by his acquaintances.

The young couple will make their home with Mrs. Church.

Charleston, July 19.—An important social event took place here this evneing at 8 o'clock at the First Baptist Church, when Miss Lois Compere, daughter of the pastor, Rev. J. S. Compere, D. D. and Mrs. Compere, was united in marriage to Mr. George A. Jimerson of Corning, Ark., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jimerson, of Sulphur Rock, Ark.

Preceding the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Bess Compere of Little Rock, Ark., and Miss Pen Lile Compere of this city, sisters of the bride. Miss Bess Compere, gowned in rose colored net and taffetta, rendered very beautifully the songs 'I Love You Truly", and "At Dawning". She was accompanied on the organ by Miss Pen Lile Compere, who wore a pretty frock of blue eyelet organdy. She also rendered Mendelssohn's Wedding March for the processional and during the ceremony "Traumeri".

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage and performed the ceremony, assisted by her brother-in-law, Rev. C. V. Hickerson, pastor of the First Baptist church at Russellville, Ark.

JUDGE WON'T PUNISH MEN WHO STEAL FOR FAMILIES

Philadelphia, July 25.—Men who steal to feed their families will receive no punishment in municipal court, Judge William M. Lewis declared in court here today. Recent cases, he said, had revealed to him the dangerous pressure of near starvation on unemployed men.

Two former governors of North Carolina were born the same year, in the same house, near Asheville. They were D. L. Swain and Jos. Lane.

"Just taste that Fresh Juice!"

Uncooked juice of sweet, ripe oranges gives Orange-Crush a zest and tang you'll never find in chemically flavored drinks

Here's a 5c drink that's rich with fresh, ripe orange juice. Uncooked! With all the vitamin C retained by the exclusive Orange-Crush method of handling! Different from any "pop" because it comes from fruit groves instead of chemical bottles. And what a difference the fresh juice makes! The new Orange-Crush has tang and sparkle and freshness that nothing but fresh juice can give.

Try it and see. Enjoy the only 5c orange drink with vitamin content certified by university scientists. And remember, that orange juice with vitamins lost by cooking or age can't have the sparkling freshness you find in Orange-Crush. Always demand genuine Orange-Crush—the drink that's made right in the heart of the orange groves. Think how good a cool bottle would taste right now.

The new Orange-Crush contains luscious, fresh orange juice, the tang of peel, the zest of lemon juice acid, pure U. S. certified food color, pure cane sugar and clear, sparkling water

There is only one Orange-Crush

Beware of chemical imitations

Hundreds of imitations of Orange-Crush have sprung up almost over night. Many do not contain a drop of orange juice. Don't be misled by these substitutes. Insist on genuine Orange-Crush in the krinkly bottle. Get vitamins—not chemicals.

Any LAW

Removing Your Utilities from the Merchandising Field

Should Be OPPOSED

Any legislation tending to prevent utilities from merchandising and rendering service for the benefit of their customers, should be opposed, as it prevents utilities from rendering greater service to customers; and provide the public the free and unlimited privilege of receiving utility service and the right to purchase appliances at their own dictation and discretion.

The Benefits of Utility Merchandising

Utility co-operation with retail dealers in merchandising means upholding the standard of merchandise quality, better service, fair prices, rate reductions, more employment, more business.

Oppose any so-called "Utility Merchandising Law." Similar laws hastily passed in Kansas and Oklahoma have proved disastrous in every way to the interests of the public. In other states such proposed legislation has been decisively defeated because of its dismal failure in the two states which have tried it.

Be sure that no such calamity happens to you in Missouri. It's up to you.

Actively oppose the passing of any law preventing utility merchandising—which would deprive you of the many benefits you now enjoy and limit your freedom of purchasing where you please and at reasonable prices.

VOLUME 20 | SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 29, 1932 | NUMBER 87

THE EDITOR SAYS—

It will be a pretty hard matter to fill this column this time without stepping on someone's political toes, as this issue is more or less political. We can safely advise our Republican readers to include Eugene A. Hecker, of St. Louis, as one of the 13 candidates on the Republican ticket. He has honored The Standard with an advertisement this time and we would like very much to see him among the Republican nominees.

* * *

Each of the two contending political parties has a colored man seeking a seat in Congress at the coming election. The Democratic colored man is Joseph L. McLemore, a graduate of the Sumner High School in St. Louis, Fisk University and New York University. By profession he is a lawyer. The Republican colored man who seeks a Congressional nomination is Pearl Abernathy of St. Louis. We know nothing of his education or fitness for the position.

With the retirement of Justice White of the Supreme Court, the section of Missouri lying south of the Missouri River will have no representative on the bench. It should be the duty of all Democrats in South Missouri to vote for Judge Henson of Springfield, Mo., and Judge Fitzsimmons of St. Louis in order that this large section of the State be represented.

The man who is perfectly willing to get out and work for a candidate without pay is a real help and a real friend. The man who tries to shake down candidates for money with the promise to deliver votes has little influence and can hardly deliver his own vote.

There is no doubt but what Congressmen now in the House will command better committee assignments than any new member, but we are going to vote for very few of them as they have proven to be straddlers or patronage grafters. Three that we are certain to have on our list are Joe Shannon, of Kansas City, J. J. Cochran, of St. Louis, and Clyde Williams, of Jefferson County. These fellows were not on the fence on the wet and dry question. They voted in the House to give the people an opportunity to vote on the wet and dry question. All other Democrats voted against it in the House. Now, after the National platform favored repeal, revision, or something, all of them trailed along as "yes" men.

The best bet to beat Roy McKittrick for Attorney General is with Ike Skelton of Lexington, Mo., a brilliant and competent young man. McKittrick was one of a bunch that saved Brunk from a bad time and stood with Buford, the booze fighter, in obstructing legislation in the Senate. Scratch McKittrick early and often.

Local candidates should go slow in starting insinuating stories about their competitiors. Once in a great while friends refuse to support the man who wins in such a manner and he is defeated.

Citizens generally should give close attention to this year's election to the candidates for the Supreme Court. An event which happens only every ten years is that three of the seven places in the Supreme Court are to be filled by election this year. In other election years only one vacancy occurs. A most unusual fact is that this year none of the judges whose terms are expiring is seeking re-election. These out-going Judges are Hon. Wm. T. Ragland, Democrat, Division No. One; Hon. John Turner White, Democrat, Division No. Two and Hon. Berryman Henwood, Republican, of Division No. Two. Another fact worthy of note is that four of the present Judges of the Supreme Court namely Judges Ragland, White, Henwood and Ellison were formerly Commissioners of that Court. Judge Frank was a Commissioner of the Kansas City Court of Appeals when he was elected to the Supreme Court. In past elections the Democrats have always nominated any Commissioner of the Supreme Court who has sought nomination as a Judge. There are four candidates, and two to be nominated.

A correspondent of the New York Times at Pleasantville, N. Y., points out that if a man can plant 1000 trees a day, as Secretary of Agriculture Hyde asserts, he will have to plant in an eight-hour day two and one-twelfth trees a minute. It should be remembered, however, that Secretary Hyde did his planting with a typewriter.

BUCHANAN COUNTY OFFERS MAN FOR STATE OFFICE

JIM WELLS

St. Joseph News-Press, December 29, 1930.—For the first time in many years, St. Joseph has a candidate for State office. Jim Wells, County Collector, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State in 1932.

Mr. Wells says, "The office of Secretary of State is one of the most important State offices. The Secretary of State is chairman of the State printing commission. Under his supervision the State automobile licenses are collected and disbursed. I am told that this item alone amounts to about $10,000,000 annually".

Jim Wells is a native of Buchanan County, having been born at Winthrop. His father, the late Emmett C. Wells, was the first county auditor in Buchanan County, having been appointed by Governor Dockery when the office was was established. His grandfather was a Baptist minister, who served three terms in the Missouri legislature more than half a century ago.

Jim Wells lived most of his life at Rushville, where he ran a mercantile store, until in 1917, when he traveled for the John S. Brittain Dry Goods Company. In 1920 he was appointed deputy county auditor. In 1926 he was elected collector, and last year he was re-elected.

A Popular Innovation

A striking innovation that has met with general approbation in the office of the county collector since Jim Wells took charge was to eliminate the long lines of taxpayers by the expedient of mailing tax statements to taxpayers, permitting them to pay by mail. This means some 60,000 tax statements annually, and has increased the work of Wells and his staff tremendously, but has lifted the dread taxpayers formerly had of going to the court house and standing in line from thirty minutes to three hours or more, awaiting their turn.

Jim Wells' candidacy is expected to have a wide appeal. His vote-getting abilities were demonstrated in the last election, when he received the largest majority ever given a county candidate in an off-year election. He ran 1200 votes ahead of the next highest man on his ticket and carried 87 out of the 95 precincts in Buchanan County. His majority was 7,520.

FERGUSON YOUNG MAN ON G. O. P. TICKET WANTS SEAT IN CONGRESS

Eugene A. Hecker of Ferguson, Republican candidate for Representative in Congress, was born in St. Louis in 1884. He graduated from St. Louis Central High School and from Harvard University with highest honors, having worked his way through college.

He taught in Eastern schools until 1917, when he entered the Army and served throughout the World War in the Artillery and overseas in the Infantry and the Intelligence Section, General Headquarters, and since 1919 has been teacher of English and History and Coach of the track team at St. Louis Country Day School. He is the author of "A Short History of Women's Rights", published by Putnam's in 1910 and acknowledged by suffrage leader as a noteworthy contribution in the struggle to enfranchise women. He is a life-long student of world affairs and author of numerous articles on political and economic subjects.

TIPTON FOR JUDGE

ERNEST M. TIPTON
Candidate for Supreme Court, Division No. 2

Ernest M. Tipton is a candidate for the Democrat nomination for judge of the Supreme Court, Division No. 2. He was born January 2, 1889, at Bowling Green, Mo., and his father, the Rev. W. M. Tipton, was a Baptist minister who preached in Northeast and Central Missouri for a period of fifty years. He was educated at Missouri University, graduating in the Law Class of 1911.

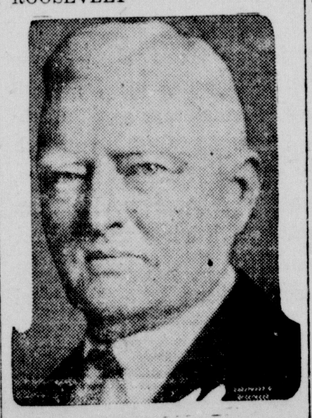
In the fall of 1911 he moved to Fulton, where he began the practice of law. In 1920 he went to Kansas City and opened a law office. In 1923 he was appointed as a member of the State Board of Bar Examiners by the Supreme Court of Missouri and served until February, 1930.

He is married, has two children, and is a member of the Masonic Lodge.

There are two vacancies in Division No. 2.

The Democratic Nominees

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT



JOHN N. GARNER

August 2nd Primary

WHO

Those who refused to shoulder arms a few years ago were branded "slackers", a vile term which even yet grates on ears, and cringes the soul.

Those who refuse for any number of flimsy reasons to express their preference at the polls in the primary and general election are peace-time slackers. Those who refuse to vote are no better and no worse than those men who refused to stand by their country in time of war.

Votes are your protection, Mr. Citizen and Mrs. Citizen, against the enemies of graft and corruption in government. Properly used, your vote is deadlier than all the mustard gas, T. N. T., shrapnel and bayonets combined.

There is not one farmer in Southeast Missouri, not one tenant farmer or share cropper who has any work at hand more important than dropping his or her ballot in the box August 2. No business man has a right to pass up his vote with a shrug of the shoulder, and no housewife has the right to remain at home while others vote. It is the one personal duty of each and every citizen in this United States.

During the present campaign and in the past few years you and we have heard expressions of disgust about present day conditions in Congress, in the House, in the courts of the land, and perhaps in our own county. We have heard of conditions in Chicago, for instance. The city is unable to pay salaries of its employees, yet it sells homes for unpaid taxes of those employees.

International Bankers defraud millions of investors yet nothing is done to prevent recurrence; farm product prices are at the lowest level in recorded American history; while hunger stalks abroad—such are conditions here and there in high and low political circles.

The fault lies not so much with those in public office, as with the voter himself or herself. We have pandered too much in the past to superficial qualifications of candidates. We have not studied carefully the qualifications of men and women asking for election to office, and finally, many of us have refused to exprses our sentiment at the polls with the result that pinheads assume authority in high places, and greed displaces duty and service in various branches of government.

A number of political candidates for County, State and National offices have spent perfectly good American dollars to inform you of their stand on questions of the day. Their ability, their talent, their experience and their promises will avail this district and its inhabitants nothing unless you individually as voters, express your honest opinion at the polls Tuesday. Study the messages brought to you in this issue of The Standard. Read what the candidates for office promise; compare their platforms with YOUR desires and demands. Make up your list now.

You were no slacker in 1918.

Will you be one in 1932?

READ, THEN VOTE

We respectfully request that our readers pay particular attention to the qualifications of those candidates who have spent perfectly good American $$$ advertising in this issue to inform Southeast Missourians of their beliefs, qualifications, and political platforms.

Those who think enough of your community, and your section of the State to announce publicly their ideas are worthy of consideration.

DEARMONT MEASURES UP TO IDEALS OF SOUTHEAST MISSOURI VOTERS AS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

In no part of the State are Democrats more Democratic and more loyal to the traditions of the party than in Southeast Missouri. Descendants of North Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky settlers as a majority of them are, they hold fast to Jeffersonian principles and these principles are paramount with them when they go to the polls.

They will vote for no Democrat, even a neighbor or fellowtownsman, for an important office if they do not believe he measures up to their standard and is fit in every way for the office.

This is why Southeast Missouri Democrats are practically unanimous for Russell Dearmont for the nomination for governor.

They know him and they know that he measures up to their highest ideals. This support is not lukewarm and passive but, on the contrary, is wholehearted and enthusiastic. No candidate for any high State office for many years has aroused so strong and ardent support as has Dearmont.

Local pride naturally would be expected to have an influence with voters in causing them to favor a candidate but Southeast Missouri Democrats would not take pride in a candidate and would not militantly uphold his standard if he was not worthy of it. They are loyally upholding the standard of Russell Dearmont because they know his ability, integrity, courage, manly qualities and broad-minded democracy makes him equal, if not superior to any opponent, and that he deserves it.

Southeast Missourians could, with all propriety, use the argument that Southeast Missouri has mont for that reason alone. But a hundred years and they would be excusable in voting for Dearmonth for that reason alone. But Southeast Missouri Democrats have been going right along sawing Democratic wood and voting for whom they believed the best man, no matter where he lived. This year this man happens to be a neighbor. Naturally they know that when he is elected and takes his seat they will be made welcome should they call to see him.

Democrats of Southeast Missouri, parts of which have had more tribulations the last year than almost any other section of the State, know that Dearmont is intimately acquainted with the district and its problems. While they know him well enough to know he will not give the district special favors against the interests of other sections in the State they know they will get a square deal insofar as his official acts affects it. People of the district ask no more.

The "Unterrified Democracy of Southeast Missouri", as the party in this section is sometimes appropriately termed on account of the strength of the party in a number of counties, admires a fighter, and the fight Russell Dearmont is putting up makes him still stronger with them. They recognize that the generalship, leadership fighting qualities and moral courage that brought him so quickly to the front in the Senate, and which he has employed in this campaign, will be needed after the primary.

The flag of "Unterrified" has been lowered in defeat so often in the last twelve years in Missouri they are looking for this neighbor to carry it in triumph to the Governor's chair, and they believe he can do it. That's another reason why they are for him to the last ditch.

No section is more beset with taxation problems than Southeast Missouri and all residents as well as Democrats appreciate his great fight in the Senate for lower taxes and they realize that the work of a governor, who leads in the task of effecting economy in the State administration, revising taxation, etc., will be strenuous and that it will take a man who can stand up to arduous effort and strong opposition, perhaps, like Dearmont did in the Senate and is doing in his race for the nomination.

They believe, in short, that he is the man for the present gubernatorial job and that when that is over he will be available for other public service. They also believe that he is a born leader, is in the prime of life, possesses an uncommon combination of personality, sincerity, ability, and genius for public service and that he will be an asset to the State and party for many years. They have nothing personally against other candidates.

RUSSELL L. DEARMONT

Democrats of Southeast Missouri are not the only ones who believe in Russell Dearmont. Thousands of Republicans will vote for him if he is nominated. They are unshackled citizens who prefer to vote for the man when they know he is the kind of man they know Russell Dearmont to be.—Cape Girardeau News.

DICKINSON ENJOYS IMPRESSIVE RECORD IN POLITICAL CIRCLES

C. C. Dickinson, of Clinton, Henry County, Missouri, Democratic candidate for nomination at large for Congress, was born in Prince Edward County, Virginia and is a graduate of Hampden-Sydney College, Va. In 1872 he came to Missouri, where, after teaching school five years, he became a lawyer, serving three terms as Prosecuting Attorney of Henry County. He served one term as a member of the Missouri Legislature and State Senate, and was first elected to Congress February 1, 1910, to fill the unexpired term of David A. DeArmond. Dickinson is now serving his 9th full term, having been a member of the Ways and Means Committe for fourteen years.

Dickinson is vigorous in health and mind, is a man of courage and strong convictions, and confidently predicts success for his party in November and a redemption for Missouri and the Nation from Republican rule and triumphant retur of the Democratic Party to control in State and Nation. He believes in the principlse laid down by Thomas Jefferson. The right of the people to control our Government is his political religion.

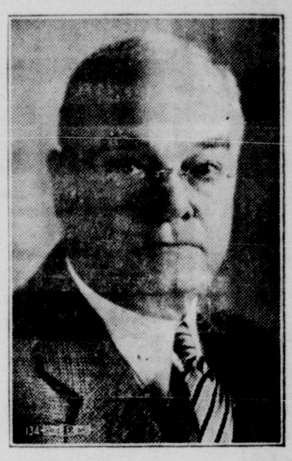
CHARLES CURTIS

JOHN T. FITZSIMMONS IS LOGICAL CANDIDATE FOR SUPREME COURT FOR SEMO



Judge John T. Fitzsimmons of St. Louis, a Commissioner of the Supreme Court and one of the four Democratic candidates for nomination for two places of Division Two of that Court, visited local Democratic leaders recently, and received the unqualified endorsement in this district. Judge Henson of Springfield and Judge John T. Fitzsimmons of St. Louis, if nominated and elected would give Southwest and Southeast Missouri adequate representation on the high bench in the State.

Judge Fitzsimmons has attracted attention to his candidacy by the large vote received in a referendum of Missouri lawyers, conducted by the Missouri Bar Association in the first half of July. The vote on the four Democratic candidates was as follows John T. Fitzsimmons, St. Louis, 1443 Charles L. Henson, Springfield, 1223; Clarence A. Burney, Kansas City, 822; and Ernest M. Tipton, Kansas City, 764.

Judge Fitzsimmons enjoys an impressive political and judicial record.

Before he was a commissioner he served as Judge of the Circuit Court in St. Louis by appointment of Governor Caulfield under a law adding two judges to the Circuit Court and providing that one of them should be a Democrat. Judge Fitzsimmons was appointed as a Democrat. Since he became a candidiate for nomination of the Supreme Court seventeen Circuit Judges in St. Louis have written Judge Fitzsimmons an open letter in which they state that while he was one of their asscoiates upon the Circuit Bench of St. Louis he faithfully performed every duty intrusted to him, and by his industry, character and ability reflected credit upon that Court. The two sitting Democratic Circuit Judges were joined by fifteen Republican Judges in signing the letter. The Democratic City Central Committee of St. Louis, made up of 28 men and 28 women, representing the 28 wards of the City has unanimously endorsed the candidacy of Judge Fitzsimmons. He was a candidate for election for a six-year term as Circuit Judge in St. Louis in November, 1930, while he was serving as Judge under appointment by Governor Caulfield. Although the Republicans carried the election, Judge Fitzsimmons ran 10,000 votes ahead of the Democratic Judicial ticket.

Chief Cause of Hoover Panic.—It has now been demonstrated by disastrous experience that the practice of the half insance policy of economic isolation during the past ten years, here and elsewhere, is the largest single underlying cause of the present panic, and that a material halting and modification of this policy, so suicidal especially to a great creditor and surplus producing country, is an indispensable requirement, if this and other nations are to be restored to that full and sound measure of prosperity which will not be unbalanced nor partial nor, as at present, subject periodically to recurring panics.—Senator Cordell Hull at University of Virginia Institute.

We take it for granted that every Republican in Southeast Missouri will vote for George W. Kirk as one of the 13 Congressmen, and we take it for granted that every Democrat will vote for Jim Fulbright. These candidates are from our corner of the State, know our needs better than anybody and will fight for them. Fulbright was the choice of the old Fourteenth District and by seniority will have committee assignments that a new man cannot expect to have. It takes a new man one term to find his way about the Capitol building and he has no time for anything else. His time is taken up trying to keep from getting lost.

* * *

Roy E. McKittrick, candidate for attorney general on the Democratic ticket, is one candidate not to vote for, we are informed on what we consider good authority. He is one of the four Democratic senators who voted to whitewash State Treasurer Brunk. He is a protege of the Pendergast gang, we hear.—Cape News.

Declaring For Congress

Subject to the Actions of the Democratic Primary

Declarations of NEWTON C. GILLHAM

(1) I AM AN ARDENT DRY; that is my one main issue. I can go along with my party on other issues, and can caucus with the members of my party upon those issues, but as a dry I must fight for the cause and fight alone, if necessary.

I believe the support of the 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States is the greatest question before the people today;

(2) I AM FOR WOMAN. It has been my observation, and I believe history will sustain my statement, that the most of that which has been well done, best done and most permanently done, has been through the devoted and consecrated efforts of the women;

(3) I AM A DEMOCRAT. In 1912, I was elected President of the Woodrow-Wilson-for-President Club, which club sent me to the Baltimore Convention, where we labored ten days to bring about the successful nomination of Woodrow Wilson;

In 1928, I was elected president of the James A. Reed for President Club, of Kansas City, and went to the Houston convention, and was in that convention when Alfred E. Smith was nominated for the Presidency;

(4) I AM FOR THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY; and, have helped to fight its battles since reaching my majority, because I believe it to be the party of the people. Its great struggle is for the more equal distribution of both work and supply, believing there is an abundance of both each; but, that the people are prevented from realizing it because of "man's inhumanity to man";

(5) I AM FOR MEN, and bespeak their sobriety; their obedience to the laws of the land; and admonish them to be alert, watchful and loyal to principle, virtues that carry success. Excellency in the promulgation of laws as well as the administration thereof, will cause the "stranger within our gates" to be content, and to make his permanent home with us, and the "old timer" will be loath to go out from us.

(6) I AM FOR THE NEWSPAPERS. In 1912, I worked with the PRESS of Missouri, in the campaign of Woodrow Wilson. I found it willing to publish the news, provided that news was of a wholesome nature and elevating in thought. I found the press then, and have noticed its tendency since is to prefer news that will implant in the minds of its readers an uplifting thought, rather than a depressing one.

Dated this 28th day of May, 1932.

Vote For Robert D. Johnson

FOR CONGRESS

A hard fighting Democrat who has taken active part in every campaign since he became a voter. An able and forceful speaker. Not afraid to voice opinion in Congress. Favors and voted for strict economy in Government, and abolition of useelss Boards and Bureaus established by Hoover Administration. Voted for reduction of salaries of Congressmen. In speech in Congress, he said: "What we need is reduction in cost of Government, rather than increase in taxes. We need a simple administration of the Government in the interest of the people".

ROBERT D. JOHNSON
MARSHALL, MO.

He was born on farm in Saline County, where his mother now lives. Understands needs of farmers at first hand and favors legislation that will bring them immediate relief, including control of exportable surplus, extension land bank mortgages providing for annual payments, principal and interest at lowest rates possible.

A true champion of rights of masses and laboring people. Favors legislation to relieve unemployment and its attendant want and suffering.

Advocates immediate tariff reduction so American products may be sold in world markets. Voted for tariff bill passed by present Congress and vetoed by Hoover.

He advocated and voted for Democratic principle that taxes should be imposed according to ability to pay. Voted AGAINST increase in postage, the tax on checks, the other nuisance taxes and the entire Tax Bill on ground they imposed an unjust burden on masses.

Voted against Hoover Moratorium and is UNALTERABLY OPPOSED TO CANCELLING FOREIGN DEBTS. Johnson is in strictest sense a self-made man; worked way through school, began teaching at 18; twice elected Circuit Clerk, Saline Co.; studied law at night, admitted to bar, and twice elected Prosecuting Attorney; is married, has four children and is member of Christian Church.

Mr. Johnson was elected to Congress in Special Election held last September in 7th District to fill unexpired Term of late Sam. C. Major, by a majority of 9131 votes over his Republican opponent who was a former Congressman, the largest majority ever given in District. He swept Counties into Democratic column which had never before gone Democratic, carrying every County in the District except two and losing one of them a strongly Republican County by only 15 votes. Many leading Democrats over the State at once declared that because of his large majority and the Democratic custom to re-nominate for a full term one who has borne the expense of and been elected in a Special Election, Johnson should be re-nominated as one of the 13 Democratic nominees for Congress at the August Primary.

He at once gained recognition in Congress; appointed member Major Committee Merchant Marine and Radio, Democratic Whip Mo. Delegation, and Missouri Member National Democratic Congressional Committe, and as such member will aid in securing assistance of National Committee in the November Election.

Mr. Johnson's many friends urge that having so recently borne the burdens and expense of special election he should be renominated in August, and that because of his close and personal contact with the people, his proven vote getting qualities, his fearless Democracy, and his sterling character, integrity and ability; his selection as one of the 13 Democratic nominees for Congress will add great strength to the Democratic ticket in November.

Candidate on the Republican Ticket

I believe that the main factor in prolonging the depression is the steadily diminishing foreign trade of the United States and that the situation can be remedied only in accordance with the promise of the Republican platform to effect a cure through international conferences and agreements.

The farmer faces a special problem because many foreign countries are becoming more and more self-sustaining, so diminishing demand for his products. I agree with Mr. Louis Taber of the National Grange, that the legalization of liquor would be an insignificant factor in helping the farmer. Pending readjustments, I favor low interest loans on the amortization plan and Federal encouragement of farmers' co-operatives.

I stand on the Republican platform and am opposed to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

I favor a comprehensive and co-ordinated banking system so that bank failures may be minimized, continued adherence to the gold standard, Federal relief for the unemployed during the depression, the further restriction of immigration, shorter hours of labor, abolition of child labor, the removal of discriminations against women, high income and inheritance taxes in the upper brackets, strict enforcement of the anti-trust laws, and the close regulation and supervision of public utilities.

The High Cost of Voting

The average taxpayer and voter has but little idea of the vast amount of preparation for an election, else he would more fully understand why elections drain so heavily upon the public treasury.

It occurs to us that in these days of financial strees and unbalanced public budgets, it would be well for the taxpayers to give some concern to ways by which our elections can be made simpler and consequently cheaper. While a considerable amount of the money expended for an election goes to the printer, it is far from satisfactory business, and the prices he may charge do not compensate for the stress and strain under which he works, the disorganization that results to his business for a month before and a month after an election, and for the neglect with which he must treat his regular customers. We believe most printers would like to see the whole election machinery simplified to the point where it would lighten his work and responsibility, and at the same time save the public treasury.

We wonder if our readers would not be interested in knowing something of the task that confronts the printer in preparation for the primary election next month.

In the first place there is the matter of sample ballots. The law requires that twenty days before the election there be printed on colored paper enough sample ballots to supply one to every candidate. The idea is to permit him to compare the spelling and arrangement of his name, etc. So we have during the past week set the type and printed about 150 Democratic ballots, something more than 100 of the Republican and lesser amounts of Socialist, Socialist-Labor and Prohibition. Now County Clerk Womack must mail a ballot to each of the State and County candidates. The printing will cost the County a nice sum, the postage and envelopes will take some more money, and we are sure the benefits will not be worth it.

Then, within a few days, we will start upon the regular ballots. Though there may be no Socialist, Socialist-Labor or Prohibition ballots called for, the law requires that each of the twenty-two precincts be supplied with them. Then again, while the Republicans are not likely to cast over 1,000 votes, and the Democrats will not exceed that number by many hundred, the law requires that we print 4000 Republican and 4500 Democratic ballots. A terrible waste, but the law requires that it be done. There must also be a quantity of ballots prepared for those parties which are not likely to receive a single vote in Madison County.

But the number is not the most expensive feature of the ballots. The law requires that each candidate have his name alternated so that he will have a relative position on the ballot equal to that of any other candidate, in each voting precinct. There are 56 Democratic candidates for Congress. The statutes provide that each man have his name at the head of the ticket as frequently as any other man. That means that the printer, in providing the ballots for a precinct requiring 200 ballots must put the type on the press, run substantially four ballots, stop, shift the bottom name to the top, print four more, repeat the process until the entire 56 names have been shifted. In the meantime, the other candidates for State and County office must be shifted in the same manner. When it is remembered that there are 22 precincts, it can be readily seen what a job the Democratic ballots ental. Then, after they are done, the Republican ballots are to be printed, making 30 press changes to take care of that number who are candidates for Congress.

Another item of worry to the printer and expense to the county is the absentee ballots. Whether or not they are ever called for, a supply of Democratic, Republican, Socialist, Socialist-Labor and Prohibition ballost must be supplied each one of the 22 precincts. Along with them must go a supply of affidavit blanks, specially printed envelopes, etc.

On top of all that must come the poll books, tally sheets, instruction cards, large envelopes for poll books, cloth bags for sending out and returning the supplies, pencils, sealing wax, cords for stringing ballots, and an endless list of other requirements.

This is certain to be one of the most expensive primary elections ever held in Missouri, and at a time when the county treasuries are in the worst possible condition to stand the burden. And yet, there seems nothing that can be done about it, at least this year.—Fredericktown Democrat News.

EASY TO LOSE MONEY IN NEW GAS STATIONS

To open a filling station is an easy way to go into business, but also an easy and almost sure way to lose money.

This is the conclusion drawn by Glen B. Winship, New York analyst, from two years of studying gasoline marketing conditions in the United States.

The last census showed that there are 318,243 places in the United States where the motorist can buy gasoline and oil. Mr. Winship's study reveals that many of these are superflous.

"In more than 10,000 communities, the number of motor vehicles is not sufficient to warrant a service station", his report states. "There are 43,476 stations in such villages and in rural sections which could be abandoned without inconvenience to car owners.

"Of 6351 towns and cities large enough to warrant service station operation at least 5519 are overbuilt. I have discovered only 365 towns in the entire country, where additional stations could be built without gross violation of sound business principles, and of these 258 are in eight States. More than $1,000,000,000 has been invested needlessly in gasoline marketing facilities".

Mr. Winship's advice to those contemplating entering this overcrowded business is to stay out unless they can find a spot where there are more than 400 vehicles for each station and even then to be very sure of a continuing patronage for the station before building it.

ALBERT J. GRAFF, DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE PRESENTS ORIGINAL PLATFORM

ALBERT J. GRAFF
Perryville, Mo.
Candidate at Large for REPRESENTATIVE
in Congress on the Democratic ticket, subject to the decision of all the voters of the State of Missouri at the Primary, Tuesday, August 2, 1932.

I say let's lay the foundation first, help the farmer, put him on his feet and to buying, and all other business will automatically be helped. You say "Well and good, but how can that be done?" I answer, it can be done by sending more "honest-to-goodness" farmers to congress.

If 30 per cent of the men you sent to congress for the last 12 years had been "honest-to-goodness" farmers farming would not now be standing at the foot of all other occupations. You will be doing your part in helping the farmer, and through him all other classes, if, when you go to the primary you vote for the man who has been in touch with farming all his life, knows more about the needs of the farm and the farmer. If you want help for the farmer, you will have to send more representatives to congress that know the farmers needs, and knows the cost of producing farm crops and live stock.

General Business Situation

A "spade is a spade" and we might as well face the fact. The term "depression" is too mild to describe the present condition. We are in the midst of a genuine panic, caused largely by the mismanagement of the Republican party, and the greed of the International bankers and stock brokers, who are largely responsible for present plight of the small banks, business men, farmers, laborers, and millions of common people.

Our tariff wall has been built higher and higher, to protect special interests, until practically all nations have built a reciprocal wall against our goods. Our foreign trade is almost to the vanishing point, with the result that our factories have closed or are operating on part-time schedule. This condition has thrown millions of men out of work, and thereby destroyed their purchasing power. Industries have built plants in foreign countries and are employing cheap labor in order to escape their tariff against American made goods. Prices of farm products have declined steadily since 1921, except for short periods, due to the effect of having to produce only for our domestic market. The present price of farm products is below the pre-war level, and in most cases the lowest on record in this country. While prices of commodities that farmers buy have declined slightly, the decline is not in proportion to the prices farmers receive for their products.

People have reduced their standard of living to meet the situation and have drawn on their reserves, when such were availiable, until at the present time all reserves are gone, debts have piled up, and everybody finds it impossible to buy the products of manufacture, or pay interest on their obligations. Foreclosures are the rule, rather than the exception, and as a result thousands of farms and homes are selling at the courthouse door, and the occupants being driven into the streets and lanes, soup lines and mad houses.

It is estimated that one-third of the people of the United States are on farms, and that another third in small towns are dependent on farm trade for a livelihood. Neither class has any buying power, and when this condition exists, is it any wonder that all business is prostrate?

The Farm Situation

Farm prices are, in most cases, below pre-war levels, and in many cases the lowest on record in this country. Prices of most farm products are below the cost of production, and as a result farmers have gotten to the place where they cannot buy the products of manufacturers. If the farmer could get a reasonable price for his products he could buy the products, of labor, factories could start to run, laborers would be recalled, and in a short time the country would be prosperous. When a farmer can get a fair price for his products, he can pay his bank loans, and bank failures will stop. More than $1,750,000,000 in the common people's money was tied up in bank failures last year. At present farm product prices, farmers cannot pay interest on his land and personal loans, and as a result creditors are closing in on him, forcing him into bankruptcy, and driving him and his family into the soup lines.

Interest rates on agricultural loans are too high. Last year a group of Perry County people got out a letter to all members of Congress urging lower interest rates on land loans. I sent a copy of this letter to all congressmen and U. S. Senators. In this letter we urged that the interest rate be cut to three per cent, and the payoff raised to 3 per cent, making it possibel to retire what is now a 33 year loan in 11 years. Most of the congressmen did not reply to my letter, but those who did reply said in effect that the plan was good, but raised the question of where we could get the money at 3 per cent. It can be gotten at three per cent. I say get it where we got the $2,000,000,000 to finance big business through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

All the legislation so far has been for big business. Out of the two billion dollars appropriated to help business by this congress a measley $50,000,000 was turned over to Agriculture. Big business got $1,950,000,000 or will get it. This went, or is going to pay interest on watered stock floated by railroads, and other big business, yet not a dime can a farmer get to pay taxes, interest, or add to his equipment. In other words the farmer, representing 30 per cent of the people, and being the biggest business in this county, got 1-40th of the money appropriated, and others, representing 70 per cent of the population got 39-40ths.

I stand squarely for honest to goodness farm relief. By that I mean a better price for the farmer's products, lower interest rates, and more gotten, liberal credit policies. We have had enough legislation for special interests, and if Missouri wants more such legislation, I am not the man they want to send to Congress. If I am elected to congress I will never miss an opportunity to vote for measures that will help farmers. In the past we have started to build the chimney from the top, so must stop. Wherever I am I will use my every effort to help stop extravagance and careless expenditures of the peoples money and practice rigid economy in sound and sane government whether in city, county, state or nation.

I am in favor of Government Flood Control at Government expense. I am opposed to land and home owners being taxed to the extent of confiscating their land and homes, to control water which flows down the rivers, that comes from nearly two-thirds of the area of the U. S.

If you stand for the principles in a government of the peopeople by the people and for the people, a "free" government in all the term implies, I solicit your help and your vote Tuesday, August 2nd, 1932.

ALBERT J. GRAFF
Don't forget my name.

Labor

The income of labor has declined 50 per cent since 1929, while the price labor has had to pay for its products has declined only 18 per cent. This decline to labor must stop. There are millions of honest men out of work and and not able to support their families and pay installments on their homes. Every man that wants a job is entitled to it, and if I am elected to Congress I will vote for measures that will afford steady jobs to labor. I know what the laboring man is up against. I went to school during winter boarded with a friend on credit, and grubbed and split rails during summer to pay my board. My sympathy goes out to the laborer, and if I am sent to Congress I will work for the interest of the laborer.

Veterans Relief

The flower of our manhood went to war in 1917.. We said: "Go and win the war, then when you come back ask for what you want and we will give it to you." The boys went and won the war, but came back to find their jobs taken by those who stayed at home, or by women and children. Many of the boys have died from diseases and ailments contracted during the war. Others and their families are in dire distress and need food, clothing, shelter and medical attention.

The soldiers deserve every dime the bonus certificates represent, and I want them to have it at the earliest time. If I am eleted to Congress I will vote for the full immediate payment of the bonus certificates at once and not in 1945. The bonus law would put $2,000,000,000 of money in circulation and would pay possibly ten times that amount in debts. Administration officials say, where can the money to pay the bonus be gotten My answer is, the same place that the two billion that we appropriated to big business was.

The Budget

The budget is out of balance. Any budget would be out of balance if handled like ours has during the past twelve years. The budget must be balanced, and if I am elected to Congress I will help balance it. It will be balanced by cutting down the cost of bureaus, eliminating extravagance and stopping payment of $50,000 and $75,000 salaries such as are now being paid to some men supposed to be aiding agriculture. In my mind it is a shame that 625 crops of wheat average 500 bushels each has to be turned over to pay the salaries of two men connected with our so-called farm relief program. 30 per cent of our income goes to support the various types of government. Taxes are high as a result, I will work to see that the budget is balanced by cutting expenses.

Taxes

The rate of taxation on farm land and city property is entirely too high. Largely so, rated by local boards, and authorities, in cities, counties and states, but they must be lowered. This can be done by absolute economy in government, whether in city, county, state or United States. Any government conducted on a basis of extravagance, and careless expenditure of the taxpayers money is not sound government and

John J. Cochran

Democratic Candidate for

Congress

John J. Cochran present Representative in Congress from the Eleventh Congressional District, which is situated in St. Louis, is a candidate for re-election on the Democratic Ticket. No other candidate for Congress resides in the district that Mr. Cochran represents which is evidence that he has the unanimous support of the Democrats in St. Louis.

Cochran worked himself up from the ranks having started as Secretary to former Congressman William L. Igoe and Secretary to the late Senator Stone at the time of his death and he was also Secretary to Hon. Harry B. Hawes during his service in the House. He succeeded Mr. Hawes in the House and has been re-elected by increased majorities. In 1930 he had no opposition for the nomination and no Republican candidate filed against him. His name on the ballot will add great strength to the ticket in St. Louis. He is the first Democrat in Congress from St. Louis to be chairman of an important committee in the House in over forty years. He is the Chairman of the important Committee on Expenditures in the executive departments. He was also a member of the Economy Committee in the last session of Congress. Cochran is the author of a number of laws and has taken the lead in reorganizing the government departments. In the last session of Congress he was co-author of the Federal Kidnaping Bill, as well as the bill to make it a felony to extort money by the use of the mails. These bills are directed at kidnapers, gangsters and rackateers.

He is a Democrat of the old school and is noted for his personal service to his constituents.

For One of Your Thirteen Congressmen

Vote for Congressman

M. A. ROMJUE

The Democratic Candidate for

Congress

Macon, Mo. Born and Reared in Macon County.

Educated in Public Schools of his County, The Kirksville State Normal and graduate of The Missouri State University. His friends in the District he now represents have built up a Democratic majority which has increased from a majority of 4,000 when he was first elected to a majority of over 11,000 over his Republican opponent in 1930. If he is nominated on the Democratic ticket as a Candidate for Congress in this Campaign those who know him and his work predict his majority in November in his old District will go above 13,000. He will strengthen the State Democratic ticket. He has twice carried the District and his home county he now represents, by the largest majority ever given any Candidate on any ticket at any time in the history of Missouri.

Your support will be appreciated by him and his friends.

Congressman Romjue To Become Head of Post Office Committee

There is a movemnet on foot among the Democrats of New York to nominate Congressman James Mead as the Democratic candidate for Governor as successor to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

This movement has peculiar significance in Missouri for the reason that in the event, Mr. Mead is a candidate for Governor of New York and the House is Democratic, Congressman Milton A. Romjue of the old First District of Missouri will succeed him as the head of the Post Office Committee.

Congressman Romjue who is a Democratic candidate for Congressman-at-large, is at present next to the highest in rank on that committee and the only member of the committee from Missouri, and in event of his re-election will be, by right of seniority, the head of this powerful committee.

Entire Membership of County Court

We, the members of the County Court of Mississippi County, Missouri, hereby endorse and recommend to the voters of the Twenty-third Senatorial District, J. C. McDowell, for the office of State Senator. We have known Mr. McDowell for a number of years, he having been prosecuting attorney of Mississippi County, and having represented this court recently in legal matters. We have great faith in Mr. McDowell's honesty and integrity and hereby urge that the Democrats of the Twenty-third District vote for Mr. McDowell.

E. G. Gilmore, Presiding Judge, Charleston
Frank Sterett, Judge of the First District, Charleston
W. J. Melton, Judge of the Second District, Charleston

Bertrand Friends

We, the undersigned Democrats of Mississippi County, Missouri, respectfully recommend to the voters of the Twenty-third District ,the candidacy of J. C. McDowell for the office of State Senator, and urge your support of him in the coming primary election. We believe him to be honest, able and efficient, and we believe that the Democrats of Mississippi County are almost solidily back of him.

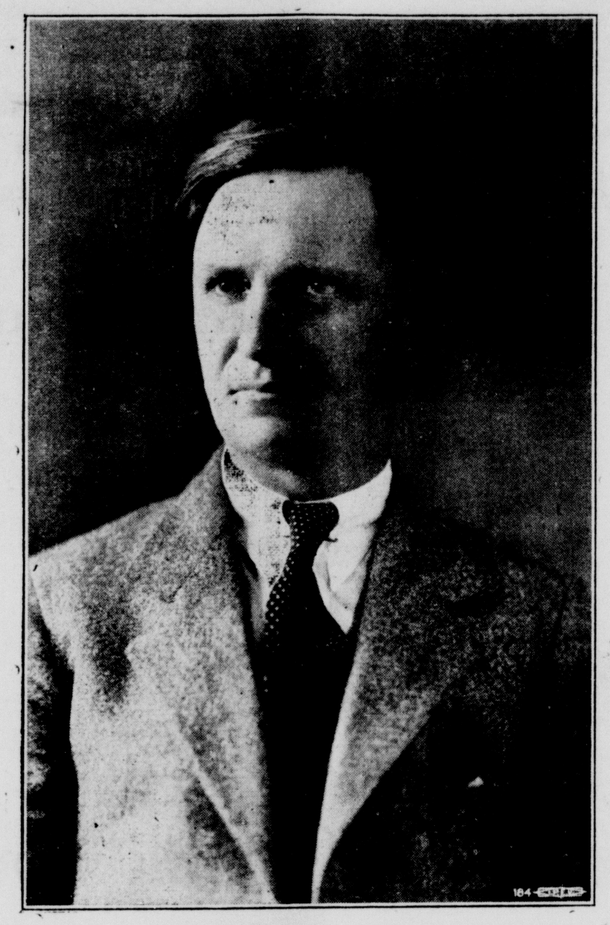
Candidate Democratic Nomination for State Senator 23d District of Missouri



J. C. McDOWELL

His Platform:

J. C. McDowell In State Senate Race; Is Outstanding Lawyer

Prominent Democratic Attorney-Farmer Advocates Lower Cost of Government and Reduced Taxation, Declaring It Most Important Question Before People

J. C. McDowell, prominent Charleston attorney and former Cape Girardeau County farm boy, has announced his candidacy for the office of State Senator from the 23rd Senatorial District in the Democratic primary, August 2. Urged by influential men of the district, Mr. McDowell enters the race with a background of experience and a personal record that qualifies him for the office.

He is a son of Southeast Missouri soil, being born on a farm in Cape Girardeau County, March 20, 1890. He received his early training and education on his father's farm and in the rural schools of that county. A graduate of the Southeast Missouri State Teachers College and the Law Department of the University of Missouri, he began his career of service in the public schools of Missouri, teaching four years.

Since 1916, when he was admitted to the bar, Mr. McDowell has been engaged in the active practice of law and farming. He came to Mississippi County, June 12, 1917, and established his office in Charleston, continuing as a farmer when his legal practice permitted. He later became associated in the prosecuting attorney's office, acting as assistant prosecuting attorney two years. He was then elected prosecuting attorney of this county three consecutive times, serving until 1925.

McDowell, inheriting the ideals of Democracy and cherishing them by personal conviction, has served his party well. He acted as chairman of the Democratic County Committee for many years, resigning his post early this year.

He is a staunch advocate of tax reduction and believes that the greatest benefit that can be rendered the State at this time is to reduce the cost of government, since the burden is becoming too heavy for people to bear. The candidate considers taxation the most important question in the campaign.

If elected to the office, Mr. McDowell would be the first State Senator from Mississippi County during the last half century. His record in the legal profession and his many other qualifications mark J. C. McDowell as one of the outstanding candidates in the State Senatorial race.—The Charleston (Mississippi County) Democrat, June 10, 1932.

Qualifications

J. C. McDowell is a graduate of Teachers' College of Cape Girardeau, having graduated in 1911. A graduate of University of Missouri Law School in 1916; was Prosecuting Attorney for three consecutive terms, a member of Democratic County Central Committee eight years and chairman of that committee four years.

Mr. McDowell maintains his office for the practice of law. Has resided in Charleston for many years; a keen, analytical mind, a sound thinker and a most effective public speaker. Is interested in all civic, commercial and moral endeavors for improvement and gives unsparingly of his time and talents to these ends. Physically, in robust health, of pleasing address and magnetic personality.

If elected to the senatorship, his marked ability and powers will early make him a leader and his work will reflect honor upon his district. His demand for reduction of governmental operating cost, weeding out of useless bureaus and personnel, comes from the heart and voters may depend upon his utmost endeavors to secure the urgently needed tax reduction.

Endorse J. C. McDowell for State Senator

East Prairie, Mo., July 15.—A paper was circulated here last week among the Democrats endorsing J. C. McDowell for the Democratic nomination for State Senator and met with a hearty response. From the list of signers and from what the voters had to say when the paper was presented to whelmingly for Mr. McDowell. We were glad of an opportunity to add our name to the list of endorsers which were being sought. Mr. McDowell need have no fear of what Mississip- of County will do for him on August 2nd from the reports we get from other sections of the district his nomination seems assured.—East Prairie Eagle.

JOIN THE PARADE—VOTE FOR

JOE ANDERSON

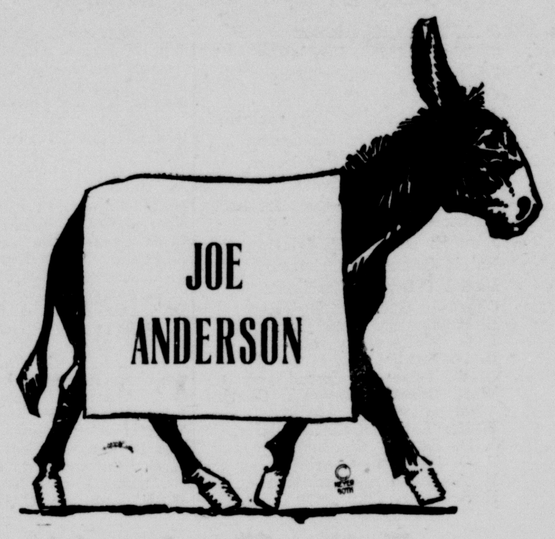
Democratic Candidate for the Nomination of

Sheriff

Of Scott County

AN EX-SERVICE MAN

with a Clean Record and No Enemies
Qualified and Capable. Thank You.



To My Many Friends In Scott County:

Well, here we are up near the date that we are to vote for County Treasurer. I want you to know that I have certainly enjoyed meeting you personally while out in my campaign for re-election this year. I have tried hard to meet each and every voter of our County, but owing to having to look after the duties of my office, no doubt I have missed many voters. I therefore desire to solicit your vote in this article to my office of County Treasurer for the second term.

C. E. Felker

for

Scott County Treasurer

2nd Term

Felker has always been a loyal Democrat and a hard, earnest worker for his party.

Felker is a self-made man, having made his own way since 14 years of age.

Felker makes it a point to see that fees due you are paid you promptly without your having to write for them.

Felker has been on the job daily in his office and the County has not lost a dollar of money during his term of office.

Felker has as fine a set of books as was ever in the Treasurer's office and invites you to call and see them for yourself.

Felker has not allowed anyone to use his office for speculation of County warrants but has seen to it that all take their turn alike.

Felker believes that he is entitled to be nominated on this August 2nd, for second term, and will appreciate your vote very much.

JOHN J. MILLER

Democratic Candidate For

TREASURER

SCOTT COUNTY

I, John J. Miller of Illmo-Fornfelt, Mo., will appreciate the support of the Democratic voters on August 2nd. I wish to be the Democratic nominee for County Treasurer.

Since announcing for this office I have been to all parts of the County, and have seen as many of the voters as possible. Everywhere I received the most courteous treatment from all I have met. Those that I have not met I trust feel kindly towards me and I am more than sorry that I have not been able to shake the hand of every voter in the county.

I am asking for this office because I am qualified and because I am a Democrat; have always given my time and money to the Democratic cause, and on no other grounds do I ask your support. I have made no personal attack on my opponent, nor have I appealed to Race or Creed. Have not said or done anything that will place ammunition in the hands of the Republicans, nor have I said anything that I will have to have smoothed over in my own party.

I stand on my record as a loyal citizen in my immediate neighborhood, and on my unselfish interest in Scott county as a whole.

Your vote will be appreciated.
I thank you,

Natalie Talmadge Quits Actor-Husband Buster Keaton

According to a press dispatch from Los Angeles, Tuesday, Buster Keaton, movie comedian, was sued for divorce by Natalie Talmadge Keaton the day before. A private quarrel over a $100,000 yacht, and black eyes inflicted on Buster by another actress, figured in the proceedings.

THE EDITOR SAYS—

The management would respectfully call the attention of voters to the candidates who have thought enough of your votes to pay for space in The Standard asking for support. It is impossible to hazzard a guess as to who will be the nominee for any office elective. There has never been such a scramble for Congress and out of 56 candidates on the Democratic ticket and 30 on the Republican, but 13 can enter the final race. We have an idea that every candidate has a slate made out for his friends, but slates will be easily smashed this time. The only thing that we can say that we believe will be true is that at least ten of the thirteen Congressmen will be wet.

The Dexter Statesman and Hayti Herald are the only two Democratic papers in Southeast Missouri supporting Francis M. Wilson, of Kansas City, for Governor over Russell L. Dearmont of Cape Girardeau. There may be a reason, such as being paid or having been sued for debt, but nothing else should permit a newspaper in this section from supporting Dearmont. Both of these papers will lose standing with brother editors unless we miss our guess again.

Bill Dalton, of Columbia, 25-year-old candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket, was a Sikeston visitor Tuesday and called on The Standard. He is hopeful that lightning, in the way of one of the thirteen to be nominated, will strike him. He is a pretty keen lad and the Democrats could do much worse.

* * *

Just about the time you make up your mind which of the 56 varieties you intend to vote for in the primary, along comes some peckerwood and says he is dry, or wet, a Catholic, a Kluxer, a Methodist, or nothing, and you again have to spend a sleepless night. Ain't it awful.

* * *

It looks like fumadiddles of some sort has been going on up-State similar to the two Norrises in Nebraska. Fred M. Harris is a candidate against Frank G. Harris for Lieutenant Governor on the Democratic ticket. Fred M. is unknown, while Frank G. has been prominent in party affairs for many years.

* y *

Anyway, the summer months of June, July and August are half gone and the days are growing shorter. Next will be the cold chilly winds of November blowing from the headquarters of Salt River where all defeated candidates go, then the coal pile.

The primary campaign about to close in Missouri has been, and is, a hot one. Keen competition all along the line. The Standard trusts the Democrats of the State who are defeated will be good losers and get behind the winners with good grace. Heretofore the Democrats stay mad until after the November election then regret it for four more years. The Standard may not get a single nominee in the primary, but intends to back the entire ticket in November with our one vote, unless the Missus orders otherwise.

Just because some of the political advertisements in this issue of The Standard carry the emblem of the Demoratic party is no sign that we class them as an ass. This is beating any critics to the question.

The Great Engineer started in the Political Game with four million dollars, so the papers say, and now it has "swunk" up to only seven hundred thousand. That shows he wasn't so much after all. Another four years at the same rate he will be on a par with the farmers throughout the land. Four more years of Hoover, then hell.

Miss Eva M. Powell, 23, of Louisville, Ky., sliced off the ear of her escort, Mr. Raymond Herrington, after a beer party. If this is the way the girls act after taking on a bit of beer, makes us doubtful of what they would do with a knife if the 18th Amendment were repealed.

* * *

They are now using wild cat fur on evening gowns, so say the papers. Maybe that is why so many of the society girls go wild.

Frank G. Harris, of Columbia, Mo., was in Sikeston Saturday in the interest of his candidacy for Lieutenant Governor on the Democratic ticket. While in the city he paid The Standard office a visit. He was the party nominee four years ago, but went down in defeat with the entire ticket. He is a high type gentleman in every way.

Dearmont Pledges Reduction of State Government Costs Through Elimination of Useless Boards

Democratic Candidate for Governor Addressed 20,000 Southeast Missourians at Monster Rally Last Thursday

The text of Senator Russell Lee Dearmont's address to 20,000 or more loyal Southeast Missourians who last Thursday staged one of the largest political rallies ever promoted in this State, follows:

Mr. Chairman, my good friend Judge Perley, neighbors from all over Southeast Missouri and friends who have come from afar for this marvelous meeting, I want you to know that I am happy to be home again. Since the 7th day of January I have been conducting a strenuous campaign in the north and western half of the State of Missouri, carrying my candidacy to the good people in those sections of the State. I have driven in my automobile more than 32,000 miles over the Highways and Byways of Missouri, or 7000 miles further than it is around this old globe upon which we live. I have made more than 250 speeches in the campaign to this date and can truthfully say to you that I have made a more vigorous, aggressive and militant campaign than any candidate for the nomination for Governor has ever made in the history of this State. I have tried to enter into the true spirit of the Primary law and give the people of this State an opportunity to know me and hear my views upon the important issues of the campaign. In this way and in this way alone can the electorate be placed in a position to exercise sound judgment in the selection of public officials.

I am happy to come back to my neighbors and friends in Southeast Missouri with an enthusiastic message that victory is now in sight; with the sincere and earnest message that your wholehearted support will send me to the Governor's chair. I have never for a moment doubted your loyalty to me in this fight and this, the greatest crowd that ever assembled in the political history of Southeast Missouri should be a resounding answer to any who may have questioned your purpose to make me Governor of Missouri. Without your loyal support I would not have had the courage to make the terrific fight which I have made. I have lived my life among you. I am flesh of your flesh, blood of your blood, bone of your bone, and to be elected Governor without your friendly wholehearted approval and support would take most of the joy and pleasure from the accomplishment.

I come back home today to ask and I know to receive the support of my own people in my race for the highest office in the gift of the people of Missouri.

The issues of the campaign are many and I would not keep you long from the festive board by discussing them in detail upon this occasion. Nor would I, upon this occasion, take up your time with a discussion of general partisan political issues. I have always been ready to yield to my good Republican friends and neighbors the privilege, to differ with me on these questions. I have always realized, as do most Democrats, that our Republican neighbors and friends are just as honest as we are, just as interested in having an honest and efficient administration of public affairs as are we Democrats. No good can come at any time from an unfair partisan discussion of public problems and affairs. I say, however, to my Republican friends that, in my honest opinion, their present leadership has lost sight of most of them. It has been enamored and has had its eye focused too much upon the privileged interests of America. In the coming campaign they offer you the same leadership that has failed to raise to the occasion and truly lead America in its darkest hour.

Boards Must Prove Worth

When I am Governor of the great State of Missouri, I will abolish every Board, Bureau, Commission and Agency of the State Government which cannot prove its right to exist by showing that it renders an absolutely necessary and essential service to the people of this State. I will have the same regard for the expenditure of the public funds paid into the treasury by the taxpayers of Missouri that I would have for the expenditure of the money I earned by the sweat of my brow.

Do you realize that the State government of Missouri today owns two million dollars worth of automobiles, purchased with money taken from the taxpayers of this State, which bear official license plates and largely carry over the the Highway of Missouri so-called Inspectors of Drug Stores, Hotels, Ice Cream Factories, Bottling Works, Restaurants and many other business places in the State. If these inspectors rendered any real service to the people, some of them might justify their existence. But if you will inquire you will find that with scarcely an exception they are only Cash Register Inspectors that walk into the places of business in this State, lean heavily upon the Cash Register, write out a receipt for their fees, collect the money, looking ever for another place to collect more fees. Never rendering any service to the people of this State, they seem to operate upon the principle that the more fees they collect the more Inspectors they can hire, to collect more fees, to hire more Inspectors. It is an endless chain of extravagance. They have a theory that the more people they can get on the payroll the more successfully those who hire them can campaign for re-election to public office. I do not subscribe to the old spoil system as an asset to any public official or political party. I believe that the political party which places in office in Missouri public officials who will ever consider the public welfare, who will ever strive to reduce the costs of government and give a business-like and economical administration of governmental affairs, will remain in power so long as its representatives remain true to such ideals.

There are many reforms in the administrative side of the state government which I would like to discuss with you upon this occasion. Time forbids, however, that I do more than mention them at this time.

A BUDGET NEEDED

We need in Missouri an extensive budget. We need a uniform system of accounting. We need a central purchasing agency for the state government.

If I am elected Governor it would be my purpose to ask the other elective state officials to sit with me as a Board of Directors and advise with me in the administration of state affairs. To join me wholeheartedly in a program of economy and of business like administration of state affairs. I am sure I can secure their cooperation and that together we can effect a saving in the administrative costs of government in our state of approximately 50 per cent of its present cost.

I need not base my campaign upon a platform of merely promises for the future. I have written a record as a member of the state senate that I believe establishes my interest in the welfare of the great masses of Missouri citizens. In the first session in which I served, I succeeded, after a bitter fight in reducing by 1 per cent a month excessive rates charged by the loan sharks in Missouri. I reduced the excessive interest rates they charged the people of small means upon loans made to them.

In the last legislature I am sure you know of the fight I made for tax relief. It was a fight to relieve real property in Missouri from the oppressive and excessiveburden of taxation which it was bearing. A fight to increase the income tax so that there might be a more equitable distribution of the tax burden in our state. After a bitter fight the income tax law was passed and with it its companion, the new school law. This program sought to enable every school district in Missouri to maintain a standard eight months school upon the local tax levy of 20 cents on the $100 assessed valuation; the additional funds necessary to maintain such a school being provided from the state school fund. I believe sincerely that after I have been Governor twelve months and with the aid of other state officials have put into effect the measures of economy which I have briefly referred to heretofore that this program may be carried out as originally planned. The income tax increase will not be collected for a full year until next June, but even this year by reason of the enactment of this legislation the schools of this state will receive not less than double the sum they would have received during the coming school year under the terms of the old law.

As to the personal side of the campaign I will not now nor have I during the campaign spoken unkindly of my opponent, Mr. Wilson. I have only conceived it to be proper in the past and now to bring to the attention of the voters of this State certain facts about which there can be no question. Facts that in my opinion should influence the decision of the voters in the Primary election.

In the first place I feel, that Mr. Wilson has not accepted the obligation which the Primary places upon candidates for public office. He has not come before the voters of this State and expressed himself upon the important issues which are of interest to the citizens of this State in this campaign. He has seemed content to sit upon his front porch, sip ice water through a straw, fan himself with a palm leaf fan and trust in the power of a big factional Boss in Kansas City to lay the Democratic nomination for Governor in his lap. Probably no more should have been expected of him, as in the past he has shown little enthusiasm in political campaign, has scarcely ever appeared upon the platform in this State, upon the firing line for the Democratic Party. He has been richly rewarded for many years by political patronage, climaxing his receipt of political plums by an appointment at the hands of his brother-in-law, a Federal Judge, as Receiver of the bankrupt Kansas City Street Railway Company. On this job he was aided by a co-receiver who was a railroad man and a business man of great experience. For six years he drew a salary, as did his co-receiver amounting to more than $31,000 each year. Although he was a lawyer he paid during this period more than $250,000 out of the bankrupt company funds to lawyers for legal advice. It is evident that in the past twenty years he has been too busy accepting lucrative political plums, to give any time to public or party affairs. In my opinion the Democratic party needs a vigorous, aggressive, fighting leadership if it expects to win in the coming election. If my candidacy offers such a leadership in the opinion of the people I will be happy to lead the host of Democracy to victory.

Upon the issue raised by Mr. Thomas Pendergast of Kansas City in this campaign, which I have been frankly meeting at every opportunity, that is, the issue as to whether the Democratic party in Missouri shall become a controlled or Boss Ruled Party, I will speak but briefly. In discussing it today as at other times in the campaign, I will not indulge in any bitter personalities. There are Democrats in Missouri who disagree with me upon this issue but many more, in my opinion, who heartily agree with my position. I yield to every one the right to their own opinion upon this matter and frankly state to you now that the issue simply places before the people two widely divergent views as to how Party affairs should be administered, and how governmental affairs should be conducted in Missouri. I chance to be an old fashioned Jeffersonian Democrat. I believe with Jefferson that a Party can be strong and successfuly only so long as it rseponds readily to the will of the majority of those who support it. I agree with Jefferson that Democratic form of government can only be successful and continue to exist while it is responsive to the will of a majority of its citizens. In other words, I have always believed that the people can be rtusted and the view of the majority of them when clearly expressed should be followed by party leaders and official of government. To this Mr. Pendergast does not agree.

I had hoped to avoid a discussion of this issue in this campaign but when I attended the Democratic State Convention, saw the big Boss from Kansas City come, followed by 3000 or more of his bond slaves and became familiar with their political tactics, my rebel Democratic blood and my interest in the future of the Democratic Party, would not permit me to over look the gauntlet which was there thrown down to the Democrats of Missouri.

I saw the Big Boss push back, ever back the old rural Democrats of Missouri, who have been the back bone of our Party in every election in which we have been successful in the past. I was there when he let it be known that no Democrat, regardless of his loyalty and service to the Party in the past could go as a delegate at large to the National Convention at Chicago unless he would support the Boss' slate of candidates in the August primary.

And what was the keynote message brought to the State convention by the big Boss from Kansas City. Listen to the inspiring slogan which he offers to Missouri Democracy: "I am only interested in seeing that my boys in Kansas City get the jobs that are coming to them".

Penman Receives Endorsement Of State Labor Federation

T. A. Penman, Democratic candidate for State Senator from the 23rd District received the endorsement July 11 of the Missouri State Federation of Labor.

A letter over the signature of R. T. Wood, president of the Federation follows:

"The Executive Board of the Missouri State Federation of Labor extends to you by unanimous vote, our appreciation for the good record you made as a member of the Fifty-sixth General Assembly on legislation affecting the interests of the common people".

Mr. Penman, the New Madrid County "farmer candidate" from this district, called on The Standard Saturday afternoon while in this city looking after the progress of his campaign. Mr. Penman is a former County Judge in New Madrid County, served two terms in the State Legislature, and appears to be well informed on governmental affairs.

There is one candidate from each of three counties in the district, New Madrid, Scott and Mississippi, leaving Stoddard and Pemiscot Counties as a sort of general battle ground for the three Democrats seeking the nomination. At present, there is no Republican on the ticket.

SCOTT COUNTY MELON CROP NEEDS RAIN

Although few straggling watermelons have appeared on local tables, large scale growers of this delicous melon claim that the crop will be drastically reduced unless rain happens along very soon.

One grower with 450 acres of melons on sandy land claims that his total crop will be held to three or four car loads unless rain comes to the rescue of the youngsters on the vine.

Another farmer with an acreage of 150, claims he will have a bumper crop of extra fine melons if favored with sufficient moisture, and an extremely short crop if the present heat wave continues.

Scattered reports from over the county indicate that carload shipping will begin generally within seven to ten days. The rest of the season, if there is to be more, will depend entirely upon rains.

A few local growers were busy this week clipping small melons from the vines. They were cooked soft, it was explained.

Cantaloupes on the other hand were benefittted by recent occassional showers and the crop is fair to average, with quality good. Melons are selling retail from five cents to ten cents each and lower.

TOP NOTCHERS DISPLAY FINE FORM AND TAKE HONORS IN GOLF TOURNEY

Although advantages, if any, in the local handicap tournament here Sunday went to the medium or low shooters, the top-notchers with their consistent playing holed out to win all honors.

J. L. Brown, with a handicap of 10 strokes, made the eighteen holes in 77 for a medal score of 67, and C. C. Scott with a low handicap of two strokes came through with 69 strokes for the two rounds tying Brown's score of 67. First and second prizes were awarded to the two players.

Third honors were divided three ways, with Vincent Roast of New Madrid, sharing honors with C. L. Malone and L. R. Bowman. Handicaps of 12 strokes for Roast, 5 for Malone, and 2 for Bowman proved to be sufficient.

Handicaps for "dubs" in the contest ranged from 10 strokes to 30.

SCOTT COUNTIANS WIN DEGREES IN CAPE NORMAL

Cape Girardeau—Of the 878 candidates for diplomas and certificates the following are from Scott County: For the B. S. degree George Walter Hilpert, Illmo; Claude Harold Kirkpatrick, Diehlstadt; Mary Alleita Lankford, Chaffee; Edith Louise Rhodes, Blodgett: For Life Certificate Bessie Alice Scarbrough, Blodgett; Marie Sue Esmon, Morley: For Two Year Certificate, Rivers Cloar Tanner, Ella Lucille Woods, Sikeston; Nathalie Margaret Bolton and Marie Lillian Davis, Chaffee; Marjorie Holladay Craig and William Noel Hansel, Illmo; Irene Mills Rich, Illmo Bertram Agnez Bradford, Diehlstadt; Ivah Frances Wilkins, Commerce.

STODDARD MEN PLAN HOMECOMING EVENT

Emmett O'Neal, farm agent for Stoddard County, and members of a committee visited in Sikeston briefly Tuesday afternoon in the interest of a proposed "homecoming," county wide in nature, to be held in Bloomfield the latter part of September or the first part of October. Mr. O'Neal was interested, he said, in feeling out sentiment here regarding the proposed event, and assured Scott Countians that the Stoddard homecoming would not conflict in any way with the annual Neighbor Day stunt held in Benton.

MARILYN JO MORGAN DEAD

Marilyn Jo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Morgan of Illinois, died at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mullin, four miles south of Brown's Spur July 22, at the age of two months and twenty-nine days, of colitis.

She leaves to mourn her passing her parents, one sister, Barbara Sue, two grandmothers, one grandfather and many other relatives. She was laid to rest in the Matthews cemetery.

CITY COUNCIL TO MEET MONDAY NIGHT

The Sikeston City Council will hold its regular monthly meeting next Monday night, August 1, according to P. H. Stevenson, clerk. Regular routine matters are to come before the body.

FERRY BOAT EXPLOSION AT THEBES CLAIMS TWO LIVES THURSDAY NIGHT

An explosion aboard a gasoline-powered ferry boat at the west side of the Mississippi River opposite Thebes, Ill., cost the lives of two persons, a girl and a man.

Ward Cossiboom of Thebes, pilot of the ferry the Addie May, died in St. Francis Hospital shortly before noon Friday from burns sustained in the explosion.

Miss Ethel Hopper, 19 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Hopper of near Arbor, died in the hospital late Friday.

Miss Hopper and the pilot were severely burned after being sprayed with gasoline when the motor exploded. Flames evidently started from backfire of the power unit, and soon enveloped the boat and the two victims. Both were rendered unconscious shortly after the accident.

Miss Hopper jumped into the river near the shore with her clothing in flames, according to witnesses. She was rushed to the office of Dr. G. T. Dorris of Illmo, where she received emergency treatment, and was later removed to the Cape Girardeau Hospital. Cossiboom dashed from the pilot house, reached land and began tearing his clothing from his body as he ran.

The accident happened about 9:30 o'clock Thursday night.

The Hopper family lives on Hickory Ridge, a mile and a half from Arbor and Mr. Hopper said he and his daughter had gone Thursday to near Cobden, Ill., to get apples. He said they had returned to Thebes and had crossed on the boat. After the boat hod been docked, he said, and he had driven his car to land, his daughter, who had walked up the bank of the river, decided to return to the engine room for a drink of water. Her father related that she had just gone into the room when the flare-up and fire came.

He said that others about the boat at the time believed the engine backfired and started the blaze. He said that was all he knew of the origin of it.

E. L. Holliday of Thebes, owner of the ferry, stated later that the engine in the boat was arranged according to government regulations and could not advance a reason for the explosion. The ferry, a steel-hulled one, plied between Thebes and Illmo landing.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning for the 35-year-old pilot, Cossibom, who is survived by his widow and two children. The family lived in Thebes.

Funeral services for Miss Hopper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hopper of near Arbor, were conducted Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the Haman Funeral Home, Cape Girardeau, with Rev. E. D. Owen, pastor of First Baptist church. Burial at Stroderville cemetery, near Whitewater.

Miss Hopper was born February 28, 1913, and besides her parents is survived by six brothers. Four of them, Everett, Millard, Owen and Ernest, live in St. Louis and Leonard and Willard are at home.

SAYS DEARMONT RALLY WAS LARGEST POLITICAL GATHERING IN PRIMARY

Cape Missourian:—The Dearmont rally at New Madrid was the largest meeting S. B. Hunter, the chairman, said he had ever seen for any candidate before his nomination. He said he attended a political meeting at Bunceton at which a candidate for president was the speaker, but that was the only one he ever saw that was larger than the Dearmont rally.

People attended because they wanted to hear the candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, Mr. Hunter declared. In spite of minor disturbances and confusion they listened attentively to the speakers. Even when at 3 o'clock, the crowd was invited to come and get what was left of the barbecued meat, and there was a rush to the pits, more than 5000 people stayed in their places to listen to the speeches.

According to Mr. Hunter, 17,000 people were on the grounds by 1 o'clock and they kept coming until there were at least 20,000. They came in cars, trucks, wagons, horseback and on foot. He even sent trucks out to pick up the ones who were walking and bring them in.

Many Candidates

As chairman of the meeting, after the principal address, Mr. Hunter introduced the other Democratic candidates who were present and allowed them 3 to 5 minutes each to talk. Among them were Floyd Sperry of Clinton, for lieutenant governor; Jim Wells of St. Joseph, for Secretary of State; Richard R. Nacy of Jefferson City, for treasurer; George B. Calvin of Washington, for attorney general; Judge Allen W. Walker of Fayette for Judge of the Supreme Court, Division one; Judge Chas. L. Henson of Springfield, for Judge of the Supreme Court, Division two; R. F. Baynes of New Madrid for Springfield Court of Appeals; Charles E. Dewey of Jefferson City, Barton N. Grant of Webster Groves, James F. Fulbright of Doniphan and James E. Ruffin of Springfield, for Congress James C. McDowell of Charleston and T. A. Penman of Portageville for state senator.

DEARMONT MOTORCADE TO INVADE LEAD BELT

Friends of Senator Russell Dearmont, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, plan to tour the Lead Belt next Saturday, touching briefly many points north and northwest of Cape Girardeau, the home town of Mr. Dearmont.

BLISTER BUGS RUIN VINES BUT DO GOOD EATING 'HOPPER EGGS

R. L. Furry, Scott Co. Farm Agent

Certain types of insects are now harming our potatoes, tomatoes and especially the clematis vines. Some of these bugs are long, blue color, often called the old Blister Beetle or Running Beetle. The second type is a black beetle, the same size and general form, and the third type is the common old striped Blister Beetle, often referred to as the old striped potato beetle. All three of these work in the same manner and when hungry, will work on almost anything. Some people drive these bugs with switches, etc., from their place over to a neighbor, and the neighbor drives them on to the next one. This gives relief only to a temporary spot and permits them to increase in greater numbers. Any of these insects can be controlled by use of pure calcium arsenate through a hand-duster. Here at Benton several clematis vines and other vines dusted with this dust at the beginning of the outbreak has almost freed the vines of these insects. As these pests are rather destructive to some of our crops, they happen to be beneficial to others. For instance, they generally appear just about the time the grasshoppers have laid their eggs and they will get busy and eat every grasshopper they can find. This is one trait we must give them credit for.

The smartest man, according to one of our sons, is not his father, but the father of one of his friends. This man can tell the boys more interesting things about stars, while sleeping out doors with his children and others. And in our opinion, the man who knows how to entertain youngsters by explaining things which they do not understand, and talking to them in a way they appreciate, is an ideal parent. Any adult can please a child by giving it money or buying some gift. But such pleasure is only temporary and does no good, and on the other hand encourages a desire for things which they may never be able to afford. We have found that nine times out of ten a home-made toy will make more fun for a child, especially if he participates in the making, than a purchased mechanical plaything. And nature provides the best of all entertainment if an individual can only appreciate it.—Shelbina Democrat.

The PEOPLE'S CHOICE

Due to the fact that Governor Caulfield vetoed the Re-districting Congressional Bill, passed by the Democratic Legislature, all candidates for Congress must now run at large. The Democrats of the Sixth Congressional District have for ten successive terms nominated me for Congress. I am now asking for nomination at large in the August primary.

I cordially endorse our candidates for President and Vice President, and stand squarely on the Democratic platform adopted at Chicago. I will vote for Joint Resolution of Congress to submit the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to a vote of the people of the several States, as provided in the Democratic platform. I also favor a modification of the Volstead Act, pending action for repeal, to permit the sale of beer at a higher per cent, to be fixed by law—not intoxicating, and to be subject to taxation—to help support the Government.

I favor strict economy in Government—a cutting down of expenditures, abolishment of unnecessary bureaus and commissions, a lowering of the high protective tariff walls at home and abroad—so that the surplus products of farm and factory may find a world market and so trade and commerce, the life of nations, may be restored and labor be employed again.

Please Vote For

John T. Fitzsimmons

[of St. Louis]

Candidate for Nomination for

Judge of Supreme Court

Division No. 2

Two To Be Nominated

Democratic Primary August 2, 1932

Why YOU Should Vote for Judge Fitzsimmons, of St. Louis, for Judge of Supreme Court, Division Two—

He received highest vote of Missouri lawyers on Democratic Supreme Court Candidates in Referendum recently held.

He is now a Supreme Court Commissioner doing the work of a Judge of that Court.

He made an admirable record as a Circuit Judge in St. Louis.

SOUTHEAST MISSOURI should be particularly interested in the candidacy of Judge Fitzsimmons inasmuch as his nomination and election will ASSURE REPRESENTATION OF THIS SECTION ON THE MISSOURI SUPREME COURT.

Be Sure and Have JAMES F. FULBRIGHT Democratic Candidate for Congressman-at-Large On Your Ticket in the August Primary

A Tireless Worker
Able Campaigner
Eloquent Speaker

Will Be Appreciated

Mr. Fulbright resides at Doniphan and has represented this district in Congress several terms. He is thoroughly capable and has proved to be a faithful servant of the people of this State.

Owing to all the Congressmen being nominated at large this year, Mr. Fulbright and all other candidates will be voted on all over the State.

Thirteen candidates are to be nominated. Democrats are urged and requested to vote for Mr. Fulbright in the primary August 2. In making out your ticket, be sure and leave the name of James F. Fulbright on the ballot you vote.

I stand four-square on the Democratic Platform Adopted at Chicago

Fulbright Is Again a Candidate for Congress:

One of the outstanding members of the Missouri Congressional delegation is none other than Honorable James F. Fulbright, who resides at Doniphan and represents the Fourteenth District of Southeast Missouri, one of the largest districts in the State.

This representative is truly a man of the people. Fighting his way to a place among his fellowmen has not been easy. Being a self-made man, he was compelled to endure many of the hardships that come in the pathway of a young man who had no funds but was blessed with a grim determination to succeed. Such a young man was James F. Fulbright, now a member of Congress.

The writer knows very well the many achievements of Mr. Fulbright. It was our privilege to serve as a member of the Missouri general assembly with Mr. Fulbright, in which body he was honored by being named the speaker pro tem, a position of responsibility that he filled with great honor to himself. In that legislative body Mr. Fulbright was a defender of the people's interests and he was always ready to lend his aid to passage of such legislation as would bring relief to the people he represented. So it is true in the national Congress. It is said that Mr. Fulbright stands out prominently as one of the safe leaders of that body and his service there has attracted nation-wide interest. Mr. Fulbright is a gifted speaker, an able campaigner and in the State-wide Congressional campaign he will be a great power for the success of the State and national ticket in the general election.—The Moberly (Mo.) Message.

The writer, the city editor of the Louisiana Press-Journal, has known James F. Fulbright for 20 years and heartily confirms what has been said of him by the editor of the Moberly Message. Mr. Fulbright, truly a self-made man, was born and reared on a farm near Millerville, in Cape Girardeau County, Missouri. He was educated in the public schools, the State normal school at Cape Girardeau and Washington law school, St Louis. He taught four terms in the rural schools of Ripley County, one of the counties of the 14th district which he now has the honor to represent in Congress. He served several terms as prosecuting attorney of Ripley County and represented that county in the State legislature, serving as speaker pro tem during the 48th and 49th sessions. He was elected a member of the 68th and 70th Congresses and was again elected to the 72nd Congress, where he is at present ably serving the constituents of his district. In the elections of 1928 and 1930 he received the largest vote ever given a Democratic candidate in that district. The success of Mr. Fulbright in being repeatedly elected to Congress from the 14th district, normally Republican, the largest district in the State, comprising 16 counties, extending along the south and southeastern border with a population larger than that of any other district in the State outside the large cities, constitutes one of the interesting and outstanding chapters of Missouri political history. His success attests his ability as a campaigner, pleasing personality, high type manhood, loyalty to party principle and the eminently satisfactory quality of service he has rendered the people whom he so ably represents as a member of Congress in Washington.

Mr. Fulbright lives at Doniphan, where he was twice honored by being elected mayor. He was married in Ripley county, his wife being a member of one of Southeastern Missouri's best families. He takes an active interest in the civic affairs of his home town and in fraternal activities and is a past grand master of the Odd Fellows of Missouri.

Like Clarence Cannon of the Ninth district and others who are seeking the nomination for Congress in Missouri this year, due to the non-approval of a redistricting measure, it will be necessary for Congressman Fulbright to submit his claims for re-election to the people of the State at large instead of only to the people of the 14th district, as has been the custom. As it will be impossible for him to make a tour of the State to solicit support, it will be necessary to depend in a large measure upon the efforts of his friends in securing his nomination as one of 13 candidates to be nominated in the primary to be voted for in the general election in November.

Mr. Fulbright is known in Southeast Missouri as a tireless, able campaigner, and a speaker of unusual ability. He has been making campaign speeches for the Democratic party ever since he began teaching a rural school on Buffalo creek in the hills of the western part of Ripley county and will be an effective, forceful campaigner for the general election next November.

Mr. Fulbright is one of the tried, true, dependable members of Congress and it is to the best interest of the people of the State that he be returned.—Louisiana Press-Journal.

JUDGE HENSON TAKES CAMPAIGN TO ST. LOUIS

Springfield, July 21.—Jubilant over the result of the Missouri State bar poll, which late last week overwhelmingly endorsed him, Judge Charles L. Henson, Democratic candidate for division 2 of the State supreme court, this week pushed his campaign into St. Louis and a tier of border Mississippi river counties.

The bar ballot, voted upon by Judges and lawyers of both political parties throughonut Missouri, gave Judge Henson an outstanding endorsement for one of the two places to be filled in the criminal division of the high bench.

Friends of the jurist pointed out that his count in the bar ballot proved his universal popularity throughout the State, because in order to amass 1223 votes, as he did, in the polling, it was necessary to procure 1000 votes outside the Springfield Court of Appeals district, in which only 205 ballots were cast.

Leaders also felt confident of his nomination in the primary on August 2, because of the fact that the bar endorsements are generally closely followed by the State's voters.

Judge Henson, who for 12 years was circuit judge of the 24th judicial district, is the only aspirant to division 2 of the high court living outside Kansas City and St. Louis, and is also the only candidate in that race from the entire southern half of Missouri.

Due to the unusual length of the Democratic and Republican ballots this year and the multiplicity of candidates for Congressional berths, it will take longer to vote than it usually does. Also it is going to take longer to count the ballots. Most every voter can vote as conveniently in the forenoon as in the afternoon, ought to do so for it will be a big help towards getting early returns. If the judges and clerks will begin counting just as soon as a few ballots are cast, and then try to keep up with it throughout the day, there will be very few precincts in the county where the election judges and clerks will have to work late in order to get through.

CLYDE WILLIAMS

CONGRESSMAN-AT-LARGE

It will be recalled that he was elected to Congress in 1926, and after serving one term was defeated in 1928 by a narrow margin, although the district went to the Republicans by an overwhelming majority. In 1930 Mr. Williams was elected to Congress over his Republican opponent by a huge majority. He served the people of the district with ability and distinction receiving recognition and acquiring honors that rarely come to men in their early years in Congress. In this Congress he is a member of the great Committee on Banking and Finance.

Born and reared on the farm he knows the problems of agriculture first hand. A close student of the law and the functions of government, he knows the economic, industrial and social needs of the country. He has ever been a true friend of the laboring man, and has made a success of his own business affairs. By education, by training and experience, he is qualified to represent this district in Congress.

His theories of government are sound. He believes in less centralization and more local government; less bureacracy and more democracy; less intricacy in the machinery of government and more of the simplicity of common sense; less favoritism and special privilege and more equality; less graft and more honor in public life; less greed and more conscience; less reliance on political pull and chicanery and more faith in the ability and integrity of the plain common people; more economy in government and for the abolishment of useless boards, bureaus and commissions. He is also for lower taxes and will do everything he can do to further such.

He stands squarely upon the Democratic National Platform.

He is grateful to all his friends for their faithful and loyal support in other campaigns, and if elected to Congress again, he promises the same careful, faithful and conscientious service that he has always tried to render in the past.

The State of Missouri is entitled to elect only 13 CONGRESSMEN this year, and they are to be voted upon all over the State. Heretofore, we had 16, but the last census reduced Missouri to 13. At present there are 12 DEMOCRATS in Congress from Missouri. They are running for re-election and are as follows:

CLYDE WILLIAMS, HILLSBORO
MILTON A. ROMJUE, MACON
JOHN J. COCHRAN, ST. LOUIS
JAMES F. FULBRIGHT, DONIPHAN
JACOB L. MILLIGAN, RICHMOND
JOSEPH B. SHANNON, KANSAS CITY
CLEMENT C. DICKINSON, CLINTON
ROBERT D. JOHSON, MARSHALL
WILLIAM E. BARTON, HOUSTON
CLARENCE CANNON, ELSBERRY
WILLIAM L. NELSON, COLUMBIA
RALPH F. LOZIER, CARROLLTON

CLYDE WILLIAMS
Candidate for Congress

These men are the choice of the Democrats in the particular part of the State where they live, and a great many Democrats in all parts of the State feel that their re-election will strengthen the Democratic State ticket in the fall election by from twenty-five to fifty thousand votes, thereby to that extent making more sure of the Democrats carrying Missouri this fall. They are now fairly well distributed over the State geographically. Moreover, since the present Congressmen are now the choice of a large majority of the Democrats in their present Congressional Districts, it is the general opinion of Democrats over the State that the people in each section should not be deprived of the Congressman they desire in their particular section. In the event of their re-election, it would avoid any possibility of a ticket being chosen from one or a few localities. Should a ticket be nominated throwing too many candidates in the same territory, the Republican politicans would be quick to try to take advantage of such a situation. There is a movement on now by the Republicans in Missouri to get behind 13 of, their men to combat the Democratic Congressmen this Fall. The strength in the way of organization that the present Congressmen have in their districts appeals strongly to the Democratic voters and that, coupled with their experience and qualifications make the present number a strong aggregation to go against the Hoover machine this fall. The Republican party seems scheduled to re-nominate all their present Congressmen.

TO THE VOTERS OF SCOTT COUNTY:

In my campaign for Assessor of Scott County, I am asking your support, not through sympathy, but on my merits as a citizen of Scott County for the past twenty-five years, as to my honesty and fair dealing.

The most outstanding argument in this campaign is for a reduction in taxes, and if elected, I will work to bring about a reduction to conform with the present depressed values of real estate and personal properties.

Also if elected, I will be ready and willing at any time to assist anyone with business connected with the Assessor's office.

SCOTT COUNTY WOMEN FORM DEARMONT FOR GOVERNOR CLUB FRIDAY

Formation of a Scott County Democratic Women's Dearmont for Governor Committee to organize the women voters of the county was made at Morley Friday, July 22, at the home of Miss Amy L. Boyce, Committeewoman for Morley Township.

The Committee consists of women who had accepted membership on the State Committee of 1000 women in the support of Russell L. Dearmont of Cape Girardeau for Governor. Miss Amy L. Boyce of Morley was named chairman and Mrs. O. E. Rigdon of Chaffee as Secretary of the organization.

They will be assisted by the following committee, who, as a service for good government, will circulate literature and secure names of women who will agree to go to the polls and vote for Mr. Dearmont at the August Primary: Mrs. R. H. Leslie, Morley; Mrs. H. F. Emerson, Morley; Mrs. W. O. Finney, Chaffee; Miss Edith Elmore, Benton; Mrs. M. E. Montgomery, Benton; Mrs. Roy A. Green, Blodgett; Mrs. Rube Armstrong, Vanduser; Mrs. Kate Harris, Sikeston and Mrs. Madison Zaciori of Commerce.

LEE B. EWING SEEMS SURE OF NOMINATION FOR CONGRESSMAN

Vernon County's candidate for Congressman-at-large, Lee B. Ewing of this city, is undoubtedly making the most strenuous campaign of any of the fifty-six candidates running for the Democratic nomination. Up to this time, he has visited over ninety of the 114 Counties in the State and in every County visited so far, he has met with a most cordial reception and has received great encouragement from every section of the State, including the large cities. Mr. Ewing is making his campaign squarely on the platform recently adopted by the Democratic National Convention.

Vernon County is entitled to one of the seats in the national congress. It is one of the banner Democratic Counties of the State. In the primary election of 1930 there were more Democratic votes cast in Vernon county than in any other county south of Jackson and between the western line of Missouri and the Mississippi River, except Green and Dunklin. Vernon county has had no Democrat in Congress since the service of the late and lamented W. J. Stone—42 years ago. It now looks as though Vernon county will again have one of her citizens in the Congress because the general opinion throughout the State is that Lee B. Ewing will be one of the thirteen to receive a Democratic nomination. Mr. Ewing will continue his campaign to cover every county in the State before primary day, August 2. Mr. Ewing is in every way qualified to represent the people of this and every other section of the State in Congress. He is not only an able lawyer but has had a wide experience in business and farming and no man is more loyal to the interests of the an old-fashioned Jeffersonian Democrat. His name will add strength to the Democratic ticket and in the campaign to follow the primary he will be one of the party's ablest campaigners and party champions.—Nevada Mail.

RUSSELL L. DEARMONT

We wish that we might persuade all our Democratic readers to vote for Russell L. Dearmont of Cape Girardeau for Governor. Such a wish is based partly on a friendship and admiration of many years standing, and partly on a firm conviction that he will make this State a great Governor.

The writer went to the old Normal School for the first time in 1907, an awkward, green, country boy. There was a surprisingly large number of green ones that year, youngsters fresh from the grass roots. Most of us had felt the pinch of poverty; most of us were poorly clad; some of us could not even buy the books we needed; we soon became discouraged and were ready to go back home and give up the struggle.

We first met Russell Dearmont in those days. He took an interest in us, as he did in the other beginners. He spoke to us, smiled at us, inquired about our progress, offered to help us over the the rough spots. The greatest need of a country boy suddenly transplanted into a college atmosphere is a little friendliness, and Russell Dearmont, though he was the president's son, gave us.

We have observed his career since those school days, and it seems to us that we have never known a young man who was more sympathetically helpful to all with whom he came in contact. There is none of the put-on in Russell Dearmont the fine spirit that dominates his life just can't help shining through when he comes in contact with his fellow man.

We can conceive of Russell Dearmont being beaten, only if not enough Democrats know him. We cannot conceive of anyone who knows him voting against him.

We want to see a Governor elected from Southeast Missouri, but more than that we want to see elected a man who is clean and capable and fearless, and such a man we know Russell Dearmont to be.

Unless there is a very good reason for doing otherwise, and we can think of none, we hope every Democrat in Madison County will be true to Southeast Missouri, and cast a vote for Russell Dearmont for Governor.— Fredericktown Democrat.

SMALL MOREHOUSE CHILD DIES AFER EATING POISON

Morehouse, July 26.—Four member of the Linnie Wilson family here are recuperating after being critically ill from vegetables believed to have been treated with an arsenic solution for the elimination of bugs. One child, a three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, died last Friday. An autopsy and chemical analysis of the viscera of the child revealed traces of arsenic, according to one authority.

Sheriff A. F. Stanley and J. V. Conran, prosecuting attorney questioned the parents, and ordered an autopsy held after Dr. Pease of Morehouse, Dr. T. C. McClure of Sikeston and Dr. W. O. O'Bannon, County Health Physician had been called in the case.

Questioning revealed that Mrs. Wilson and her four children had all been ill. Experts advanced the theory that an arsenic solution had been sprayed on vegetables in the arsenic solution had been sprayed on vegetables in the garden, and that members of the family became poisoned from that source.

FALLS TO DEATH TRYING TO KISS BLARNEY STONE

Cork, Irish Free State, July 25.—James Burke of Charleville insisted he could kiss the Blarney Stone without anyone holding his legs as he hung head downward over the parapet. He tried it, slipped, and fell 100 feet to his death at the foot of the ancient castle.

Kissing the stone, tradition says gives the power of eloquent and persuasive speech.

EARLY DUNKLIN MELONS BRING $100 TO $185 PER CAR

Kennett.—Some of the Dunklin County watermelons, due to the extreme heat, have matured prematurely and consequently did .ot reach the size they would have otherwise. Loading is going ahead at a fair rate.

Among those loading good melons in carload lots have been W. T. Ray, Iber Blanton, John Miller and others. The carload price has ranged from $100 to $185.

She Reduced 38 Pounds The Safe Way

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for 4 months and I think they are wonderful. I am 32 years old and 5 ft. 2 in. tall. I was very fat. I weighed 165 lbs. and now I weigh 127 lbs. and feel fine. If I let up taking the Salts one morning I feel lazy and heavy", Mrs. Florence Loftus, Boston.

This is just one of hundreds of letters we get every month—Kruschen not only causes you to lose fat but while you are losing it you gain in health—in vivaciousness—you lose fat where fat is most prominent and at the same time keep stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning naturally.

White's Drug Store or any drug store in the world will sell you a jar of Kruschen for a trifling sum—take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning—go light on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets. But for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous. It's the little daily does that does it. -2.

For Your Consideration in the Prosecuting Attorney's Race

My opponent, who is a fine young man, advances two reasons why you should vote for him for prosecuting attorney; first, because he needs the experience the office affords, and second, that while I have rendered the County good service, I have held the office long enough. His claim stated another way, amounts to this: "The office of Prosecuting Attorney is merely a "political plum" which should be passed around, kind of service by the one elected is of small importance".

Some will doubtless agree with this contention. But it is just as certain that a great majority of our citizens feel that in selecting a man for this office, the welfare of the public should be given first consideration, and the interests of the candidates should be considered as only secondary. In other words, they are more concerned with the kind of service that may reasonably be expected of the candidate selected, than they are with the candidate himself. Because they realize that this is an office of great importance, not only in protecting our people from holdup men, thieves, kidnapers, murderers and other criminals, but also in the dollars and cents costs to the county of criminal prosecutions.

My opponent has made the issue, so I trust you will pardon my apparent lack of modesty in replying by submitting the following facts for your consideration:

1. Through my services there has been collected from law violators in fines and prosecuting attorney fees, and turned into the County treasury, several thousand dollars more than the total salary the County has paid me.

2. I have saved the County hundreds of dollars in court costs, etc., by refusing to take up and prosecute many petty cases where the evidence was not sufficient to warrant a conviction.

3. I gladly leave it to the people of the County as to whether I have vigorously prosecuted all meritorious cases.

4. Suppressing crime is a difficult and expensive task at best, and since we are to have a NEW sheriff, the County should have an experienced Prosecuting Attorney to help him.

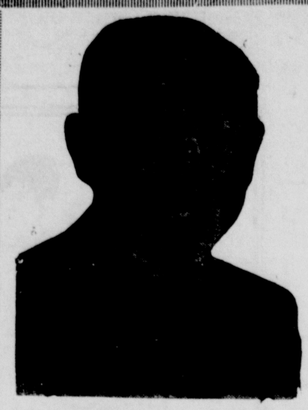
5. Three murder cases and a number of other important prosecutions are now in court for disposition.

I have not been able to see all of the voters during this campaign, but I solicit your vote and support and pledge you my best efforts if re-elected.

Respectfully Submitted,

M. E. MONTGOMERY

Candidate for Prosecuting Attorney, Scott County.



ROY McKITTRICK

Senator Sixth District

Salisbury, Missouri

Candidate for

Attorney General of Missouri

Vacation From Corn Rows Starts Career in Politics

Roy McKittrick, as a Boy, Took Time Out From Farm Labors to Deliver an Independence Day Speech—Now He Seeks to Be State Attorney General

By the Kansas City Star's Missouri Correspondent.

Salisbury, Mo., November 19.—The lure of a 3-day vacation from plowing corn started Roy McKittrick, State Senator from this district, on a career which now, thirty years later, finds him bidding for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General of Missouri.

While Senator McKittrick may not attribute everything that since has happened along his path of life to that holiday from the cornfield, certainly it has had a most pronounced effect on his determination to become a lawyer.

As a youth of 14 McKittrick came in one night after a hard day under an unrelenting July sun. The boy had picked up a smattering of history in the rural school and had shown an interest in that subject. His grandfather, the late E. B. Welch, for years a member of the County Court of this (Chariton) County, proposed to young McKittrick that night he make a Fourth of July speech at the church in Musselfork, a village north of here. The boy replied he had to plow and did not have time to prepare material for such an appearance.

So the Boy Accepts

"You may have three days off from plowing if you'll make the talk", the grandfather proposed.

That was too alluring an offer for a tired farm boy to turn down and he immediately accepted and made the speech.

From that time on McKittrick was determined he was going to learn more of the Constitution and become a lawyer if there was any way to do so. The rural schools of the neighborhood furnished the first foundation. Later McKittrick attended U. S. Hall school, formerly of Prairie Hill and later at Glasgow. Between times he continued to work on his grandfather's farm. At 18, McKittrick determined to take a course in law, went to the University of Missouri, which he attended a short time. Returning home one vacation period the law student met Fred Lamb, then a widely known lawyer and later judge of this, the twelfth judicial circuit, on a street of Salisbury. Judge Lamb proposed that McKittrick take a more direct route in obtaining his legal education by entering Lamb's office as a clerk and read law as he could at odd times. That McKittrick did and in 1909 was admitted to practice.

Politics always interested the young man and five years later found him in the heat of a campaign for prosecuting attorney of Chariton County. He won the nomination and election and for three terms served his county in that capacity, an honor which has gone to only one other here, W. W. Rucker, for years representative in congress from the second congressional district.

In 1930 McKittrick was elected to the State Senate, where for a new member he was unusually active. He had things to say and said them, and particularly did he voice his opposition to constantly growing costs of State government, contending that the way to reduce State expenses was by lopping off unnecessary agencies. As a member from a rural district, McKittrick's opposition to proposals sponsored by the Gary survey commission attracted attention as the majority of members from outside Missouri were lined up behind the Gary program from the outset. But McKittrick took the position that tax features of the financial measures were not equalizing and equitable.

Father a Storekeeper

McKittrick was born at Guthridge Mill, a little town twelve miles northwest of Salisbury where Musselfork Creek furnished the motive power for the mill, and his father, I. H. McKittrick, was the keeper of the general store. McKittrick's mother died when he was 3 years old and the son with two other brothers went to the grandfathers' farm to live. In 1912 McKittrick married Miss Zulah Chrane, a young woman who lived on a neighboring farm and was one of those who listened to his Fourth of July oration that day of thirty years ago. They have one son, Rex, 10 years old.

This man who now seeks the nomination of his party for the chief law office of his State is known throughout this section, where he not only has practiced his profession for years, but long has been active in politics. For his Democracy he goes back to his great-grandfather, who fought with Old Hickory at New Orleans, and moved to Chariton County in 1820, settling on the farm where McKittrick was reared, and where the family lived until the death, three years ago, of the grandfather, who proposed the Fourth of July speech. While McKittrick does not know how he will come out in his present venture, he is certain of one thing—that the 3-day vacation from the corn rows as a lad of 14 has at least accounted for many things which have happened since.

Pleasantly anticipating your friendly support for the nomination of Coroner on the Democratic ticket, I beg to assure you that it will be much appreciated and that I am always,

Very gladly yours,

J. H. HOLTERMANN

Lilbourn, Missouri

To the Voters of New Madrid County:

I take this method of announcing my candidacy for

Assessor on the Democratic Ticket

I, GUY CALVIN, do solemnly pledge that I will if nominated—

1—Serve you to the very best of my ability.

2—Visit each and every taxpayer in person, making readjustments to the full extent of my authority.

3—Assess everyone on equal basis, showing partiality to none.

I have tried to make a clean campaign, and if I should be defeated I will have no ill feeling toward anyone. Unfortunately I have been unable to meet many of you, and hope that you won't hold anything against me in this respect.

For the benefit of those who do not know in what part of the county I live, I wish to state that for the past 21 years I have lived six miles south of Sikeston on Highway 61 on what is known as the Stallcup farm.

I want to thank my many friends for their loyal support, and for their continued efforts in my behalf at the Primary, August 2nd.

Your vote and influence will be sincerely appreciated.

I thank you,

GUY CALVIN

Candidate for

ASSESSOR, NEW MADRID COUNTY

on the Democratic Ticket, August 2nd, 1932 Primary

Notice to Taxpayers

To the Voters of Mississippi County:

I take this means to let you know that I sincerely solicit your vote for Assessor of your County.

I find that I do not have time to come to your home and see each of you personally. You see by the time we have Circuit Court, County Court, Probate Court and Justice Court, and the various other duties, a Sheriff must give his personal attention, not much time is left for electioneering. So if I do not get to see you before August 2nd, do not think that I do not want your vote, for I do. There are seven of us begging for the Assessor's job, and they are a bunch of mighty fine men, and it will be hard to beat all of them. I am going to need every vote I can get. I will appreciate each and every vote I do get. I am not saying I can attend to the Assessor's duties any better than some of my opponents, but I will say this: If elected I will try and do everything an Assessor should do. The Assessor is a public servant and has special duties to perform the same as any other officer, and I think he should do it. If elected I will give the office my personal attention. I mean to see every taxpayer in the County and find out what he or she has, if anything, to pay taxes on, if I am fortunate enough to have the opportunity. Some people look on the Assessor's job as a joke or an old man's job or something of the kind. I think it is one of the most important offices in the County, if taken seriously and properly attended to, it is a man's job. The Lord knows our taxes are too high. If there is any way or anything I can do to help the taxpayer get relief, I am ready to do it before we all go to the Poor House. I am just a poor taxpayer myself—that is, I am trying to pay and can't. If given one opportunity to serve you as Tax Assessor, and if I do not do everything an assessor should do and all that I have promised to do, I want you to tell me so, and scratch my name off the ticket the next time I ask for any office. So here is hoping that you will give me one chance at the Assessor's job, and I will try and see that you will never regret it.

I understand some of my opponents are promising the people that if they are elected, they will form a Tax Assessor's Association, and march to Jefferson City and take the Governor by the nap of the neck and demand lower taxes and he, the Governor, will have to do it, you see, something like the soldiers tried on Hoover. I am an ex-soldier myself, but the march to Washington was a failure, the same as the Tax Assessors' march to Jefferson City will be, only the Tax Assessors may present a bill to the County Court for their expenses. Now I think the people of Mississippi County are too intelligent to believe the Governor can do any more than the "man in the moon" about our high taxes. The general State and County taxes are a small per cent of our tax burdens. It is the special tax that we have voted on ourselves that hurts. Under our present law what can we do about it? The only way I can see, if possible, would be for a law passed where we could declare these bonds defaulted to about twenty cents on the dollar. Of course the speculator would lose his money, but, as it is, the people are losing their homes. Which had we rather have? Our representatives in Jefferson City will have to give us relief if we get any, so do not let anybody tell you the Tax Assessor can lower your taxes by just simply being "smart". The only thing an "honest-to-goodness" tax assessor can do is to get in the harness and go see and assess every taxpayer a fair valuation on their property, and this I pledge my sacred honor to do, if given an opportunity by the people who go to the polls and vote on August 2nd. So think this over. Talk to your neighbor and if you can see your way clear, give me one chance at the Assessor's office and I will assure you I will appreciate it enough to get in there and do everything an Assessor is supposed to do, and everything I can do in behalf of the interest of the taxpayers of Mississippi County.

PUBLIC SALE

Closing out sale of Grand Old Party. As our lease with Uncle Sam will expire on March 4th, 1933, and our titles to the political Jack Pot will be transferred to the "Sons of Wild Jackasses", we have decided to hold an auction sale on the White House Lawn in Washington, D. C., on November 8th, 1932 and sell to the highest bidder all of our political machinery and our entire stock of supplies now on hand, to-wit:

One Political Machine, 1921 model, badly in need of repairs. Can only be recognized by its whistle.

One moss-grown platform, with all its Farm Planks broken.

One large ever-bearing Mellon vine, with several branches badly frost bitten. Classed as frozen assets.

One Billion Dollar crime wave, made to order. Old enough to wean. Sired by Volstead and damned by everybody.

Fourteen million moonshine stills, all operating to full capacity.

Eleven million Dinner Pails. All empty.

Twenty-one thousand miles of bread lines without a break in the line.

One seat on the Board of Trade, good for any amount of wheat. No profits guaranteed.

147286 Political Pulpiteers, former hirelings of ours, now out of jobs since Brother Rockefeller and Brother Firestone withdrew their "Moral" Support.

Should the present prosperity continue, we reserve the right to sell under the Hoover moratorium plan.

Free lunch at noon. Doughnuts without holes will be served by the Farm Board.

The Board of Temperance, Prohibition, Public Morals, Society or Reforms will serve Roast Crow to the Wickersham Committee.

The Army, Navy, Coast Guard and all available stool pigeons will be in formation at the lunch, to assure Doll Gann of her rightful place at the table.

If the chief executive arrives in time to assist at the sale, it is respectively requested that all present who still have a hat, stand uncovered while the band plays "God Help the king".

Terms: See your bank before the sale. Positively no foreign bonds accepted, although they are okehed by the State Department. The boys just put that O. K. on them, so that Coon Lobo, Jaypee Morgun and some other international bankers could slip them out to the suckers. It really amounts to fourteen billion dollars, and all of our Wall Street friends are rid of them, so we are no further interested.

THE G. O. P.,
Owner

Come everybody! Don't forget the date!

Sikeston Should Have a Judge of the County Court from the First District

VOTE FOR

LEONARD McMULLIN

A Sure Winner in November

Vote for GEORGE BUCHANAN For County Judge

First District

The position of County Judge is one of the most important offices in the County. Through their hands pass all the funds of the County. They determine whether the taxpayers' money is expended wisely or not.

Business experience and a thorough knowledge of County affairs is necessary to properly administer the business of the County. I believe that my past experience qualifies me for the position and that I can render the people of Scott County satisfactory service as a member of the County Court.

If nominated and elected I pledge an economical and properly balanced program in which the entire County will share without discrimination. I favor a reduction in taxes to the small taxpayers as well as to the large ones.

Your Vote and Influence
Will Be Greatly Appreciated

TO THE VOTERS OF SCOTT COUNTY:

In order that the Public may be truthfully and fully informed, I take this means of stating to the voters of Scott County my position as Assessor and as a candidate for re-election.

I am a native of Scott County and have lived here all my life. I have never asked for any office prior to my election as Assessor four years ago. I have always been a Democrat, faithful and loyal to my party, AND I HAVE NEVER USED THE ASSESSOR'S OFFICE AS A STEPPING STONE TO ANY OTHER OFFICE.

I have made every effort to make the assessment of all the tax payers with justice and impartiality, treating all fair and equal, and in asking the voters for the second term, I can refer to my past term with the satisfaction of having done my duty in full, and assuring you that if elected, I will continue to make the assessments according to law with the same justice and equality to all.

I am asking the public to remember that during the past four years our County, as well as our entire Nation has been in the throes of conditions unparalleled in history, and yet to remember that laws make no provisions for these unusual conditions.

My records show as compared to my predecessors:

Year 1924 the total valuation of Personal Property was	$ 3,182.700.00
Year 1924 the total valuation of Real Estate was	12,283,720.00
Year 1928 the total valuation of Personal Property was	1,918,060.00
Year 1928 the total valuation of Real Estate was	12,635,400.00
Year 1932 the total valuation of Personal Property was	1,693,820.00
Year 1932 the total valuation of Real Estate was	10,980,260.00

Prior to the year of 1929 which was the first year of my term as Assessor, it had been left to the discretion of the Assessor to make his own valuation of automobiles. Beginning with the year 1929 the State Tax Commission published a schedule of valuations of automobiles according to year, make and model. Therefore, Assessors of the State were required to make automobile assessments according to said schedule. This will answer the charges that have been made that I have assessed automobiles too high.

Again beginning with the year 1929, the State Tax Commission NOTIFIED ME that the Supreme Court of the State of Missouri had ruled that Assessors were required to assess all poultry and sucking live stock, and in compliance I was forced to make such assessments.

It is common knowledge that all elective officers are required to take an oath of office, and to me this oath is just as sacred to the lowest officer of the County as to the highest officer of the Nation, and justice to the public and to my Bondsmen require that it be fulfilled.

Upon this statement I stand and thank the people of Scott County for their past support. Again assuring you that your support and influence will be greatly appreciated at the Primary on August 2nd, 1932, I am,

Yours very truly,

J. D. O'Connor - - Assessor

Scott County, Missouri

LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM MORLEY

(By Mrs. C. A. Stallings)

The barbecue picnic given by the members of the M. E. Church Saturday was very successful in every respect. A large crowd, plenty to eat and drink, plenty of candidates and entertainment and good weather. Speeches were made by the candidates and Congressman Fulbright in the afternoon while J. C. McDowell of Charleston, candidate for State Senator, A. M. Spradling of Cape Girardeau speaking for Senator Russell L. Dearmont and Orville Zimmerman of Kennett speaking for Charles M. Hay were the speakers of the evening.

The baby contest was won by Sallie Maxine Boyce, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Boyce and Morley won the baseball game from Vanduser with a 8-2 score.

Mesdames Ralph Vaugh and H. F. Emerson were among the sick ones Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hanner and children of Hannibal were guests of the U. G. Ragain family, Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Cannon and little granddaughters of Fornfelt were Morley visitors Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kilmer and son of Dexter came over the last of the week for a few days' visit at the Dr. C. D. Harris home.

There was no preaching at the Baptist church Sunday as the pastor, J. W. Jeffries, is attending the Baptist Assembly at Van Buren.

Mrs. R. A. Moyers and daughters went to Glen Allen Thursday to attend the funeral of the former's half-sister, Miss Irene Moyers.

Mr. and Mrs. U. A. Emerson and sons and H. F. Emerson and daughter, Camille, went to Black River Friday for a week-end camping trip.

Raymond and Harry Tomlinson were at Fornfelt Thursday night to visit their brother, W. L. Tomlinson, who was seriously ill, but is much improved now.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Miller and family of Jackson came down Saturday for a week-end visit with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Leslie and family. The ladies are sisters.

Rev. and Mrs. T. G. Craft and two daughters returned Friday from a vacation of ten days, Rev. Craft being at Arcadia and Mrs. Craft and two daughters at Des Arc visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bryant were called to the bedside of their son, Fred, at White Oak, Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bryant and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Borchelt of Egypt Mills joined them there Sunday as Fred Bryant is not expected to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Oaks, Mr. and Mrs. Tellis Oaks and baby and Mrs. Dewey Oaks of Kansas City went to Joppa, Ill., Thursday and returned Friday, acompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Chris Albright of Joppa and Mr. and Mrs. Rube Aiken of Metropolis, Ill., who are visiting relatives here.

Bobby Goheen, St. Petersburg, Fla., high school boy, being graduated this year, was neither absent nor tardy for nine years.

HOLTERMAN OF NEW MADRID COUNTY HAS SON IN AIR SERVICE

J. H. Holterman, Democratic candidate for coroner in New Madrid County, is in receipt of the following clipping from the Rutland, Vermont, Herald, in which "Judge" Holtermann is made justly proud of his son, who was one of the first hundred to volunteer his service to Uncle Sam in the late World War.

The clipping with its headline, "3 planes salute Woodstock flyer", reads:

3 PLANES SALUTE WOODSTOCK FLYER

(From the Rutland, Vt. Herald)

Woodstock, June 12.— Woodstock's aviation enthusiasts were treated to an exhibition yesterday morning by a formation of three army service type observation planes in command of Capt. Jos. A. Wilson, commander of the army detachment at the East Boston airport. The trio flew here to salute from the air their fellow officer Capt. E. H. Holtermann, Army Air Corps Reserve.

Flying in perfect formation, they circled the house where Holterman lives, went through a series of "V" echelon and stagger formations, dipped, their wings and flew away into the south.

Holterman explained that the trio were on a cross country formation practice flight, and considered the trip to Woodstock a three-hour joy ride. Capt. Holterman goes to Marston Mills, Mass., off Cape Cod, on August 7 for 15 day duty.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM CHARLESTON

(By Ann Latimer)

Charleston, July 19.—A wedding which came as a surprise to many friends and relatives was quietly solemnize on Monday afternoon, July 18th, at 5:30, at the home of Rev. Fr. John R. Weiberg, when Miss Clementine Church, daughter of Mrs. Yula Church, and Mr. Robert Cassel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cassel, of this city were united in marriage. Fr. Weiberg of St. Henry's Catholic church of this city officiating. For the occasion, the bride was attired in a beautiful ensemble of white silk crepe, with hat and other accessories of the same shade.

Miss Anna Elizabeth Church who served her sister as maid of honor was gowned in pink silk crepe with which she wore white accessories. Clyde Buckner served the groom as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride and groom were honorees of a dinner given at the home of the bride's mother. Covers were laid for the members of the bridal party and immediate relatives of both bride and groom.

During the evening an informal reception was held at the home. About forty guests were present and enjoyed dancing till a late hour. Refreshments consisting of an ice course were served.

Mrs. Cassel is a charming young woman and is one of the popular employees of the Southeast Missouri Telephone Company of this city.

Mr. Cassel is connected with Simpson Oil Station No. 3 and numbers his friends by his acquaintances.

The young couple will make their home with Mrs. Church.

Charleston, July 19.—An important social event took place here this evneing at 8 o'clock at the First Baptist Church, when Miss Lois Compere, daughter of the pastor, Rev. J. S. Compere, D. D. and Mrs. Compere, was united in marriage to Mr. George A. Jimerson of Corning, Ark., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jimerson, of Sulphur Rock, Ark.

Preceding the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Bess Compere of Little Rock, Ark., and Miss Pen Lile Compere of this city, sisters of the bride. Miss Bess Compere, gowned in rose colored net and taffetta, rendered very beautifully the songs 'I Love You Truly", and "At Dawning". She was accompanied on the organ by Miss Pen Lile Compere, who wore a pretty frock of blue eyelet organdy. She also rendered Mendelssohn's Wedding March for the processional and during the ceremony "Traumeri".

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage and performed the ceremony, assisted by her brother-in-law, Rev. C. V. Hickerson, pastor of the First Baptist church at Russellville, Ark.

JUDGE WON'T PUNISH MEN WHO STEAL FOR FAMILIES

Philadelphia, July 25.—Men who steal to feed their families will receive no punishment in municipal court, Judge William M. Lewis declared in court here today. Recent cases, he said, had revealed to him the dangerous pressure of near starvation on unemployed men.

Two former governors of North Carolina were born the same year, in the same house, near Asheville. They were D. L. Swain and Jos. Lane.

"Just taste that Fresh Juice!"

Uncooked juice of sweet, ripe oranges gives Orange-Crush a zest and tang you'll never find in chemically flavored drinks

Here's a 5c drink that's rich with fresh, ripe orange juice. Uncooked! With all the vitamin C retained by the exclusive Orange-Crush method of handling! Different from any "pop" because it comes from fruit groves instead of chemical bottles. And what a difference the fresh juice makes! The new Orange-Crush has tang and sparkle and freshness that nothing but fresh juice can give.

Try it and see. Enjoy the only 5c orange drink with vitamin content certified by university scientists. And remember, that orange juice with vitamins lost by cooking or age can't have the sparkling freshness you find in Orange-Crush. Always demand genuine Orange-Crush—the drink that's made right in the heart of the orange groves. Think how good a cool bottle would taste right now.

The new Orange-Crush contains luscious, fresh orange juice, the tang of peel, the zest of lemon juice acid, pure U. S. certified food color, pure cane sugar and clear, sparkling water

There is only one Orange-Crush

Beware of chemical imitations

Hundreds of imitations of Orange-Crush have sprung up almost over night. Many do not contain a drop of orange juice. Don't be misled by these substitutes. Insist on genuine Orange-Crush in the krinkly bottle. Get vitamins—not chemicals.

Any LAW

Removing Your Utilities from the Merchandising Field

Should Be* OPPOSED

Any legislation tending to prevent utilities from merchandising and rendering service for the benefit of their customers, should be opposed, as it prevents utilities from rendering greater service to customers; and provide the public the free and unlimited privilege of receiving utility service and the right to purchase appliances at their own dictation and discretion.

The Benefits of Utility Merchandising

Utility co-operation with retail dealers in merchandising means upholding the standard of merchandise quality, better service, fair prices, rate reductions, more employment, more business.

Oppose any so-called "Utility Merchandising Law." Similar laws hastily passed in Kansas and Oklahoma have proved disastrous in every way to the interests of the public. In other states such proposed legislation has been decisively defeated because of its dismal failure in the two states which have tried it.

Be sure that no such calamity happens to you in Missouri. It's up to you.

Actively oppose the passing of any law preventing utility merchandising—which would deprive you of the many benefits you now enjoy and limit your freedom of purchasing where you please and at reasonable prices.

VOLUME 20 — SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 29, 1932 — NUMBER 87

THE EDITOR SAYS—

It will be a pretty hard matter to fill this column this time without stepping on someone's political toes, as this issue is more or less political. We can safely advise our Republican readers to include Eugene A. Hecker, of St. Louis, as one of the 13 candidates on the Republican ticket. He has honored The Standard with an advertisement this time and we would like very much to see him among the Republican nominees.

* * *

Each of the two contending political parties has a colored man seeking a seat in Congress at the coming election. The Democratic colored man is Joseph L. McLemore, a graduate of the Sumner High School in St. Louis, Fisk University and New York University. By profession he is a lawyer. The Republican colored man who seeks a Congressional nomination is Pearl Abernathy of St. Louis. We know nothing of his education or fitness for the position.

With the retirement of Justice White of the Supreme Court, the section of Missouri lying south of the Missouri River will have no representative on the bench. It should be the duty of all Democrats in South Missouri to vote for Judge Henson of Springfield, Mo., and Judge Fitzsimmons of St. Louis in order that this large section of the State be represented.

The man who is perfectly willing to get out and work for a candidate without pay is a real help and a real friend. The man who tries to shake down candidates for money with the promise to deliver votes has little influence and can hardly deliver his own vote.

There is no doubt but what Congressmen now in the House will command better committee assignments than any new member, but we are going to vote for very few of them as they have proven to be straddlers or patronage grafters. Three that we are certain to have on our list are Joe Shannon, of Kansas City, J. J. Cochran, of St. Louis, and Clyde Williams, of Jefferson County. These fellows were not on the fence on the wet and dry question. They voted in the House to give the people an opportunity to vote on the wet and dry question. All other Democrats voted against it in the House. Now, after the National platform favored repeal, revision, or something, all of them trailed along as "yes" men.

The best bet to beat Roy McKittrick for Attorney General is with Ike Skelton of Lexington, Mo., a brilliant and competent young man. McKittrick was one of a bunch that saved Brunk from a bad time and stood with Buford, the booze fighter, in obstructing legislation in the Senate. Scratch McKittrick early and often.

* * *

Local candidates should go slow in starting insinuating stories about their competitiors. Once in a great while friends refuse to support the man who wins in such a manner and he is defeated.

Citizens generally should give close attention to this year's election to the candidates for the Supreme Court. An event which happens only every ten years is that three of the seven places in the Supreme Court are to be filled by election this year. In other election years only one vacancy occurs. A most unusual fact is that this year none of the judges whose terms are expiring is seeking re-election. These out-going Judges are Hon. Wm. T. Ragland, Democrat, Division No. One; Hon. John Turner White, Democrat, Division No. Two and Hon. Berryman Henwood, Republican, of Division No. Two. Another fact worthy of note is that four of the present Judges of the Supreme Court namely Judges Ragland, White, Henwood and Ellison were formerly Commissioners of that Court. Judge Frank was a Commissioner of the Kansas City Court of Appeals when he was elected to the Supreme Court. In past elections the Democrats have always nominated any Commissioner of the Supreme Court who has sought nomination as a Judge. There are four candidates, and two to be nominated.

A correspondent of the New York Times at Pleasantville, N. Y., points out that if a man can plant 1000 trees a day, as Secretary of Agriculture Hyde asserts, he will have to plant in an eight-hour day two and one-twelfth trees a minute. It should be remembered, however, that Secretary Hyde did his planting with a typewriter.

BUCHANAN COUNTY OFFERS MAN FOR STATE OFFICE

JIM WELLS

St. Joseph News-Press, December 29, 1930.—For the first time in many years, St. Joseph has a candidate for State office. Jim Wells, County Collector, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State in 1932.

Mr. Wells says, "The office of Secretary of State is one of the most important State offices. The Secretary of State is chairman of the State printing commission. Under his supervision the State automobile licenses are collected and disbursed. I am told that this item alone amounts to about $10,000,000 annually".

Jim Wells is a native of Buchanan County, having been born at Winthrop. His father, the late Emmett C. Wells, was the first county auditor in Buchanan County, having been appointed by Governor Dockery when the office was was established. His grandfather was a Baptist minister, who served three terms in the Missouri legislature more than half a century ago.

Jim Wells lived most of his life at Rushville, where he ran a mercantile store, until in 1917, when he traveled for the John S. Brittain Dry Goods Company. In 1920 he was appointed deputy county auditor. In 1926 he was elected collector, and last year he was re-elected.

A Popular Innovation

A striking innovation that has met with general approbation in the office of the county collector since Jim Wells took charge was to eliminate the long lines of taxpayers by the expedient of mailing tax statements to taxpayers, permitting them to pay by mail. This means some 60,000 tax statements annually, and has increased the work of Wells and his staff tremendously, but has lifted the dread taxpayers formerly had of going to the court house and standing in line from thirty minutes to three hours or more, awaiting their turn.

Jim Wells' candidacy is expected to have a wide appeal. His vote-getting abilities were demonstrated in the last election, when he received the largest majority ever given a county candidate in an off-year election. He ran 1200 votes ahead of the next highest man on his ticket and carried 87 out of the 95 precincts in Buchanan County. His majority was 7,520.

FERGUSON YOUNG MAN ON G. O. P. TICKET WANTS SEAT IN CONGRESS

Eugene A. Hecker of Ferguson, Republican candidate for Representative in Congress, was born in St. Louis in 1884. He graduated from St. Louis Central High School and from Harvard University with highest honors, having worked his way through college.

He taught in Eastern schools until 1917, when he entered the Army and served throughout the World War in the Artillery and overseas in the Infantry and the Intelligence Section, General Headquarters, and since 1919 has been teacher of English and History and Coach of the track team at St. Louis Country Day School. He is the author of "A Short History of Women's Rights", published by Putnam's in 1910 and acknowledged by suffrage leader as a noteworthy contribution in the struggle to enfranchise women. He is a life-long student of world affairs and author of numerous articles on political and economic subjects.

TIPTON FOR JUDGE

Candidate for Supreme Court, Division No. 2

Ernest M. Tipton is a candidate for the Democrat nomination for judge of the Supreme Court, Division No. 2. He was born January 2, 1889, at Bowling Green, Mo., and his father, the Rev. W. M. Tipton, was a Baptist minister who preached in Northeast and Central Missouri for a period of fifty years. He was educated at Missouri University, graduating in the Law Class of 1911.

In the fall of 1911 he moved to Fulton, where he began the practice of law. In 1920 he went to Kansas City and opened a law office. In 1923 he was appointed as a member of the State Board of Bar Examiners by the Supreme Court of Missouri and served until February, 1930.

He is married, has two children, and is a member of the Masonic Lodge.

There are two vacancies in Division No. 2.

WHO

Those who refused to shoulder arms a few years ago were branded "slackers", a vile term which even yet grates on ears, and cringes the soul.

Those who refuse for any number of flimsy reasons to express their preference at the polls in the primary and general election are peace-time slackers. Those who refuse to vote are no better and no worse than those men who refused to stand by their country in time of war.

Votes are your protection, Mr. Citizen and Mrs. Citizen, against the enemies of graft and corruption in government. Properly used, your vote is deadlier than all the mustard gas, T. N. T., shrapnel and bayonets combined.

There is not one farmer in Southeast Missouri, not one tenant farmer or share cropper who has any work at hand more important than dropping his or her ballot in the box August 2. No business man has a right to pass up his vote with a shrug of the shoulder, and no housewife has the right to remain at home while others vote. It is the one personal duty of each and every citizen in this United States.

During the present campaign and in the past few years you and we have heard expressions of disgust about present day conditions in Congress, in the House, in the courts of the land, and perhaps in our own county. We have heard of conditions in Chicago, for instance. The city is unable to pay salaries of its employees, yet it sells homes for unpaid taxes of those employees.

International Bankers defraud millions of investors yet nothing is done to prevent recurrence; farm product prices are at the lowest level in recorded American history; while hunger stalks abroad—such are conditions here and there in high and low political circles.

The fault lies not so much with those in public office, as with the voter himself or herself. We have pandered too much in the past to superficial qualifications of candidates. We have not studied carefully the qualifications of men and women asking for election to office, and finally, many of us have refused to exprses our sentiment at the polls with the result that pinheads assume authority in high places, and greed displaces duty and service in various branches of government.

A number of political candidates for County, State and National offices have spent perfectly good American dollars to inform you of their stand on questions of the day. Their ability, their talent, their experience and their promises will avail this district and its inhabitants nothing unless you individually as voters, express your honest opinion at the polls Tuesday. Study the messages brought to you in this issue of The Standard. Read what the candidates for office promise; compare their platforms with YOUR desires and demands. Make up your list now.

You were no slacker in 1918.

Will you be one in 1932?

READ, THEN VOTE

We respectfully request that our readers pay particular attention to the qualifications of those candidates who have spent perfectly good American $$$ advertising in this issue to inform Southeast Missourians of their beliefs, qualifications, and political platforms.

Those who think enough of your community, and your section of the State to announce publicly their ideas are worthy of consideration.

The punishment of good men who refuse to participate in government is to live under the mismanagement of government by bad men.

DEARMONT MEASURES UP TO IDEALS OF SOUTHEAST MISSOURI VOTERS AS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

In no part of the State are Democrats more Democratic and more loyal to the traditions of the party than in Southeast Missouri. Descendants of North Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky settlers as a majority of them are, they hold fast to Jeffersonian principles and these principles are paramount with them when they go to the polls.

They will vote for no Democrat, even a neighbor or fellowtownsman, for an important office if they do not believe he measures up to their standard and is fit in every way for the office.

This is why Southeast Missouri Democrats are practically unanimous for Russell Dearmont for the nomination for governor.

They know him and they know that he measures up to their highest ideals. This support is not lukewarm and passive but, on the contrary, is wholehearted and enthusiastic. No candidate for any high State office for many years has aroused so strong and ardent support as has Dearmont.

RUSSELL L. DEARMONT

Local pride naturally would be expected to have an influence with voters in causing them to favor a candidate but Southeast Missouri Democrats would not take pride in a candidate and would not militantly uphold his standard if he was not worthy of it. They are loyally upholding the standard of Russell Dearmont because they know his ability, integrity, courage, manly qualities and broad-minded democracy makes him equal, if not superior to any opponent, and that he deserves it.

Southeast Missourians could, with all propriety, use the argument that Southeast Missouri has mont for that reason alone. But a hundred years and thev would be excusable in voting for Dearmonth for that reason alone. But Southeast Missouri Democrats have been going right along sawing Democratic wood and voting for whom they believed the best man, no matter where he lived. This year this man happens to be a neighbor. Naturally they know that when he is elected and takes his seat they will be made welcome should they call to see him.

Democrats of Southeast Missouri, parts of which have had more tribulations the last year than almost any other section of the State, know that Dearmont is intimately acquainted with the district and its problems. While they know him well enough to know he will not give the district special favors against the interests of other sections in the State they know they will get a square deal insofar as his official acts affects it. People of the district ask no more.

The "Unterrified Democracy of Southeast Missouri", as the party in this section is sometimes appropriately termed on account of the strength of the party in a number of counties, admires a fighter, and the fight Russell Dearmont is putting up makes him still stronger with them. They recognize that the generalship, leadership fighting qualities and moral courage that brought him so quickly to the front in the Senate, and which he has employed in this campaign, will be needed after the primary.

The flag of "Unterrified" has been lowered in defeat so often in the last twelve years in Missouri they are looking for this neighbor to carry it in triumph to the Governor's chair, and they believe he can do it. That's another reason why they are for him to the last ditch.

No section is more beset with taxation problems than Southeast Missouri and all residents as well as Democrats appreciate his great fight in the Senate for lower taxes and they realize that the work of a governor, who leads in the task of effecting economy in the State administration, revising taxation, etc., will be strenuous and that it will take a man who can stand up to arduous effort and strong opposition, perhaps, like Dearmont did in the Senate and is doing in his race for the nomination.

They believe, in short, that he is the man for the present gubernatorial job and that when that is over he will be available for other public service. They also believe that he is a born leader, is in the prime of life, possesses an uncommon combination of personality, sincerity, ability, and genius for public service and that he will be an asset to the State and party for many years. They have nothing personally against other candidates.

Democrats of Southeast Missouri are not the only ones who believe in Russell Dearmont. Thousands of Republicans will vote for him if he is nominated. They are unshackled citizens who prefer to vote for the man when they know he is the kind of man they know Russell Dearmont to be.—Cape Girardeau News.

DICKINSON ENJOYS IMPRESSIVE RECORD IN POLITICAL CIRCLES

C. C. Dickinson, of Clinton, Henry County, Missouri, Democratic candidate for nomination at large for Congress, was born in Prince Edward County, Virginia and is a graduate of Hampden-Sydney College, Va. In 1872 he came to Missouri, where, after teaching school five years, he became a lawyer, serving three terms as Prosecuting Attorney of Henry County. He served one term as a member of the Missouri Legislature and State Senate, and was first elected to Congress February 1, 1910, to fill the unexpired term of David A. DeArmond. Dickinson is now serving his 9th full term, having been a member of the Ways and Means Committe for fourteen years.

Dickinson is vigorous in health and mind, is a man of courage and strong convictions, and confidently predicts success for his party in November and a redemption for Missouri and the Nation from Republican rule and triumphant retur of the Democratic Party to control in State and Nation. He believes in the principlse laid down by Thomas Jefferson. The right of the people to control our Government is his political religion.

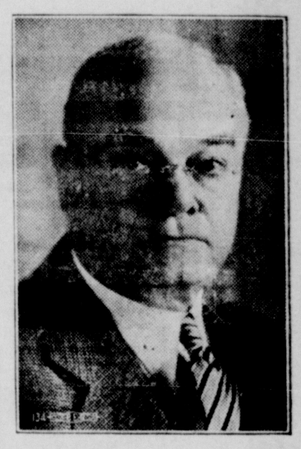
CHARLES CURTIS

JOHN T. FITZSIMMONS IS LOGICAL CANDIDATE FOR SUPREME COURT FOR SEMO



Judge John T. Fitzsimmons of St. Louis, a Commissioner of the Supreme Court and one of the four Democratic candidates for nomination for two places of Division Two of that Court, visited local Democratic leaders recently, and received the unqualified endorsement in this district. Judge Henson of Springfield and Judge John T. Fitzsimmons of St. Louis, if nominated and elected would give Southwest and Southeast Missouri adequate representation on the high bench in the State.

Judge Fitzsimmons has attracted attention to his candidacy by the large vote received in a referendum of Missouri lawyers, conducted by the Missouri Bar Association in the first half of July. The vote on the four Democratic candidates was as follows John T. Fitzsimmons, St. Louis, 1443 Charles L. Henson, Springfield, 1223; Clarence A. Burney, Kansas City, 822; and Ernest M. Tipton, Kansas City, 764.

Judge Fitzsimmons enjoys an impressive political and judicial record.

Before he was a commissioner he served as Judge of the Circuit Court in St. Louis by appointment of Governor Caulfield under a law adding two judges to the Circuit Court and providing that one of them should be a Democrat. Judge Fitzsimmons was appointed as a Democrat. Since he became a candidiate for nomination of the Supreme Court seventeen Circuit Judges in St. Louis have written Judge Fitzsimmons an open letter in which they state that while he was one of their asscoiates upon the Circuit Bench of St. Louis he faithfully performed every duty intrusted to him, and by his industry, character and ability reflected credit upon that Court. The two sitting Democratic Circuit Judges were joined by fifteen Republican Judges in signing the letter. The Democratic City Central Committee of St. Louis, made up of 28 men and 28 women, representing the 28 wards of the City has unanimously endorsed the candidacy of Judge Fitzsimmons. He was a candidate for election for a six-year term as Circuit Judge in St. Louis in November, 1930, while he was serving as Judge under appointment by Governor Caulfield. Although the Republicans carried the election, Judge Fitzsimmons ran 10,000 votes ahead of the Democratic Judicial ticket.

Chief Cause of Hoover Panic.—It has now been demonstrated by disastrous experience that the practice of the half insance policy of economic isolation during the past ten years, here and elsewhere, is the largest single underlying cause of the present panic, and that a material halting and modification of this policy, so suicidal especially to a great creditor and surplus producing country, is an indispensable requirement, if this and other nations are to be restored to that full and sound measure of prosperity which will not be unbalanced nor partial nor, as at present, subject periodically to recurring panics.—Senator Cordell Hull at University of Virginia Institute.

We take it for granted that every Republican in Southeast Missouri will vote for George W. Kirk as one of the 13 Congressmen, and we take it for granted that every Democrat will vote for Jim Fulbright. These candidates are from our corner of the State, know our needs better than anybody and will fight for them. Fulbright was the choice of the old Fourteenth District and by seniority will have committee assignments that a new man cannot expect to have. It takes a new man one term to find his way about the Capitol building and he has no time for anything else. His time is taken up trying to keep from getting lost.

* * *

Roy E. McKittrick, candidate for attorney general on the Democratic ticket, is one candidate not to vote for, we are informed on what we consider good authority. He is one of the four Democratic senators who voted to whitewash State Treasurer Brunk. He is a protege of the Pendergast gang, we hear.—Cape News.

Declarations of NEWTON C. GILLHAM

(1) I AM AN ARDENT DRY; that is my one main issue. I can go along with my party on other issues, and can caucus with the members of my party upon those issues, but as a dry I must fight for the cause and fight alone, if necessary.

I believe the support of the 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States is the greatest question before the people today;

(2) I AM FOR WOMAN. It has been my observation, and I believe history will sustain my statement, that the most of that which has been well done, best done and most permanently done, has been through the devoted and consecrated efforts of the women;

(3) I AM A DEMOCRAT. In 1912, I was elected President of the Woodrow-Wilson-for-President Club, which club sent me to the Baltimore Convention, where we labored ten days to bring about the successful nomination of Woodrow Wilson;

In 1928, I was elected president of the James A. Reed for President Club, of Kansas City, and went to the Houston convention, and was in that convention when Alfred E. Smith was nominated for the Presidency;

(4) I AM FOR THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY; and, have helped to fight its battles since reaching my majority, because I believe it to be the party of the people. Its great struggle is for the more equal distribution of both work and supply, believing there is an abundance of both each; but, that the people are prevented from realizing it because of "man's inhumanity to man";

(5) I AM FOR MEN, and bespeak their sobriety; their obedience to the laws of the land; and admonish them to be alert, watchful and loyal to principle, virtues that carry success. Excellency in the promulgation of laws as well as the administration thereof, will cause the "stranger within our gates" to be content, and to make his permanent home with us, and the "old timer" will be loath to go out from us.

(6) I AM FOR THE NEWSPAPERS. In 1912, I worked with the PRESS of Missouri, in the campaign of Woodrow Wilson. I found it willing to publish the news, provided that news was of a wholesome nature and elevating in thought. I found the press then, and have noticed its tendency since is to prefer news that will implant in the minds of its readers an uplifting thought, rather than a depressing one.

Dated this 28th day of May, 1932.

Vote For Robert D. Johnson

FOR CONGRESS

A hard fighting Democrat who has taken active part in every campaign since he became a voter. An able and forceful speaker. Not afraid to voice opinion in Congress. Favors and voted for strict economy in Government, and abolition of useless Boards and Bureaus established by Hoover Administration. Voted for reduction of salaries of Congressmen. In speech in Congress, he said: "What we need is reduction in cost of Government, rather than increase in taxes. We need a simple administration of the Government in the interest of the people".

ROBERT D. JOHNSON
MARSHALL, MO.

He was born on farm in Saline County, where his mother now lives. Understands needs of farmers at first hand and favors legislation that will bring them immediate relief, including control of exportable surplus, extension land bank mortgages providing for annual payments, principal and interest at lowest rates possible.

A true champion of rights of masses and laboring people. Favors legislation to relieve unemployment and its attendant want and suffering.

Advocates immediate tariff reduction so American products may be sold in world markets. Voted for tariff bill passed by present Congress and vetoed by Hoover.

He advocated and voted for Democratic principle that taxes should be imposed according to ability to pay. Voted AGAINST increase in postage, the tax on checks, the other nuisance taxes and the entire Tax Bill on ground they imposed an unjust burden on masses.

Voted against Hoover Moratorium and is UNALTERABLY OPPOSED TO CANCELLING FOREIGN DEBTS. Johnson is in strictest sense a self-made man; worked way through school, began teaching at 18; twice elected Circuit Clerk, Saline Co.; studied law at night, admitted to bar, and twice elected Prosecuting Attorney; is married, has four children and is member of Christian Church.

Mr. Johnson was elected to Congress in Special Election held last September in 7th District to fill unexpired Term of late Sam. C. Major, by a majority of 9131 votes over his Republican opponent who was a former Congressman, the largest majority ever given in District. He swept Counties into Democratic column which had never before gone Democratic, carrying every County in the District except two and losing one of them a strongly Republican County by only 15 votes. Many leading Democrats over the State at once declared that because of his large majority and the Democratic custom to re-nominate for a full term one who has borne the expense of and been elected in a Special Election, Johnson should be re-nominated as one of the 13 Democratic nominees for Congress at the August Primary.

He at once gained recognition in Congress; appointed member Major Committee Merchant Marine and Radio, Democratic Whip Mo. Delegation, and Missouri Member National Democratic Congressional Committe, and as such member will aid in securing assistance of National Committee in the November Election.

Mr. Johnson's many friends urge that having so recently borne the burdens and expense of special election he should be renominated in August, and that because of his close and personal contact with the people, his proven vote getting qualities, his fearless Democracy, and his sterling character, integrity and ability; his selection as one of the 13 Democratic nominees for Congress will add great strength to the Democratic ticket in November.

EUGENE A. HECKER

Candidate on the Republican Ticket

I believe that the main factor in prolonging the depression is the steadily diminishing foreign trade of the United States and that the situation can be remedied only in accordance with the promise of the Republican platform to effect a cure through international conferences and agreements.

The farmer faces a special problem because many foreign countries are becoming more and more self-sustaining, so diminishing demand for his products. I agree with Mr. Louis Taber of the National Grange, that the legalization of liquor would be an insignificant factor in helping the farmer. Pending readjustments, I favor low interest loans on the amortization plan and Federal encouragement of farmers' co-operatives.

I stand on the Republican platform and am opposed to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

I favor a comprehensive and co-ordinated banking system so that bank failures may be minimized, continued adherence to the gold standard, Federal relief for the unemployed during the depression, the further restriction of immigration, shorter hours of labor, abolition of child labor, the removal of discriminations against women, high income and inheritance taxes in the upper brackets, strict enforcement of the anti-trust laws, and the close regulation and supervision of public utilities.

The High Cost of Voting

The average taxpayer and voter has but little idea of the vast amount of preparation for an election, else he would more fully understand why elections drain so heavily upon the public treasury.

It occurs to us that in these days of financial strees and unbalanced public budgets, it would be well for the taxpayers to give some concern to ways by which our elections can be made simpler and consequently cheaper. While a considerable amount of the money expended for an election goes to the printer, it is far from satisfactory business, and the prices he may charge do not compensate for the stress and strain under which he works, the disorganization that results to his business for a month before and a month after an election, and for the neglect with which he must treat his regular customers. We believe most printers would like to see the whole election machinery simplified to the point where it would lighten his work and responsibility, and at the same time save the public treasury.

We wonder if our readers would not be interested in knowing something of the task that confronts the printer in preparation for the primary election next month.

In the first place there is the matter of sample ballots. The law requires that twenty days before the election there be printed on colored paper enough sample ballots to supply one to every candidate. The idea is to permit him to compare the spelling and arrangement of his name, etc. So we have during the past week set the type and printed about 150 Democratic ballots, something more than 100 of the Republican and lesser amounts of Socialist, Socialist-Labor and Prohibition. Now County Clerk Womack must mail a ballot to each of the State and County candidates. The printing will cost the County a nice sum, the postage and envelopes will take some more money, and we are sure the benefits will not be worth it.

Then, within a few days, we will start upon the regular ballots. Though there may be no Socialist, Socialist-Labor or Prohibition ballots called for, the law requires that each of the twenty-two precincts be supplied with them. Then again, while the Republicans are not likely to cast over 1,000 votes, and the Democrats will not exceed that number by many hundred, the law requires that we print 4000 Republican and 4500 Democratic ballots. A terrible waste, but the law requires that it be done. There must also be a quantity of ballots prepared for those parties which are not likely to receive a single vote in Madison County.

But the number is not the most expensive feature of the ballots. The law requires that each candidate have his name alternated so that he will have a relative position on the ballot equal to that of any other candidate, in each voting precinct. There are 56 Democratic candidates for Congress. The statutes provide that each man have his name at the head of the ticket as frequently as any other man. That means that the printer, in providing the ballots for a precinct requiring 200 ballots must put the type on the press, run substantially four ballots, stop, shift the bottom name to the top, print four more, repeat the process until the entire 56 names have been shifted. In the meantime, the other candidates for State and County office must be shifted in the same manner. When it is remembered that there are 22 precincts, it can be readily seen what a job the Democratic ballots ental. Then, after they are done, the Republican ballots are to be printed, making 30 press changes to take care of that number who are candidates for Congress.

Another item of worry to the printer and expense to the county is the absentee ballots. Whether or not they are ever called for, a supply of Democratic, Republican, Socialist, Socialist-Labor and Prohibition ballost must be supplied each one of the 22 precincts. Along with them must go a supply of affidavit blanks, specially printed envelopes, etc.

On top of all that must come the poll books, tally sheets, instruction cards, large envelopes for poll books, cloth bags for sending out and returning the supplies, pencils, sealing wax, cords for stringing ballots, and an endless list of other requirements.

This is certain to be one of the most expensive primary elections ever held in Missouri, and at a time when the county treasuries are in the worst possible condition to stand the burden. And yet, there seems nothing that can be done about it, at least this year.—Fredericktown Democrat News.

EASY TO LOSE MONEY IN NEW GAS STATIONS

To open a filling station is an easy way to go into business, but also an easy and almost sure way to lose money.

This is the conclusion drawn by Glen B. Winship, New York analyst, from two years of studying gasoline marketing conditions in the United States.

The last census showed that there are 318,243 places in the United States where the motorist can buy gasoline and oil. Mr. Winship's study reveals that many of these are superflous.

"In more than 10,000 communities, the number of motor vehicles is not sufficient to warrant a service station", his report states. "There are 43,476 stations in such villages and in rural sections which could be abandoned without inconvenience to car owners.

"Of 6351 towns and cities large enough to warrant service station operation at least 5519 are overbuilt. I have discovered only 365 towns in the entire country, where additional stations could be built without gross violation of sound business principles, and of these 258 are in eight States. More than $1,000,000,000 has been invested needlessly in gasoline marketing facilities".

Mr. Winship's advice to those contemplating entering this overcrowded business is to stay out unless they can find a spot where there are more than 400 vehicles for each station and even then to be very sure of a continuing patronage for the station before building it.

ALBERT J. GRAFF, DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE PRESENTS ORIGINAL PLATFORM

ALBERT J. GRAFF
Perryville, Mo.
Candidate at Large for
in Congress on the Democratic ticket, subject to the decision of all the voters of the State of Missouri at the Primary, Tuesday, August 2, 1932.

I say let's lay the foundation first, help the farmer, put him on his feet and to buying, and all other business will automatically be helped. You say "Well and good, but how can that be done?" I answer, it can be done by sending more "honest-to-goodness" farmers to congress.

If 30 per cent of the men you sent to congress for the last 12 years had been "honest-to-goodness" farmers farming would not now be standing at the foot of all other occupations. You will be doing your part in helping the farmer, and through him all other classes, if, when you go to the primary you vote for the man who has been in touch with farming all his life, knows more about the needs of the farm and the farmer. If you want help for the farmer, you will have to send more representatives to congress that know the farmers needs, and knows the cost of producing farm crops and live stock.

Labor

The income of labor has declined 50 per cent since 1929, while the price labor has had to pay for its products has declined only 18 per cent. This decline to labor must stop. There are millions of honest men out of work and and not able to support their families and pay installments on their homes. Every man that wants a job is entitled to it, and if I am elected to Congress I will vote for measures that will afford steady jobs to labor. I know what the laboring man is up against. I went to school during winter boarded with a friend on credit, and grubbed and split rails during summer to pay my board. My sympathy goes out to the laborer, and if I am sent to Congress I will work for the interest of the laborer.

Veterans Relief

The flower of our manhood went to war in 1917.. We said: "Go and win the war, then when you come back ask for what you want and we will give it to you." The boys went and won the war, but came back to find their jobs taken by those who stayed at home, or by women and children. Many of the boys have died from diseases and ailments contracted during the war. Others and their families are in dire distress and need food, clothing, shelter and medical attention.

The soldiers deserve every dime the bonus certificates represent, and I want them to have it at the earliest time. If I am eleted to Congress I will vote for the full immediate payment of the bonus certificates at once and not in 1945. The bonus law would put $2,000,000,000 of money in circulation and would pay possibly ten times that amount in debts. Administration officials say, where can the money to pay the bonus be gotten My answer is, the same place that the two billion that we appropriated to big business was.

The Budget

The budget is out of balance. Any budget would be out of balance if handled like ours has during the past twelve years. The budget must be balanced, and if I am elected to Congress I will help balance it. It will be balanced by cutting down the cost of bureaus, eliminating extravagance and stopping payment of $50,000 and $75,000 salaries such as are now being paid to some men supposed to be aiding agriculture. In my mind it is a shame that 625 crops of wheat average 500 bushels each has to be turned over to pay the salaries of two men connected with our so-called farm relief program. 30 per cent of our income goes to support the various types of government. Taxes are high as a result, I will work to see that the budget is balanced by cutting expenses.

Taxes

The rate of taxation on farm land and city property is entirely too high. Largely so, rated by local boards, and authorities, in cities, counties and states, but they must be lowered. This can be done by absolute economy in government, whether in city, county, state or United States. Any government conducted on a basis of extravagance, and careless expenditure of the taxpayers money is not sound government and must stop. Wherever I am I will use my every effort to help stop extravagance and careless expenditures of the peoples money and practice rigid economy in sound and same government whether in city, county, state or nation.

I am in favor of Government Flood Control at Government expense. I am opposed to land and home owners being taxed to the extent of confiscating their land and homes, to control water which flows down the rivers, that comes from nearly two-thirds of the area of the U. S.

If you stand for the principles in a government of the peopeople by the people and for the people, a "free" government in all the term implies, I solicit your help and your vote Tuesday, August 2nd, 1932.

John J. Cochran

Democratic Candidate for Re-election to

Congress

John J. Cochran present Representative in Congress from the Eleventh Congressional District, which is situated in St. Louis, is a candidate for re-election on the Democratic Ticket. No other candidate for Congress resides in the district that Mr. Cochran represents which is evidence that he has the unanimous support of the Democrats in St. Louis.

Cochran worked himself up from the ranks having started as Secretary to former Congressman William L. Igoe and Secretary to the late Senator Stone at the time of his death and he was also Secretary to Hon. Harry B. Hawes during his service in the House. He succeeded Mr. Hawes in the House and has been re-elected by increased majorities. In 1930 he had no opposition for the nomination and no Republican candidate filed against him. His name on the ballot will add great strength to the ticket in St. Louis. He is the first Democrat in Congress from St. Louis to be chairman of an important committee in the House in over forty years. He is the Chairman of the important Committee on Expenditures in the executive departments. He was also a member of the Economy Committee in the last session of Congress. Cochran is the author of a number of laws and has taken the lead in reorganizing the government departments. In the last session of Congress he was co-author of the Federal Kidnaping Bill, as well as the bill to make it a felony to extort money by the use of the mails. These bills are directed at kidnapers, gangsters and rackateers.

He is a Democrat of the old school and is noted for his personal service to his constituents.

For One of Your Thirteen Congressmen

Vote for Congressman

M. A. ROMJUE

The Democratic Candidate for

Congress

Macon, Mo. Born and Reared in Macon County.

Educated in Public Schools of his County, The Kirksville State Normal and graduate of The Missouri State University. His friends in the District he now represents have built up a Democratic majority which has increased from a majority of 4,000 when he was first elected to a majority of over 11,000 over his Republican opponent in 1930. If he is nominated on the Democratic ticket as a Candidate for Congress in this Campaign those who know him and his work predict his majority in November in his old District will go above 13,000. He will strengthen the State Democratic ticket. He has twice carried the District and his home county he now represents, by the largest majority ever given any Candidate on any ticket at any time in the history of Missouri.

Your support will be appreciated by him and his friends.

Congressman Romjue To Become Head of Post Office Committee

There is a movemnet on foot among the Democrats of New York to nominate Congressman James Mead as the Democratic candidate for Governor as successor to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

This movement has peculiar significance in Missouri for the reason that in the event, Mr. Mead is a candidate for Governor of New York and the House is Democratic, Congressman Milton A. Romjue of the old First District of Missouri will succeed him as the head of the Post Office Committee.

Congressman Romjue who is a Democratic candidate for Congressman-at-large, is at present next to the highest in rank on that committee and the only member of the committee from Missouri, and in event of his re-election will be, by right of seniority, the head of this powerful committee.

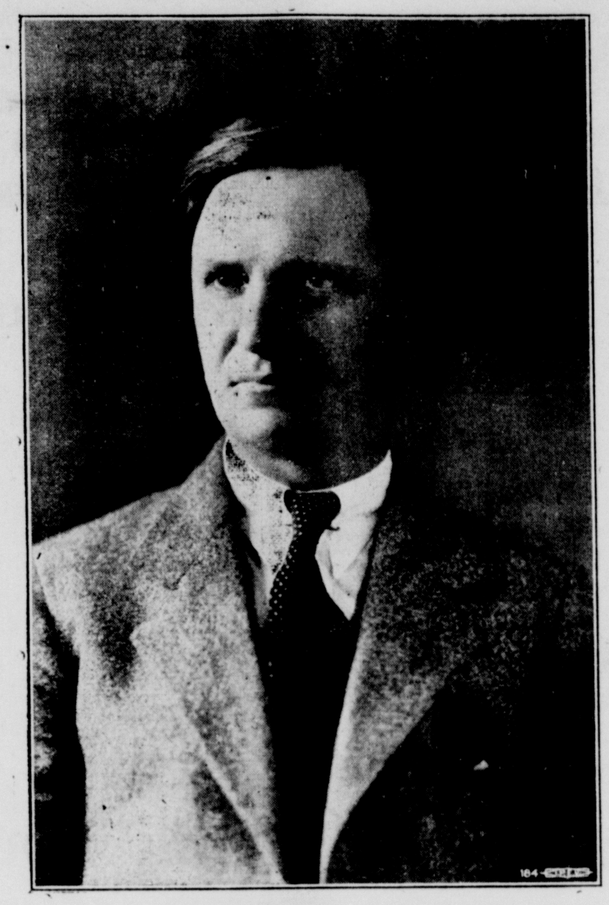
Candidate Democratic Nomination for State Senator 23d District of Missouri



J. C. McDOWELL

His Platform:

J. C. McDowell In State Senate Race; Is Outstanding Lawyer

Prominent Democratic Attorney-Farmer Advocates Lower Cost of Government and Reduced Taxation, Declaring It Most Important Question Before People

J. C. McDowell, prominent Charleston attorney and former Cape Girardeau County farm boy, has announced his candidacy for the office of State Senator from the 23rd Senatorial District in the Democratic primary, August 2. Urged by influential men of the district, Mr. McDowell enters the race with a background of experience and a personal record that qualifies him for the office.

He is a son of Southeast Missouri soil, being born on a farm in Cape Girardeau County, March 20, 1890. He received his early training and education on his father's farm and in the rural schools of that county. A graduate of the Southeast Missouri State Teachers College and the Law Department of the University of Missouri, he began his career of service in the public schools of Missouri, teaching four years.

Since 1916, when he was admitted to the bar, Mr. McDowell has been engaged in the active practice of law and farming. He came to Mississippi County, June 12, 1917, and established his office in Charleston, continuing as a farmer when his legal practice permitted. He later became associated in the prosecuting attorney's office, acting as assistant prosecuting attorney two years. He was then elected prosecuting attorney of this county three consecutive times, serving until 1925.

McDowell, inheriting the ideals of Democracy and cherishing them by personal conviction, has served his party well. He acted as chairman of the Democratic County Committee for many years, resigning his post early this year.

He is a staunch advocate of tax reduction and believes that the greatest benefit that can be rendered the State at this time is to reduce the cost of government, since the burden is becoming too heavy for people to bear. The candidate considers taxation the most important question in the campaign.

If elected to the office, Mr. McDowell would be the first State Senator from Mississippi County during the last half century. His record in the legal profession and his many other qualifications mark J. C. McDowell as one of the outstanding candidates in the State Senatorial race.—The Charleston (Mississippi County) Democrat, June 10, 1932.

Qualifications

J. C. McDowell is a graduate of Teachers' College of Cape Girardeau, having graduated in 1911. A graduate of University of Missouri Law School in 1916; was Prosecuting Attorney for three consecutive terms, a member of Democratic County Central Committee eight years and chairman of that committee four years.

Mr. McDowell maintains his office for the practice of law. Has resided in Charleston for many years; a keen, analytical mind, a sound thinker and a most effective public speaker. Is interested in all civic, commercial and moral endeavors for improvement and gives unsparingly of his time and talents to these ends. Physically, in robust health, of pleasing address and magnetic personality.

If elected to the senatorship, his marked ability and powers will early make him a leader and his work will reflect honor upon his district. His demand for reduction of governmental operating cost, weeding out of useless bureaus and personnel, comes from the heart and voters may depend upon his utmost endeavors to secure the urgently needed tax reduction.

Endorse J. C. McDowell for State Senator

East Prairie, Mo., July 15.—A paper was circulated here last week among the Democrats endorsing J. C. McDowell for the Democratic nomination for State Senator and met with a hearty response. From the list of signers and from what the voters had to say when the paper was presented to whelmingly for Mr. McDowell. We were glad of an opportunity to add our name to the list of endorsers which were being sought. Mr. McDowell need have no fear of what Mississippi of County will do for him on August 2nd from the reports we get from other sections of the district his nomination seems assured.—East Prairie Eagle.

JOE ANDERSON

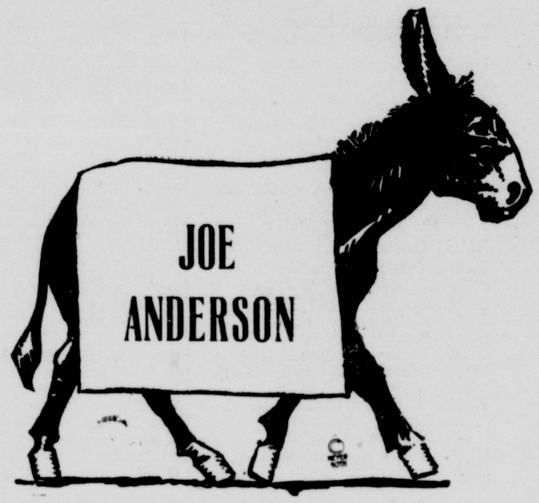
Democratic Candidate for the Nomination of

Sheriff

Of Scott County

AN EX-SERVICE MAN

with a Clean Record and No Enemies
Qualified and Capable. Thank You.



To My Many Friends In Scott County:

Well, here we are up near the date that we are to vote for County Treasurer. I want you to know that I have certainly enjoyed meeting you personally while out in my campaign for re-election this year. I have tried hard to meet each and every voter of our County, but owing to having to look after the duties of my office, no doubt I have missed many voters. I therefore desire to solicit your vote in this article to my office of County Treasurer for the second term.

for

Scott County Treasurer

2nd Term

Felker has always been a loyal Democrat and a hard, earnest worker for his party.

Felker is a self-made man, having made his own way since 14 years of age.

Felker makes it a point to see that fees due you are paid you promptly without your having to write for them.

Felker has been on the job daily in his office and the County has not lost a dollar of money during his term of office.

Felker has as fine a set of books as was ever in the Treasurer's office and invites you to call and see them for yourself.

Felker has not allowed anyone to use his office for speculation of County warrants but has seen to it that all take their turn alike.

Felker believes that he is entitled to be nominated on this August 2nd, for second term, and will appreciate your vote very much.

JOHN J. MILLER

SCOTT COUNTY

I, John J. Miller of Illmo-Fornfelt, Mo., will appreciate the support of the Democratic voters on August 2nd. I wish to be the Democratic nominee for County Treasurer.

Since announcing for this office I have been to all parts of the County, and have seen as many of the voters as possible. Everywhere I received the most courteous treatment from all I have met. Those that I have not met I trust feel kindly towards me and I am more than sorry that I have not been able to shake the hand of every voter in the county.

I am asking for this office because I am qualified and because I am a Democrat; have always given my time and money to the Democratic cause, and on no other grounds do I ask your support. I have made no personal attack on my opponent, nor have I appealed to Race or Creed. Have not said or done anything that will place ammunition in the hands of the Republicans, nor have I said anything that I will have to have smoothed over in my own party.

I stand on my record as a loyal citizen in my immediate neighborhood, and on my unselfish interest in Scott county as a whole.

Your vote will be appreciated.
I thank you,

(Signed) JOHN J. MILLER
